REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

REVISED ADVERTISEMENT.

A Dictionary of the Economic Products of India

BY DR. GEO. WATT, C.I.E.

Reporter on Economic Products.

Published under the authority of the Government of India in the Revenue and Agricultural Department.

The first five volumes of this work are now ready for issue, and intending subscribers are invited to register their names with the Superintendent of Government Printing, Calcutta.

The first five volumes and Vol. VI, Part I, of the Dictionary are now ready at the Office of Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is Rs 45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, for which a separate charge will be made): packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume; for England, Rs. 2-6 per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, Rs. 6 and 8 shillings, respectively, will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets; &c. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks, and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal octavo pages; Vol. II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Vol. III contains the letters D, E, F and half of G. Vol IV latter half of G to middle of L; and Vol. V contains the latter half of L to end of O; Vol. VI, which will consist of four parts) Part I contains letters P to R. The whole work will, it is expected, be completed in nine volumes (including Parts II to IV of Vol. VI) during the current year; but a tenth volume may also be issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index will practically be a Glossary of the vernacular and European names of the plants, animals and minerals of India, and as such will be a work of reference, which, it is hoped, may prove of considerable value.

Warehouse not to be used till licensed.

4. From and after the commencement of this Act, no building or place shall be used as a warehouse, unless the owner or occupier thereof shall have previously obtained a license from the Commissioners for such use under this Act.

License of previously licensed building or place.

5. The owner or occupier of any building or place for which there is in existence at the commencement of this Act a license granted under the Jute Warehouse and Fire-brigade Act of 1872 or 1879, or the Licensed Warehouse and Fire-brigade Act of 1883, shall, upon application in writing to the Chairman of the Commissioners, be entitled to obtain a license from the Commissioners therefor as a warehouse under this Act, subject to the payment to the Commissioners of such annual fee as is hereinafter provided.

License of new warehouse.

6. Any person proposing to use any building or place as a warehouse within the area to which this Act applies or may hereafter be extended, and who, at the commencement of this Act, does not hold such license under any of the said aforementioned previous Acts, shall, with his application for a license therefor, send to the Chairman of the Commissioners a plan in duplicate of such building or place prepared on a scale of 8 feet to the inch, and showing—

(a) the boundaries of such building or place;

(b) the position of the engines and furnaces used or proposed to be used in the warehouse;

(c) the space, if any, which has been reserved for the loading and unloading of carts thereat:

and thereupon it shall be within the discretion of the Chairman of the Commissioners to grant a license from the Commissioners therefor as a warehouse under this Act, subject to the payment to the Commissioners of such annual fee as is hereinafter provided, or to refuse a license for the same:

Provided that when a license is refused, the reason for such refusal shall be recorded in writing.

Period for disposal of application for license.

7. Every application for a license under the last preceding section shall be disposed of within thirty days from the date of its being received by the Chairman of the Commissioners, and if not disposed of within that period, the applicant shall not be liable to any penalties under this Act for the use, after the expiration of the said period of thirty days, of the building or place as a warehouse in respect of which such application shall have been made, so long as such application is not finally refused by an order in writing under the hand of the Chairman of the Commissioners setting forth the grounds for such refusal.

Term and conditions of license.

8. Licenses under section six of this Act may be granted either permanently or for such term of years as the Chairman of the Commissioners shall think fit, and shall be subject to the following conditions, namely:—

(1) that the warehouse shall at all times be open to the inspection of an officer appointed by the Commissioner of Police. Such officer shall be a member of the Fire-brigade, but shall not be a member of any Police Force:

Provided also that the owner or occupier of adjacent warehouses and the godowns, yards or compounds auxiliary to such warehouses shall not be bound to take out more than one license in respect of such warehouses, godowns, yards and compounds.

Change in occupation of warehouse to be notified.

11. Whenever and so often as a change in the occupation of any warehouse occurs, the person entering into occupation of the same shall, within two weeks of his so entering into occupation, give notice in writing to the Chairman of the

Commissioners of such change of occupation, and shall thereupon pay to the Commissioners a fee of five rupees; and his name shall accordingly be substituted in the license in respect of such warehouse for the name of the last occupier.

Chairman may apply to Magistrate to suspend license of warehouse.

Magistrate may cancel or suspend license.

Rates may also be levied to provide for cost of fire-brigade.

Provided that the rate payable by any owner or occupier in respect of any building or place under this clause shall not exceed one hundred rupees;

NOTICE TO MARINERS—No. 159.

[First Publication.]

CHINA—PE CHILI STRAIT—MIAU TAU ISLANDS.

Dangerous sunken rock eastward of Toki Tau.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 262 of 1893) of the existence of a dangerous sunken rock, named Tsen leang shu, about 30 yards in extent, with about 12 feet on it at low water, lying in the fairway among Miau tau islands, with the centre of Sha mo tau in line with Siau chu shan summit, bearing S. 11° E., and Toki tau peak (613 feet) N. 63° W., distant 3 miles.

Close around Tsen leang shu there are depths of 8 fathoms, rocky ground, and beyond, 12 to 14 fathoms over hard mud; the state of the sea and a breaking tide rip prevented the least water on it being obtained. The fisherman on Toki tau state that it is a small pinnacle rock, with not more than 12 feet on it at low water, and from appearances this statement is considered trustworthy.

Approximate position, lat. 38° 9′ N., long. 120° 50′ E.

PRATAPA CHANDRA GHOSHA,
Registrar of Companies.

The 26th April 1893.

RESOLUTION ON THE INLAND EMIGRATION REPORT FOR THE YEAR 1892.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT, EMIGRATION No. 343T.—G.

Darjeeling, the 30th June 1893.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The Report of the Superintendent of Emigration, Calcutta, on Inland Emigration for the year 1892.

1. Dr. Macleod's Report on Inland Emigration, which has been submitted with punctuality, gives an account of the recruitment of contractors' and sardari coolies to the labour districts on the lines usually followed in these reports. A special feature of the present report is the introduction of a section dealing with free emigration, which brings together a considerable amount of useful information collected by District Officers on a subject ordinarily beyond the reach of official statistics.

Recruitment.

2. Under the licensed contractors' system of recruitment, there were 7 licensed contractors in 1892, against 6 in the previous year. In 1892, 31 recruiters licensed on behalf of these contractors, registered 4,712 immigrants as compared with 8,754 immigrants registered in the previous year by 47 recruiters. Under the certificated garden sardars' system, 3,609 sardars and 163 sardarnis registered 13,408 immigrants, the corresponding numbers in 1891 being 10,859 immigrants registered by 1,733 sardars and 61 sardarnis. In last year's Resolution, the Lieutenant-Governor observed the tendency towards an expansion of the contract system, accompanied by a falling off in the number of garden sardars. The figures given above seem to indicate a tendency to revert to the sardari form of recruitment as a means of obtaining labour for the labour districts. The reasons which have induced garden managers to double the number of sardars employed are not very apparent, and the Lieutenant-Governor will be glad to receive any further information which the Superintendent may be able to supply on this subject. The system of free emigration, authorized by section 7 of the Inland Emigration Act I of 1882 is reported to have been extensively resorted to, and is said to have been liable to many abuses. This subject has largely engaged the attention of Government during the past year, and the adoption of executive measures for the prevention of malpractices in the recruitment of free emigrants has been recognized as a necessity. Revised rules under Act I (B.C.) of 1889 dealing with the question have been drafted, and are now under the consideration of the Government of India.

Statistics.

3. The following statements show in a concise form the chief statistics of the despatch to Assam, Sylhet, and Cachar of emigrants under the contract, sardari, and free systems :—

* This number includes the emigrants from Goalundo who were embarked at Dhubri, † From the total, 48,891, has been deducted the number re-embarked at Dhubri.

Comparing these figures with the figures for recruitment given in the preceding paragraph, the following statement traces the history of coolies recruited under the contractors' and sardari systems from the time of their recruitment until their disembarkation:—

Class.	Emigrants recruited.		Emigrants embarked.		Emigrants disembarked.
	1891.	1892.	1891.	1892.	1891.	1892.
Contractors' ...	8,754	4,712	7,381	4,162	7,316	4,150
Sardari ...	10,859	13,408	10,448	14,123	10,386	14,031
Total ...	19,613	18,120	17,829	18,285	17,702	18,181

The total number of emigrants registered in 1892, under the emigration Act I of 1882 was 18,120 against 19,613 in 1891. The total number embarked, including those registered in the previous year, but not embarked until the year under review, was 18,285 as compared with 17,829 in 1891, while the number disembarked was 18,181 against 17,702 in 1891. Between registration and embarkation the total number of casualties was 836 or 4·6 per cent., against 1,352 or 6·8 per cent. of the previous year. During the passage the casualties among contractors' coolies were 12 and among sardari coolies (making allowance for 3 births which occurred) 95, the percentage being 0·2 and 0·6 respectively, against 0·8 and 0·5 in 1891. Among the 34,400 free emigrants shown in the statements above to have been embarked, 81 casualties occurred. The figures for free emigrants are, however, known to be inaccurate, and the Superintendent has no doubt that a much larger number of free emigrants was imported than has been ascertained.

4. The Lieutenant-Governor observes with satisfaction that the Medical Inspector of Emigrants again reports favourably on the licensed contractors' depôts in Calcutta.

Health.

Dr. McConnell states that the depôt buildings were kept in good and serviceable condition by the contractors, and that great attention has been paid to conservancy and general sanitation. No complaint was made to the Inspector as regards either the quantity or the quality of the food supplied to the emigrants, and the water-supply is said to be excellent. The percentages of sickness and mortality to total population were 2·3 per cent. and 5·7 per mille respectively, as compared with 2·7 per cent. and 2·1 per mille in the preceding year. Thus, although the percentage of sickness was slightly less, the mortality was considerably higher than in 1891. Of the 27 deaths, 9 were due to cholera, and 13 were of infants or young children.

5. The Embarkation Agent and Medical Inspector at Goalundo has given a satisfactory account of the depôts for the accommodation of emigrants at that place. As regards the arrangements at Dhubri, information is furnished to the Assam Administration and is not available for the present report.

6. Of the 3,329 contractors' coolies embarked for Assam, 4 died between Goalundo and Assam, while 5 deaths occurred among the 833 embarked for Sylhet and Cachar. These figures compare favourably with those of the previous year.

7. On the other hand the figures of mortality among sardari emigrants who travelled viâ Goalundo do not compare so favourably with those of 1891. Of these, 12,815 left the districts of recruitment in charge of certificated garden sardars. During the journey to Goalundo 11 died, the total number of casualties, including desertions and those left behind, being 113. Prior to embarkation 30 more casualties and 2 births occurred, leaving 12,677 emigrants to embark, of whom 12,668 actually embarked before the close of the year. Among the 8,067 who embarked for Assam, 58 casualties occurred, the percentage being 0·71 against 0·56 in the previous year; 43 emigrants died from cholera and 8 from other causes, making a death-rate of 0·63 against 0·53 in 1891. Of the 4,601 sardari emigrants embarked for Sylhet and Cachar, 6 deserted and 24 died, the total casualties being 30. Of the 24 deaths 19 were due to cholera. The percentage of mortality was 0·52 compared with 0·88 in 1891.

8. It is stated that 25,904 free emigrants embarked at Goalundo against 18,397 in 1891. Of these, 20 are reported to have died between Goalundo and Assam, none between Goalundo and Sylhet, and only 2 between Goalundo and Cachar. These returns, however, are of doubtful accuracy and can scarcely be accepted as representing the real facts.

9. All sardari emigrants and free emigrants, who do not avail themselves of the Goalundo route, proceed direct to Dhubri for embarkation for the labour districts in Assam. The number of sardari emigrants who adopted the Dhubri route was 1,457. Of these 9 died on the journey to Dhubri, and at Dhubri 3 more deaths occurred. Other casualties occurred, and a number of emigrants remained undisposed of at the close of the previous year, so that altogether 1,455 actually embarked. During the voyage 7 deaths, all due to cholera, occurred, giving a death-rate of 0·48. The percentage of mortality among the 23,062 free emigrants who embarked at Dhubri is said to have been 0·23 only.

Administrative.

10. The Superintendent alludes in his report to three administrative measures which were carried out during the year. The first two of these related to the amendment of the rules with a view to ensuring the supply of warm clothing to emigrants while travelling to the labour districts, and to facilitating the vaccination of unprotected emigrants. The third measure referred to was the issue of an important notification by the Government of Madras, extending, with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, the provisions of the Inland Emigration Act I of 1882 to the district of Ganjam with effect from the 1st of April 1892.

Departmental.

11. Dr. R. Macleod, who was confirmed in the appointment of Superintendent of Emigration on 29th March 1892, held charge of the duties of that office throughout the year. The thanks of the Lieutenant-Governor are due to him for the present report, and for the efficient manner in which he has looked after the interests of emigrants during the year.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

H. H. RISLEY,

Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT OF THE SANITARY COMMISSIONER, BENGAL, FOR THE YEAR 1892.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT—SANITATION.

Dated Darjeeling, the 1st July 1893.

RESOLUTION No. 2223S.

READ—

The Report of the Sanitary Commissioner, Bengal, for the year 1892.

The Report for the year 1891, and the Resolution recorded upon it.

1. The Sanitary Commissioner of Bengal may be compared to a skilled workman labouring with indifferent tools which break in the using. Few of his deductions have hitherto been accepted without the reservation that the figures on which they are based were unreliable. It cannot be said that the figures with which the Sanitary Commissioner deals in the report under review are free from error, but a decided improvement is visible in the registration of vital statistics during the year, due chiefly to the change of system introduced from 1st January 1892, by which the work of registration was conducted entirely by the agency of the Police, and births were registered for the first time, not only in urban, but also in rural areas. The appendices to the report contain therefore, for the first time, figures for births and deaths in each registration circle, and the Lieutenant-Governor desires to call the attention of all local bodies to these interesting and valuable statements in which, however, the shortcomings of many circles are clearly demonstrated.

Vital statistics.

2. The number of towns in which births were registered in 1892 was 145, with a population of 2,768,381, as compared with 141 towns having a population of 2,716,424 in the previous year. The number of births recorded was 70,088, giving a ratio of 25·31 per mille of the population, against 58,317, or a ratio of 21·46 per mille, in the previous year. After making every allowance for the fact that towns (though many of these areas hardly deserve the title) always show a smaller birth-rate than rural areas, on account of the larger proportion of males which they contain, it is impossible to doubt that these figures are far below the mark. The highest results were returned by the towns of Siwan, Jamui, and Sasaram, in all of which the recorded birth-rate exceeded 40 per mille, and 19 other town areas, of which 9 are in the Patna Division and only 4 in Bengal, give a rate of 35 per mille or more: in 1891 only 10 towns exceeded this rate. The good results obtained in Siwan (47·71) show clearly how great an improvement can be effected by the exercise of care and attention on the part of the local authorities, and the Lieutenant-Governor expects that this care and attention shall be accorded: no municipality will be considered to be working satisfactorily in which so important a branch of the administration is neglected. In 5 towns, viz., Nasirabad, Darjeeling, Jessore, Nalchiti, and Jhalokati, the rate recorded was below 10 per mille, and in 36 towns it ranged between 10 and 20 per mille. In the towns of Baruipur, Birnagar, Jessore, Mohespur, Chanduria, Sherpur, Kurseong, Muktagacha, and Malda, the number of births recorded during the year was below 100, while in Nalchiti only 14 births were recorded and in Jhalokati only 11. This means that registration in these towns was practically neglected.

Registration of births. Towns.

3. The total number of births recorded in rural areas was 1,911,872, giving a birth-rate of 28·27 per thousand, which, though naturally better than the result in town areas, is still doubtless inaccurate. Out of the 558 rural circles which profess to register births, only 27 have returned birth-rates exceeding 40 per mille. In the rural circles of Serampore, Barrackpore, and Patna, the number of births registered during the year was below 100, while in that of Nawabganj only 22 infants are said to have been born. The absurdity of such figures is patent on the face of them, and it is aggravated by the fact that they occur in places which, though within reach of intelligent supervision, can never have received it.

Ditto. Rural areas.

Births according to sex.

4. In both town and rural areas together, the male births numbered 1,032,902, and the female births 949,058, being 108 male births to every 100 female births, against a ratio of 110 in the previous year. These figures confirm the indication afforded by the previous paragraph, viz., that the deficiency is greatest in the registration of the births of female infants. The census figures for 1891 show that in that year the proportion of female children living to every 1,000 male infants under five years of age was 1,086. Assuming, for the sake of argument, that the mortality among infants of both sexes is equal up to that age, and that the registration of male births in 1892 was correct, these figures lead to the inference that there was a deficiency in the registration of female births of 17 per cent., and that the true number was not 949,058, but 1,115,534. This correction, if accurate, raises the birth-rate for both sexes to 30·5 per mille—a figure still low, but nearer the truth than 28·15.

5. Compared with the statistics elsewhere, the birth-rate in Bengal was lower than in any Province in India, with the exception of Madras and Burma, as the following figures will show:—

Bengal	28·15	Punjab	38·16
Madras	25·1	Central Provinces ...	38·39
Bombay	34·57	Assam	31·05
North-West Provinces...	36·17	Burma	23·07

True birth-rate.

These ratios show how deficient birth registration is in Bengal relatively to other Provinces, and of its absolute deficiency there can be as little doubt. The Bengal Census Report of 1881 showed, with much apparent probability, that the birth-rate of the Province was "not less than 45 per mille," and this conclusion was confirmed by the conclusions of an English statistician, Mr. Hardy, to whom the census figures and the vital statistics of the Province were submitted in London. After introducing the necessary corrections deduced from a careful examination of a small body of reliable figures, Mr. Hardy evolved a birth-rate of 47·9 per mille. If this conclusion is accepted, the birth registration of 1892 was nearly 20 per mille below the truth.

Registration of deaths.

6. In 1892 the total number of deaths registered throughout the Lower Provinces, in town and rural areas together, was 2,247,275 as compared with 1,896,261 in 1891, giving an annual death-rate of 31·92 and 26·94 respectively. From the statistics given in paragraph 4 of the Sanitary Commissioner's report, it appears that the highest death-rate recorded is 49·48 per mille in the Punjab, and the rates in the other Provinces were as follow:—Assam 34·21, the Central Provinces 34·14, the North-West Provinces 34·11, and Bombay 32·50, while Madras and Burma show only 22 3 and 18·83. The true rate for Bengal, estimated by Mr. Bourdillon in 1881, was "about 34 per mille," and by Mr. Hardy 39·9, being 41·7 for males and 38·0 for females. The sex ratios recorded in Bengal in 1892 were 34·15 and 29·72 per mille respectively. The figures in paragraph 4 go to show that in Bengal the number of female births exceeds that of males, and in consequence the number of deaths should be in excess also, especially as a considerable proportion of the males born in Bengal die outside the Province. The proved longevity of females is a factor to be counted with on the other side of the argument; but, even after giving full weight to this consideration, it is clear that the deaths of females are badly reported.

Deaths in towns.

7. The recorded death-rate in urban circles increased from 27·28 to 33·57, and that in rural circles from 26·93 to 31·85. In towns the figures recorded ranged between 59·31 at Muzaffarpur and 14·52 in Tangail. In no less than 41 out of the 145 towns there was a falling off in the number of deaths reported. In 60 towns, as against 34 in 1891, the rate was above 35, while in the towns of Madaripur,

Dinapore, South Subarban, Serájganj, Muktagacha, Vishunpur, Darjeeling, Cossipore-Chitpur, Nalchiti, Kishorganj, and Tangail the recorded death-rate was below 20 per thousand, which shows unmistakeably that the work of registration in those towns was very much neglected.

Deaths in rural areas.

8. The districts whose rural areas show the highest mortality are Backergunge (43·88), Balasore (43·78), Jessore (42·30), Darjeeling (41·73), Rajshahi (40·99). Nine others, viz., Champaran, Palamau, Cuttack, Puri, Muzaffarpur, Lohardaga, Monghyr, Pabna, and Nadia, have rates above 35 per mille, and in 16 more they exceed 30 per mille. In most of those districts the higher death-rates denote increased mortality, but in some it is doubtless due to better registration. Balasore, Cuttack, and Puri suffered severely from cholera, as did Muzaffarpur, Backergunge, and Nadia to a less extent. Fever was very fatal in Rajshahi, Jalpaiguri, and Jessore, while the position on the list of Darjeeling is due to a combination of fever and dysentery. Turning to smaller units than the district, some rural areas have reported a mortality which should have been noticed by the Sanitary Commissioner. In 90 instances the rates reported are between 40 and 50 per mille, and in 21 others they exceeded 50 per thousand. The worst cases are those mentioned in the margin, and the figures represent so heavy a mortality that the Lieutenant-Governor must ask for a further report showing to what the high death-rate was due in each case, and what steps were taken to abate the ravages of diseases both at the time or since.

Infant mortality.

9. The insanitary conditions, according to Western ideas, under which native children are brought into the world, and the constitutional weakness of infants born of parents frequently immature, cause year by year a lamentable mortality among infants under one year old. In 1892 the death-rate was higher than usual, being 168·29 per mille, against 132·95 in 1891, and 113·52, the average of the quinquennium 1887—91: part of the increase is doubtless due to better registration.

Death-rate from various causes.

10. The following statement shows separately the death-rate from the principal diseases during the year, compared with that of the previous year and the quinquennium 1887—91:—

Causes of death.	In 1892, per mille.			In 1891, per mille.			In 1887—91, per mille.
	Urban.	Rural.	Combined.	Urban.	Rural.	Combined.	Urban.	Rural.	Combined.
Cholera	5·05	3 62	·68	4·54	3·20	3 26	3·33	2·30	2·34
Small-pox	·48	·31	·31	·48	·22	·23	·32	·12	·13
Fever	18·57	23·01	22·84	12·55	19·21	18·94	10·45	16·61	16·37
Dysentery and diarrhœa	2·87	·59	·68	2·67	·52	·61	2·51	·62	·69
Injury	·44	·39	·39	·47	·41	·41	·44	·40	·40
Other causes ...	6 13	3·91	4·00	6·54	3·35	3·47	5·62	3·10	3·20
All causes	33 57	31·85	31·92	27·28	26·93	26·94	22·69	23·18	23 16

The most noticeable aspect of these figures is the increased mortality due to cholera and fever. The causes assigned are the excessively insanitary condition of the towns, and in rural areas defective drainage and bad drinking water, and, no doubt, these are the true causes. They are susceptible of remedy with money and systematic effort. How the money is to be provided, and what the sanitary organization should be for rural areas, are points to which reference will presently be made; here the Officiating Lieutenant-Governor would say that as sanitary improvements are expensive and not always acceptable to the people, it behoves all local authorities to concentrate their efforts on that improvement which is never unacceptable, never misunderstood, and never ineffectual in preventing disease. That improvement is the provision of good drinking water: other expensive sanitary measures can wait.

Cholera.

11. During the year 259,398 deaths from cholera were recorded, against 229,575 in 1891, which again was the worst year since 1876: the average of the five years 1887—91 was 165,172. It is probable that the excess is largely due to improved registration, but at the same time there is no doubt that there was a real increase of the disease in 1892, due in many districts to the deficient rainfall in the earlier months of the year, which caused wells and tanks everywhere to run dry and drove the people to drink impure water. The disease visited every district and attacked altogether, with more or less severity, 24,553 villages. The prevalence of cholera during every month of the year, its seasonal incidence, and its comparative prevalence in each district in Bengal in 1892, have been illustrated by the Sanitary Commissioner in a series of carefully prepared and interesting diagrams. The most remarkable feature in the cholera history of the year is the excessive mortality in the Orissa Division, which was comparatively free from the disease in 1891, and the immunity of Purnea, Rangpur, and Jalpaiguri, which suffered severely in that year. The ratio of deaths from cholera in the Balasore district, where it was very clearly attributable not to pilgrim infection, but to the deficiency of water, was no less than 15·0 per thousand; in Puri it was 11·30, and in Cuttack it was 10·98. The districts which suffered least were Purnea, Dinajpur, Bogra, Rangpur, Malda, Darjeeling, and Jalpaiguri, where the registered mortality was 282, 298, 160, 593, 336, 132, and 408 respectively. The extracts from the Civil Surgeons' reports given by the Sanitary Commissioner throw no new light on the etiology of the disease, though, in the graphic report of Dr. Kelly, the Civil Medical Officer of the Sonthal Parganas, the genesis of the disease in several striking cases is clearly demonstrated. The localities affected were invariably found to be in an insanitary condition, the water-supply impure and insufficient, and the inhabitants frequently predisposed to disease, being enfeebled by exposure and scanty and unwholesome food.

Small-pox.

12. The mortality from small-pox during 1892 is the highest on record since 1882. The total number of deaths reported to have occurred from this disorder was 22,359 or ·31 per mille, against 16,193 or ·23 per mille in 1891, and an average ratio of ·14 per mille for the nine years 1882 to 1890. As in 1891, the disease was most prevalent in Puri, Cuttack, Lohardaga, and Midnapore, where vaccination is said to have not made much progress owing to the strong prejudices of the people. The largest number of deaths occurred among children under six years of age. The floating population of Calcutta continued to enjoy great immunity from the disease. A great development of vaccination is anticipated by the Sanitary Commissioner from the new arrangements sanctioned during the year, by which the Civil Surgeon has now full control over these operations in each district: it is obviously too soon yet for the scheme to have had any great effect.

Fever.

13. Fevers prevailed to a very large extent during the year under review, and proved more fatal than in any year within the past decade. The recorded mortality from this cause was 1,607,716, or a ratio of 22·84 per mille of the population under registration, against 1,333,395, or a ratio of 18·94 per mille in 1891, and the Sanitary Commissioner points out that the death-rate is steadily increasing, for it was 15·17 per thousand for the last ten years and 16·37 for the last five. The high death-rate of 1892, which is nearly three-fourths of the entire death-rate of the province, is again attributed chiefly to impeded drainage and bad water supply. The districts in which the mortality was highest were Rajshahi (37·13), Jessore (34·17), Jalpaiguri (33·37), Rangpur (31·38), Dinajpur (30·95), Malda (30·72), Palamau (29·49), Monghyr (29·15), Purnea (28·43), Champaran (27·93), Bhagalpur (27·49), Darjeeling (27·02), Hazaribagh (26·63), Backergunge (26·36), Muzaffarpur (26·29), and Nadia (25·84). The first six of these districts and Nadia were the seven most fever-striken districts in 1891 also. In Cuttack (14·84), Saran (14·01), Balasore (14·21), Singhbhum (13·24), Howrah (12·98), and Puri (6·71), the mortality was lowest. The comparative freedom of Orissa from fever is most providential, since, as has already been pointed out, this Division suffers severely from cholera and small-pox. The lowest mortality from fever, in the past as in previous years, occurred in the month of June, from which time it gradually rose till it reached its maximum during the drying up of the rains in November.

Fever mortality in the Terai.

14. The high rate of fever mortality in the Jalpaiguri and Darjeeling Terai has been brought out prominently in the present report, as desired in the Resolution for 1891, and the statistics furnished, especially those for the Darjeeling Terai, which have been carefully prepared and for which the thanks of Government are due to Surgeon-Lieutenant-Colonel E. G. Russell, the Civil Surgeon of Darjeeling, afford an interesting study of the comparative unhealthiness of the Terai and non-Terai regions. In the case of Jalpaiguri the statistics, owing to defective registration, are unreliable, and the Lieutenant-Governor hesitates to accept the conclusion drawn by the Civil Medical Officer, Dr. Ashe, that "the Duars enjoyed a greater immunity from fever." That fever is terribly prevalent in the Terai, the region of malaria, is indisputable, and the following figures furnished by Dr. Russell for the Darjeeling district show this conclusively:—

Name of subdivision.	Deaths per 1,000 from fever in 1892.
Darjeeling—non-Terai	20·8
Kurseong—Midway	26·1
Siliguri—Terai	41·7

Not the least important of the statistics submitted by Dr. Russell are those which show the mortality from fever as compared with that from other causes in the various tea-gardens in the Terai. The extraordinarily high death-rates from fever in certain gardens seem to point to the necessity for closer supervision in regard to the wants of the labourers employed on them, and the attention of the Deputy Commissioners of Jalpaiguri and Darjeeling will be specially drawn to the facts and figures in paragraph 38 of the Sanitary Commissioner's Report. The matter attracted the notice of the Lieutenant-Governor some time since, and orders have already issued prescribing the regular submission of death reports from all tea estates as well as other registering circles: the Lieutenant-Governor hopes that a careful discharge of this important duty will justify the concessions which Sir Charles Elliott allowed the tea-planters of the Western Duars in respect of the appointment of chaukidars.

Mortality from other causes.

15. The mortality from dysentery and diarrhœa, injury, and other causes was 48,491, 27,704, and 281,607 respectively, against 43,183, 29,283, and 244,692 in 1891. As usual, Darjeeling suffered most from dysentery and diarrhœa, Balasore, Puri, Howrah, and Lohardaga coming next.

Expenditure on urban sanitation.

16. The total amount expended by municipalities on sanitation during 1892, exclusive of the amount spent on the maintenance of roads, whose connection with sanitation is sometimes very slender, was Rs. 14,78,714, against Rs. 13,37,569 in 1891, showing a total advance of Rs. 1,41,145. The figures are given below:—

Head of Expenditure.	Total expenditure.		Difference.

Total, including roads ...	19,81,829	17,89,891	1,91,938	...

Out of nearly 15 lakhs of rupees spent on sanitation, only a lakh and a half are shown against water-supply. That does not seem to Sir Antony MacDonnell to be an adequate or satisfactory allotment; and he trusts that Municipal Commissioners will take this matter into their serious consideration. In his opinion, by far the most important object of municipal administration is the provision of a good water-supply for the people of the town.

17. The town in which the largest proportion of municipal income was devoted to original sanitary works was Faridpur (48·64), while, on the other hand, in 44 municipalities nothing at all was spent under this head. The town in which the largest portion of municipal income was devoted to sanitary works of an annually recurring nature was Nasirabad (67·05) and the lowest place is taken by Joynagar (4·41).

Rural sanitation.

18. In Appendix IV is given a list of sanitary works executed in towns and rural areas by District Boards and Municipalities, and by private individuals. The total cost of the works undertaken and completed by the several local bodies is said to be Rs. 3,34,658, while that of those in progress is estimated at Rs. 62,874. The total amount spent by private individuals on sanitary works was Rs. 3,19,469, the most important work undertaken being the construction of water-works at Nasirabad in the Mymensingh district by Raja Surja Kanta Acharjya, Bahadur, at a cost of Rs. 1,42,764. On the subject of rural sanitation Dr. Gregg remarks as follows:—

"Rural sanitation is unknown in these provinces. No attention whatever is paid to conservancy or water-supply, and stagnant ponds are allowed to exhale miasma everywhere. The people are cleanly enough as regards their persons and the interior of their houses, but the surroundings of their villages are often appallingly filthy. This has been and continues to be pointed out to them as the cause of their unhealthiness, but it seems to be of no use talking, and of still less use writing pamphlets for their guidance; they are perfectly happy, though unhealthy, in the midst of their insanitary surroundings, and will not voluntarily exert themselves in the slightest to attend to the most simple sanitary precautions. Wells are dug for them and tanks are excavated, but they will not set them apart for special purposes, and obstinately use the water of the same tank for washing their persons and bathing their bodies, and washing their clothes and bathing and watering their cattle, and cleaning their utensils, and for drinking and culinary purposes. So long as this utter disregard continues, there must be a large amount of sickness, disease and death in our villages. Doubtless an improvement in this as in other respects will take place with the spread and advancement of education, but until then no real reform can, I am afraid, be effected unless the panchayat or village headmen are vested with authority to prosecute residents for non-compliance with sanitary regulations. It is manifestly beyond the powers of District or Local Boards to carry such measures into execution."

If this be a true description of the sanitary condition of Bengal villages, as it undoubtedly is, and if the District and Local Boards are impotent to deal with the situation, as they confessedly are, then the time has come to strengthen the hands of these bodies and provide that village organisation without which rural sanitation is beyond our reach. The sanitary question in Bengal, in its various phases of silting-up deltaic rivers, obstructed drainage, uncleanly towns and unhealthy villages, is the pressing question of the day, and the solution will not grow easier by being postponed.

19. To the great subject of drainage the Officiating Lieutenant-Governor will make no further reference here, though he will not overlook it; but in regard to village sanitation he wishes to say that the time has surely come to call into existence those village Unions which were specially devised in the Local Self-Government Act to deal with such simple matters as the provision of pure drinking-water for the villagers and the maintenance of the village site in a cleanly state. In every other Province of the Empire action has been taken in this direction; in Bengal alone no adequate effort has yet been made to promote rural sanitation.

20. It is true that the funds at the disposal of District Committees and Local Boards are, at present, not always adequate to meet existing requirements. The case of primary education may be specially instanced as illustrating the deficiency of existing funds. And it would be wrong to expect these funds to supply the money necessary for more than the experimental beginnings of a scheme of village sanitation. It seems also hopeless to expect that adequate assistance can be given from Provincial Funds, which are strained to meet Provincial responsibilities, as will appear from the budget estimates laid before the Bengal Legislative Council last March. If anything real and effectual, then, is to be done for the sanitation of Bengal villages, it will not do merely to call Village Unions into existence, indispensable a measure though this may be; we must also devise means to provide these Unions with the wherewithal to work.

The Officiating Lieutenant-Governor does not on this occasion offer to the public any scheme for providing the necessary funds for an efficient system of village sanitation for Bengal, Bihar and Orissa, though he hopes to take an early opportunity of putting forth certain considerations by which public opinion may be directed into channels likely to lead to some tangible and practical results. His object is to place before the public the urgent necessity which exists for action, and to invite criticism as to the direction in which action can best be taken both in regard to the provision of funds and to the general character of the sanitary improvements to be effected. On both points he has indeed formed some provisional views; but these are liable to alteration with reference to the opinions with which he expects to be favoured on this important question.

The Sanitary Board.

22. Owing to the frequent absence of some of the members on tour, the Sanitary Board was not able to hold more than one formal meeting during the year. Much business was, however, done in an informal way. The most important subjects which came under their consideration were the drainage and water-supply of the town of Pabna, and the drainage of the towns of Dinajpur and Jamalpur. Rough estimates were also prepared of schemes for draining the towns of Meherpur and Bettiah. A survey for the drainage of the town of Serampore has been completed, and similar schemes for the towns of Burdwan and Monghyr are being worked out. A survey of the town of Howrah for the same purpose is still in progress. Besides these projects, the Sanitary Board helped in the preparation of drainage schemes for Bally and Uttarpara, and gave their advice to municipalities on various projects, notably on the large scheme for the supply of filtered water to the town of Arrah. In fact the number of projects for water-supply and drainage proposed by Municipal Commissioners and District Boards became so numerous during the year that the Lieutenant-Governor found it necessary to define the duties of the Sanitary Board with regard to the preparation of such projects, and precise instructions on the subject have been issued. If any large plan of rural sanitation is to be undertaken, as has been now suggested, Sir Antony MacDonnell thinks that it will be desirable to broaden the constitution of the Sanitary Board, and bring it more into touch with local bodies.

Inspections.

23. The Sanitary Commissioner inspected 35 municipalities during the year against 48 in the previous year, and on 10 out of these 35 Municipalities he wrote inspection reports. A statement has been furnished by him showing the amount of inspection done by the Deputy Sanitary Commissioners and the Deputy Superintendents of Vaccination. Some of these officers failed to reach the standard of inspection prescribed by the Government of India in reviewing the report for 1889, but the omission is justified in each case.

Conclusion.

24. The Officiating Lieutenant-Governor has perused with satisfaction the remarks recorded by the Sanitary Commissioner on the work performed by Mr. G. C. Stawell, the Engineer to the Sanitary Board, and by his Personal Assistant, Mr. A. A. Price, and other subordinates. The thanks of Government are due to Dr. Gregg for the punctuality with which his report has been submitted, and for the good work he has accomplished in spite of the ill-health from which he suffered for nearly five months of the year.

Explanation.—... indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 0·1 inches of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 4th July 1893.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M SATURDAY, THE 1st OF JULY 1893.

THE weather during the week in Bengal, as well as over the north of the Bay, has been influenced by the depression which, at the end of the previous week, had developed in South-West Bengal and moved into East Bengal. It remained stationary in East Bengal from the 24th to the 25th, the first day of the present week, and then, after a slight increase of intensity, began to move to the west. On the 26th the centre was between Jessore and Faridpur; on the 27th between Ranchi and Hazaribagh; and on the 28th, owing to its westward motion and the rapid recovery of pressure, all trace of it had disappeared. During these days the weather in Lower Bengal and the north of the Bay was necessarily unsettled, as the depth of the depression was considerable, defect being about ·3 inch in the area of lowest pressure. But though the depression was practically in one position for about four days, and gradients were steep over the Bay, the increase of wind velocity was inconsiderable.

The quantity of rain, however, was unusually large in places, and except during the latter half of the week, when only very partial showers fell in Orissa and South-West Bengal, the rainfall was general in all districts. The heaviest rainfall occurred in East and South-West Bengal and Chota Nagpur during the formation and passage of the depression. In Singhbhum and Manbhum especially the falls were very heavy, and the average for the whole of Chota Nagpur is two and a half times the normal.

During the westward motion of the depression pressure changes were unusually large, and by the 28th the distribution of pressure was slightly above the normal except in part of Chota Nagpur and Bihar. The rise of pressure continued almost till the end of the week. During the latter half there was excess of between ·1 inch and ·15 inch in Lower Bengal and the north of the Bay, so that gradients were not so steep as usual, and a period of calm weather commenced, especially in the south and east of the Bay.

During these last three days ordinary monsoon weather prevailed in Bengal. The usual wind circulation obtained, general though not heavy rain was falling except in the south-western districts and also in the extreme north-east. In the former rain had almost stopped, while in the latter it was at times excessive. On Saturday, the 1st of July, Buxa reported 15·1 inches, and earlier in the week Kalimpong received 9·5 inches in the course of one day. The total fall for the week in Buxa is 27·42, in Kalimpong 18·19, and in Darjeeling 15·92 inches.

Pressure was below the normal everywhere in the early part of the week by amounts varying up to ·3 inch. The rise commenced on the 26th in the extreme east, continued very rapidly in the eastern half of the province on the 27th, and over the whole province, but especially in Chota Nagpur, on the 28th. The rise went on slowly almost till the end of of the week. Owing to the large defect in the early part of the week, mean pressure for the week is below the normal by about ·02 inch.

Temperature was fairly high in Assam, North Bengal and part of North Bihar in the early part of the week, but in the other districts it remained steadily below the normal. The means for the week in the large divisions are all below the normal. Defect is small in Assam, and between 1° and 2° in North Bengal and North Bihar. In the other districts it varies from 3° in Orissa to nearly 5° in Chota Nagpur.

Rainfall has been general and at times heavy in all districts except Orissa and part of South-West Bengal. East Bengal and Chota Nagpur on an average have received more than 6 inches, South-West Bengal and North Bengal more than 4 inches, North Bihar 3 38 inches, and Orissa and South Bihar between 2 and 3 inches. The fall in Orissa is deficient by 0·5 inch, and in the other districts there is excess of variable amounts up to nearly 4 inches in Chota Nagpur and South-West Bengal.

As in the last week, a large proportion of the rain has fallen during thunder-storms, and amounts are in consequence more variable than is usual soon after the beginning of the monsoon. The very heavy falls, besides those mentioned above, are Kishanganj 15·93, Kaliaganj 11·2, Kushtia 11·34, Onda 10·42, Kurseong 10·77, Pedong 11·57, Cox's Bazar 11·17, Pirojpur 10·32, and Kalikapur 12·5 inches.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 1st of July 1893:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

o, overcast ; g, gloomy ; d, drizzling rain ; p, passing temporary showers.

NOTIFICATION No. 2437L.R.

The 10th July, 1893.—In supersession of Notification, No. 2263L.R., dated the 15th May, 1893, published at pages 460-462, Part I of the Calcutta Gazette of the 24th idem, and in continuation of the notification, dated the 17th June, 1890, and notification No. 4476L.R., dated the 27th December, 1892, published at pages 603-14 and 1170-71, Part I of the Calcutta Gazettes of the 18th June, 1890, and 28th December, 1892, respectively, the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to direct that the following rules shall be substituted for rules 12 to 17 of section A and rule 25 of section B of the Revenue Money-order Rules, Part III; and that the following form shall be substituted for the Form $\frac{2}{\text{R. M. O.}}$.

H. H. RISLEY,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

PART III.

PAYMENT OF REVENUE MONEY-ORDERS.

SECTION A.—Procedure in the Office of payment.

12. When the Revenue Money-orders are in all respects* ready to be handed over to the Postman, a list in triplicate† (Form $\frac{2}{\text{R. M. O.}}$) should be made out by the Money-order Clerk, and the entries in the money column of the list should be carefully totalled. The original copy of the list will take the place of the journal of Money-orders paid, the duplicate of the list will be sent to the Treasury under the procedure described below, and the triplicate of the list will be the list for the Comptroller. When the number of Revenue Money-orders for payment in one day is more than enough to fill a single sheet of Form $\frac{2}{\text{R. M. O.}}$, each sheet should be separately totalled, and a grand total should be made at the end of the last sheet of the list or on a separate sheet. The date stamp of the office of payment should be impressed in the space provided for it on the coupon (chalan) for each Money-order.

13. The Postmaster should then check the entries in the list with those on the Money-orders, and also check the total of the money column. He will then prepare a Treasury Voucher (Form A-c—12), representing the total value of the Money-orders as entered at the foot of the list.

* Only the total number and amount of Revenue Money-orders received for payment need be entered in the Register of Money-orders received. In order, however, that the record may be complete, it will be necessary to make a note in the last column of the Register whenever all the Revenue Money-orders received in one day are not included in the list of that date. For example, if in the Register of Money-orders received on the 5th July there are shown 500 Revenue Money-orders for Rs. 10,000, but 300 of these orders for Rs. 7,000 were received too late for inclusion in the list sent to the Collectorate on the 5th, there should be an entry in the last column of the Register in this form:—

200 for Rs. 3,000 included in list of 5th.
300 for Rs. 7,000 included in list of 6th.

† The duplicate and triplicate will be prepared by carbonic paper and a hard pencil must therefore be used in writing the list.

The amount represented by the Treasury Voucher will not be charged against the letter of credit, and will be paid quite independently of the balance of any letters of credit held by the Treasury in favour of the Post-office.

14. The money-orders, the duplicate copy of the list, and the Treasury Voucher duly filled up, should then be made over to the Postman for delivery at the Collectorate, the Postman's receipt for the documents being taken in the usual manner in the Register of Money-orders received.

15. The Postman will take the duplicate copy of the list, the Money-orders and the Treasury Voucher to the Treasury Officer, and will receive back from the Treasury Officer the Money-orders without the coupons and acknowledgments. The Postman will be careful to see that he receives back all the Money-orders, and that they are all duly receipted by the Treasury Officer.

16. The paid Money-orders received back from the Treasury will be examined by the Money-order Clerk in the same way as ordinary Money-orders, and checked in detail with the original list. The total amount of the Money-orders will then be entered in the journal of Money-orders paid by a single entry thus : "As per Revenue Money-order list Rs. A. P." The classification columns of the triplicate list will then be filled up and the Money-orders will be disposed of in the usual way.

17. The original and triplicate lists will be kept with the journal of Money-orders paid until the next list of ordinary Money-orders paid is sent to the Comptroller, when the corresponding list of Revenue Money-orders paid will also be sent, the paid Money-orders being arranged in order and attached to the lists. The original lists will then be filed, a separate file of original lists being kept with each journal of Money-orders paid, so that the dates of the journal and file of Revenue Money-order lists correspond.

SECTION B.—Procedure to be followed in the Collectorate.

25. On receipt in the Treasury of the duplicate copy of the list, the Money-orders, and Treasury Voucher, the Treasury Officer will check and compare the documents. If there is any error, he will return all the documents to the Post-Office with a note of the error or errors. When the documents are correct, the Treasury Officer will at once cut off the portion of each Money-order containing the coupon and acknowledgment, sign and date the Money-orders (as payee), and return the paid Money-orders to the Postman. The Treasury Officer will retain the lower portion of each Money-order, including the coupon and acknowledgment, the duplicate list of Money-orders (Form $\frac{2}{R.M.O.}$) and the Treasury Voucher. No Money-order received from the Post-office may be refused.

The acceptance of a Revenue Money-order after kist day is to be treated in the same manner as the receipt of a personal payment of revenue after kist day.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Licensed Warehouse and Fire-brigade Act, 1893.

(2) It applies to Calcutta, as defined by the Calcutta Municipal Consolidation Act, 1888, and to such portions of the Suburbs thereof as are for the time being subject to the operation of Bengal Act II of 1866; also to the municipality of Howrah and to any other municipality in the neighbourhood of Calcutta or Howrah, to which its provisions may be extended by an order of the Local Government to be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

(3) It shall come into force from the date on which it may be published in the Calcutta Gazette, with the assent of the Governor General.

Repeal.

2. (1) Act IV of 1883 is hereby repealed:

Saving clause.

CHAPTER II.

Licensed Warehouses.

Warehouse not to be used till licensed.

4. From and after the commencement of this Act, no building or place shall be used as a warehouse, unless the owner or occupier thereof shall have previously obtained a license from the Commissioners for such use under this Act.

License of previously licensed building or place.

5. The owner or occupier of any building or place for which there is in existence at the commencement of this Act a license granted under the Jute Warehouse and Fire-brigade Act of 1872 or 1879, or the Licensed Warehouse and Fire-brigade Act of 1883, shall, upon application in writing to the Chairman of the Commissioners, be entitled to obtain a license from the Commissioners therefor as a warehouse under this Act, subject to the payment to the Commissioners of such annual fee as is hereinafter provided.

License of new warehouse.

6. Any person proposing to use any building or place as a warehouse within the area to which this Act applies or may hereafter be extended, and who, at the commencement of this Act, does not hold such license under any of the said aforementioned previous Acts, shall, with his application for a license therefor, send to the Chairman of the Commissioners a plan in duplicate of such building or place prepared on a scale of 8 feet to the inch, and showing—

(a) the boundaries of such building or place;

(b) the position of the engines and furnaces used or proposed to be used in the warehouse;

(c) the space, if any, which has been reserved for the loading and unloading of carts thereat:

and thereupon it shall be within the discretion of the Chairman of the Commissioners to grant a license from the Commissioners therefor as a warehouse under this Act, subject to the payment to the Commissioners of such annual fee as is hereinafter provided, or to refuse a license for the same:

Provided that when a license is refused, the reason for such refusal shall be recorded in writing.

Period for disposal of application for license.

7. Every application for a license under the last preceding section shall be disposed of within thirty days from the date of its being received by the Chairman of the Commissioners, and if not disposed of within that period, the applicant shall not be liable to any penalties under this Act for the use, after the expiration of the said period of thirty days, of the building or place as a warehouse in respect of which such application shall have been made, so long as such application is not finally refused by an order in writing under the hand of the Chairman of the Commissioners setting forth the grounds for such refusal.

Term and conditions of license.

8. Licenses under section six of this Act may be granted either permanently or for such term of years as the Chairman of the Commissioners shall think fit, and shall be subject to the following conditions, namely:—

(1) that the warehouse shall at all times be open to the inspection of an officer appointed by the Commissioner of Police. Such officer shall be a member of the Fire-brigade, but shall not be a member of any Police Force:

Special Committee may exercise powers of Chairman.

(2) The proceedings of such Committee shall not be submitted to the Commissioners in meeting or be subject to revision by them.

Annual fee of license.

10. The annual fee payable in respect of any license shall not exceed ten per centum per annum on the annual value of the warehouse as it is assessed to the payment of the municipal taxes, less ten per centum on the outlay incurred in respect of the means and appliances, therein or appertaining thereto, for preventing or extinguishing fire:

Provided that the annual fee payable by any owner or occupier in respect of any license shall not exceed seven hundred and fifty rupees, and that the estimated total annual amount to be derived from such fees shall not exceed fifty rupees per centum of the amount required to meet the cost of the fire-brigade, as shown in the budget mentioned in section twenty-six of this Act:

Provided also that the owner or occupier of adjacent warehouses and the godowns, yards or compounds auxiliary to such warehouses shall not be bound to take out more than one license in respect of such warehouses, godowns, yards and compounds.

Change in occupation of warehouse to be notified.

11. Whenever and so often as a change in the occupation of any warehouse occurs, the person entering into occupation of the same shall, within two weeks of his so entering into occupation, give notice in writing to the Chairman of the

Commissioners of such change of occupation, and shall thereupon pay to the Commissioners a fee of five rupees; and his name shall accordingly be substituted in the license in respect of such warehouse for the name of the last occupier.

Chairman may apply to Magistrate to suspend license of warehouse.

12. (1) Whenever the Chairman of the Commissioners receives credible information that any of the conditions, to which the license of any warehouse shall be subject, has been broken by the holder thereof, he may apply in writing, setting forth the substance of such information, to a Magistrate for the issue of a summons upon the holder of the license to show cause why such license should not be cancelled or suspended, and may also apply to such Magistrate to suspend in the meantime such license pending the hearing of the case.

(2) The Magistrate shall not make an order suspending such license unless he is satisfied that it is necessary to prevent or obviate immediate danger or injury of a serious kind.

(3) The summons issued under this section shall be served upon the said holder of the license named therein in the manner provided in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882, for the service of summons.

Magistrate may cancel or suspend license.

13. The Magistrate, before whom the case instituted under the last preceding section is brought on for disposal, may, if after taking evidence he be satisfied that there exist reasonable and proper grounds for cancelling or suspending the license, cancel such license or may order the same, for such time as he may think fit, to be suspended; and may impose such conditions as to the reversal of such order of cancelment or suspension as may be consistent with the provisions of this Act, for the grant of a license for a warehouse.

CHAPTER III.

Penalty for not taking out license.

14. Any person who, without taking out a license, uses any building or place as a warehouse shall be liable, on conviction before a Magistrate, to a penalty not exceeding fifty rupees for each day during which he may so use or continue to use such warehouse.

Penalty for using warehouse after refusal, &c., of license.

15. Any person who uses any warehouse in respect of which a license has been refused, or after the license in respect thereof shall have been cancelled, or during the time for which such license shall have been suspended, shall be liable, on conviction before a Magistrate, to a penalty not exceeding two hundred rupees, and to a further penalty not exceeding fifty rupees for every day during which any such warehouse may be so used as aforesaid.

Penalty for smoking within warehouse.

22. Any person who shall smoke within a warehouse used for the pressing or screwing of jute or cotton, if jute or cotton be then stored therein, shall be liable, on conviction before a Magistrate, to a penalty not exceeding ten rupees for any one such offence.

23. The Commissioners shall pay to the Commissioner of Police half-yearly, in the months of May and November, such sums as are required to meet the cost of the fire-brigade as appear in the budget of the Commissioner of Police, and in such proportion, respectively, as the Local Government shall, from time to time, prescribe.

24. The Commissioners shall rateably impose the annual fees payable for licenses under section ten of this Act upon all warehouses, and shall appropriate towards the cost of the fire-brigade the amount derived from such annual fees, and all penalties and fines imposed and all rates levied under this Act.

25. (1) The Commissioners may, for the purpose of further providing the cost of the fire-brigade, levy the following rates:—

Rates may also be levied to provide for cost of fire-brigade.

(a) a rate not exceeding two and a half per centum on the annual value, as it is assessed to the payment of municipal taxes, on any building or place used for the storage of any other inflammable substance or thing not specifically mentioned in clause (8) of section three of this Act, which the Local Government may, by a notification to be published in the Calcutta Gazette, declare to be liable for the payment of such rate:

Provided that the rate payable by any owner or occupier in respect of any building or place under this clause shall not exceed one hundred rupees;

(b) a rate not exceeding one-half per centum on the annual value, as it is assessed to the payment of municipal taxes, on all basti lands with the huts, if any, upon them;

Commissioner of Police to prepare annually budget or estimate of receipts and expenditure of fire-brigade.

(2) Such budget shall be laid before the Commissioners at a meeting, and shall be forwarded by them to the Local Government with such remarks as they shall think fit to record; and it shall be within the discretion of the Local Government to pass, modify or reject the estimates of all or any sums entered in such budget.

27. Any sum standing at the credit of the Jute Warehouse Fund of the municipalities abovenamed, or at the credit of any fund appropriated to the maintenance of the fire-brigade under the provisions of Act IV of 1883 at the time when this Act comes into force, shall be appropriated as an asset of the Fire-brigade Fund under this Act.

Sums to be appropriated as an asset of fire-brigade fund.

28. The provisions of the Bengal Municipal Act, 1884, and the Calcutta Municipal Consolidation Act, 1888, relating to the recovery of rates levied under those Acts, respectively, shall, so far as they are consistent with this Act, apply to the recovery of rates levied under section twenty-five of this Act:

Mode of recovery of rates levied under section 25.

Provided that the rates levied under this Act in Calcutta shall be included with the four rates mentioned in section one hundred and one of the Calcutta Municipal Consolidation Act, 1888, as one consolidated rate.

29. The Local Government may fix the proportionate liability for the cost of the fire-brigade to be borne by the Commissioners of the municipalities to which this Act applies or may hereafter be extended, and may from time to time alter the proportions in which the Commissioners of any or all the municipalities, for the time being subject to the operation of this Act, are liable for the payment of the said sum.

Local Government to fix proportionate liability for cost of fire-brigade to be borne by Commissioners.

PROSPECTUS.

It has been decided to hold an International Exhibition in Hobart during the summer of 1894-95, and the Government of Tasmania has been pleased to grant their official patronage to the undertaking.

The proposal has been taken up by the people of Tasmania and the adjacent Colonies with such general approval that the necessary capital has been most readily subscribed.

The City of Hobart is most favourably situated. The Colony of Tasmania has a population of 150,000, and with the neighbouring Colonies the total population numbers about 4,000,000 inhabitants. Launceston and other centres are within a few hours by rail. The Australian Colonies are easy of access by steam, and the tourists' routes to all places of interest radiate from Hobart.

The objects of the Exhibition are to promote and foster industry, science, and art by inciting the inventive genius of our people to a further improvement in arts and manufactures, as well as to stimulate commercial enterprise by inviting all nations to exhibit their products both in the raw and finished state. Samples of the products, for which this and the other Australasian Colonies have become famous, will be exhibited with a view to increase the development of their natural resources.

Similar and more varied exhibits may be expected from Great Britain, the Continent of Europe, America, India, Canada, the Cape, and other Colonies, to which the Government of Tasmania have forwarded an official invitation to grant their substantial support to the undertaking.

A Fine Art Section will form an important and attractive department of the Exhibition. For the accommodation of the art treasures and historical objects a special block of the building will be reserved, and the most ample precautions will be taken for the security of valuable property lent for the purposes of the Exhibition.

Two sections, viz., the Women's Industrial and the Artisan Section, will be particular features. Special arrangements will be made for the management of these.

The site which has been granted by the Government for the Exhibition buildings covers about eleven acres. It is one of exceptional beauty and convenience, being that portion of the Queen's Domain adjoining the Battery and the Central Railway Station.

The buildings which it is proposed to erect will be constructed according to plans prepared by competent architects. The ornamental flower plots, shrubberies, fountains, etc., will be enclosed in the Exhibition grounds, where musical promenades and other entertainments will be provided for the enjoyment of visitors.

The situation of the Exhibition buildings is specially convenient of access for Exhibitors by means of the lines of rail which can be made use of day or night for the passage of railway trucks. Heavy goods can be delivered at a minimum cost and with the least possible amount of risk. In addition to this, the port of Hobart offers a cheap and ready means for the receiving and delivery of all sea-borne goods.

It is intended to afford full postal, telephonic, telegraphic, and banking facilities within the Exhibition buildings, so that all necessary business may be conducted by Exhibitors and others without leaving the premises.

The whole arrangements are in the hands of a powerful Directorate, and everything will be done to facilitate the work of Exhibitors, and minimise their outlay.

REGULATIONS FOR EXHIBITORS.

1. An International Exhibition of Industry, Science, and Art, under the immediate patronage of the Government of Tasmania, will be held in Hobart in 1894-95.

2. The Exhibition will be opened on the 15th day of November 1894, and will continue open during the day and evening for a period of about six months.

3. The principal objects to be exhibited are comprised in the accompanying classification, which must not be considered to be exhaustive.

4. Certificates of merit will be awarded by competent juries in every section, special certificates being given for exhibits showing superlative merit.

5. Charge will be made for space, except in special cases, to be determined by the Directors. The charge for space inside the building will be 2*s*. per square foot, with a minimum charge of £2 10*s*. Space in main avenues will be charged extra according to position; and wall space, which must be mentioned when making application, will be charged according to location. In all cases the amount of space money must accompany the Application Form, and no exhibits can be admitted unless all payments for space have been made. Spaces not occupied within fourteen days previous to the opening of the Exhibition will be otherwise allotted, and all payments made in respect thereof absolutely forfeited. Exhibitors will have to pay all expenses of conveying, delivering, arranging, fixing, and removing their exhibits, and also the cost of the erection of all fixtures, screens, and counters when required; and they must personally, or by a representative, superintend the transmission, reception, unpacking, installation, and (at the close of the Exhibition) the removal of their goods. The Executive Committee reserve to themselves the right of doing whatever may be considered necessary at the expense of the Exhibitor, unless this regulation is strictly complied with. Should any goods be deposited in the Exhibition premises during the absence of the Exhibitor or his representative, the Directors will not be responsible for any loss or damage from whatsoever cause arising.

6. Motive power, steam, gas, or water, will be supplied by the Directors at cost price and subject to certain regulations. Exhibitors requiring such motive power must fill up the Special Application Form which has been prepared for that section, and which will be supplied on application. Exhibitors requiring counters, shafting, pulleys, and belting must supply them at their own expense.

7. Schedules and Applications for Space may be had from the Secretary or any of the Official Agents. These must be filled up and returned on or before the 1st of September 1894 to ensure the exhibits being entered in the Official Catalogue.

8. The nature of the articles which it is proposed to exhibit must be fully specified in the Form of Application for Space, and no article which is not clearly described in the Application Form will be allowed in the Exhibition without the special permission of the Directors.

9. The Directors reserve the right to refuse any exhibit without stating any reason for so doing.

10. Foreign and Colonial Commissioners or Official Agents are invited to communicate with the Secretary. The Directors will place at their disposal all information, plans, or documents that may be useful to them.

11. Applicants for space from countries in which no Commissioner or Official Agents have been appointed will correspond direct with the Secretary.

12. The Directors will endeavour to obtain from the various railways, carriers, and steamship companies special terms for the conveyance of Exhibitors' goods to and from the Exhibition, and these arrangements will be communicated to intending Exhibitors.

13. All packages containing goods for the Exhibition must have painted on two sides the distinctive mark with the name and address of the Exhibitor. Labels for this purpose will be supplied to each Exhibitor applying for same.

17. The flooring must not be cut, altered, removed, or strengthened, except by sanction of the Executive Committee, and at the expense of the Exhibitor.

18. No Exhibitor will be permitted to display exhibits in such a manner as to obstruct the light, or project beyond the space allotted, or impede the view along the open spaces, or occasion injury or inconvenience to other Exhibitors.

19. In order to ensure uniformity of decoration, no Exhibitor will be allowed to put up flags, banners, or other kind of decoration without permission; and for covering counters, screens, or partitions a uniform material will be selected, which may be bought by Exhibitors at the building.

20. All signs or name boards, which must be new and clean and of approved size, must be placed to the satisfaction of the Executive Committee, and must in no case interfere with the lighting. They must be black or maroon with gold letters.

21. All hand-bills, circulars, etc., connected with exhibits, and intended for gratuitous distribution in the Exhibition, must be printed at the Exhibition by the party to whom that special privilege has been granted by the Directors.

22. Cases must be unpacked immediately on arrival, under the supervision of the officers of Her Majesty's Customs, and all empty cases removed by the Exhibitors or their Agents. The Directors cannot accept any responsibility with reference to empty cases, which must be at once removed from the buildings at the expense of the Exhibitors.

23. Exhibitors will be required to provide all necessary attendance, and to keep their stands and exhibits properly cleaned and in good order during the whole period of the Exhibition. Orders can be taken within the Exhibition, but goods must be delivered from establishments outside. Special regulations will be made for perishable articles or goods manufactured in the Exhibition.

27. No exhibit, or part thereof, can be removed before the close of the Exhibition without the special permission of the Executive Committee. Exhibits not removed within fifteen days after the close of the Exhibition will be warehoused at the cost and risk of the owners, and whatever may remain after three months will be sold by auction, and the proceeds applied to defray expenses.

28. No goods will be received prior to the 1st of September 1894 without the special permission of the Directors, nor after the 1st of November, but arrangements may be made for motors, heavy machinery, boilers, or any exhibit requiring under-building.

29. Special care will be required in cases where fire or gas is used by Exhibitors, and a responsible officer will be appointed to carry out the injunctions of the management in this respect. Exhibitors will require to effect their own insurance on their exhibits.

30. No explosives, or any substance which, in the judgment of the Directors are dangerous, will be admitted, but they may be represented by models.

31. Spirits, oils, corrosive substances, and generally all substances which might spoil other articles or inconvenience the public, can only be exhibited in solid and suitable vessels.

32. The Directors reserve to themselves the right of examining or testing any of the exhibits. If any damage or injury shall be occasioned during the Exhibition by any exhibited machine, implement, or article to any visitor or other person, then the Exhibitor to whom such machine, implement, or article may belong shall be responsible for in the first instance, and shall besides indemnify and hold harmless the said Directors from or against all actions, suits, expenses, and claims on account or in respect of any such damage or injury which may be so caused.

33. No article exhibited may be copied, photographed, drawn, or reproduced in any manner without the special permission of the Exhibitor and of the Directors.

34. Photo. passes will be issued to Exhibitors whose exhibits will need daily persons attention, and to a reasonable number of attendants. If these passes be used by any but those to whom they are issued, they will be immediately cancelled.

35. The Directors reserve to themselves the sole right of compiling and printing a Catalogue of Exhibits under regulations which will be duly notified.

36. The Directors do not undertake any responsibility for damage or loss, however caused.

37. The right to alter, amend, add to, or cancel any of these rules is reserved by the Directors.

38. All who become Exhibitors shall be held by so doing to signify their compliance with the whole of these regulations, together with such other regulations as the Directors may issue from time to time.

39. The Directors reserve the right to remove the exhibits and cancel the admission ticket of any one who does not conform with the regulations.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF JUNE 1893.

THE meteorological elements varied from the normal to an unusual extent, and of these irregularities the most noteworthy are—

1. Mean pressure for the month is uniformly above the normal over the whole province by about ·05 inch. Notwithstanding this large excess, the monsoon current during the latter half of the month was very strong as judged by the heavy rainfall.
2. The rainfall has been very irregularly distributed, and was largely due to local thunderstorms, which caused excessive rainfall over limited areas.
3. The days were much more cloudy than usual, and day temperatures are much below the normal, especially in the western districts. Mean minimum temperature, though below the normal, is only slightly so.

At the beginning of the month south-west monsoon conditions were fairly general in all districts, having followed the cyclonic storm at the end of May. Fine weather began over the Bay about the beginning of the month, and by the 4th was general over Bengal. With the exception of a few local thunderstorms, this settled weather with high, though not excessive, temperature continued till nearly the middle of the month, when a disturbance in the Bay caused the renewal of monsoon weather. This disturbance seems to have been due to the very high pressure which then prevailed in the north of the Bay and over Bengal, because at all the coast stations in Madras and Burma pressure continued practically normal except on the day when the centre of the disturbance was near the coast of the Circars, and there was then a very rapid fall. But that the intensity of the disturbance was dependent largely on this relatively high-pressure area in the north is shown by the rapid loss of intensity that occurred, when pressure over Bengal and the north of the Bay began to give way.

The first signs of the disturbance appeared on the 8th in the south-east of the Bay, but weather was not generally disturbed till the 12th, when pressure readings were very uniform round the coast and a diffused depression covered the Bay. The depression steadily developed, wind velocity increased daily at Diamond Island, but pressure changes continued small everywhere. The depth of the depression and the intensity of the disturbance were to a large extent due to the very high and increasing pressure in Bengal and the north of the Bay, and on the 12th, when the low-pressure area was shown over almost the whole of the Bay, the lowest readings were very little under 29·65 inches. These pressures were all above the normal values. On the 13th the distribution was almost the same, there being a slight fall in the south and a slow rise in the north of the Bay, but on the 14th the fall became brisk in Madras and the Circars, and the area of lowest pressure appeared much nearer the west coast. This was followed on the 15th by a very rapid fall in the Circars, and some time during the night the depression crossed the coast between Cocanada and Vizagapatam. By the time the centre reached the coast the depression was becoming much more diffused owing to the high pressure in the north beginning to give way, and at the same time it was filling up. Under these conditions the stormy weather moderated very rapidly, but for two or three days afterwards strong winds and a rough sea prevailed along the west coast as far south as Masulipatam.

While the depression was still over the sea, showery weather was being experienced in many parts of Bengal; but as the rainfall was due to local thunderstorms, it was scattered and irregular. On the 13th in Orissa and on the 13th and 14th in most of the other districts the showers were neither so heavy nor so general. After the depression crossed the coast and moved into Central India, winds became southerly in Bengal and ordinary monsoon weather was general except in North Bihar, where rainfall was still scattered. This monsoon weather continued with little change till the 19th, when a period of unsettled conditions began in Lower Bengal, and led to the unusually heavy rainfall, which was the chief feature of the weather in the latter part of the month. Pressure oscillations were unusually large and gave rise to thunderstorms of great local intensity. There was a rapid fall of pressure on the 19th and 20th, followed by an equally rapid rise on the 21st and 22nd, when the distribution was almost normal. To understand the great irregularity of the rainfall during these days reference must be made to the tables, when it will be seen that very heavy falls were recorded at some places, while at the neighbouring rain-measuring stations amounts were only light or moderate.

These changes led up to a depression which appeared in South-West Bengal on the 23rd, and which, owing to the continued decrease of pressure in East Bengal, covered the whole of Lower Bengal on the 24th with its centre about midway between Burrisal and Comilla. There was then defect of a quarter of an inch in East Bengal, and the cyclonic circulation caused by the depression extended over the whole province. Very heavy rain fell in Lower Bengal on the 23rd, but though it was general on the 24th, amounts were much smaller. The eastward motion of the low-pressure area then stopped, and after remaining stationary for a day, it began to move with moderate rapidity, but with little change of intensity towards the west, crossing Lower Bengal and Chota Nagpur. On the 26th the centre was between Jessore and Faridpur, on the 27th between Ranchi and Hazaribagh, and on the 28th after a rapid rise of pressure it had practically ceased to affect weather in Bengal. Though the depression remained in almost the same position for four days, and gradients were steep over the Bay, the increase of wind velocity was inconsiderable.

The quantity of rain, however, was unusually large in places, and, except in Orissa and South-West Bengal, just at the end of the month, the general rainfall continued. During the passage of the depression across Chota Nagpur the rainfall was very heavy, especially in Singbhum and Manbhum, and for that period the average fall in Chota Nagpur was two and-a-half times the normal. Owing to the rapid recovery of pressure, conditions were normal on the 28th, and the rise continuing there was soon a considerable excess. Ordinary monsoon weather continued, however, till the end of the month, and almost general rain fell in all districts. At the same time gradients became less steep in the Bay, and a period of comparatively calm weather began.

Pressure.—The chief peculiarity in connection with pressure has been the large excess which has generally prevailed before the formation of a depression. Just before a disturbance begins pressure is generally more uniform than usual, but this may be due to a relatively low distribution in the south or to relatively high readings in the north. The latter arrangement was very noticeable before the disturbance, which led to general monsoon weather in the middle of the month. Owing to these high readings the means for the month are above the normal at all stations by fairly uniform amounts. The largest excess is ·058″ at Midnapore, and the smallest ·03″ at Dacca and Hazaribagh.

Temperature—Has been steadily below the normal, especially during the day, throughout almost the whole month. During the first half of the month, when almost cloudless weather was general, rather high readings were recorded in the northern districts. The means in North and East Bengal and Bihar were above the normal by small amounts at the end of the first week, and also in East Bengal up to the middle of the month, but after that low temperatures prevailed except in the extreme north, where there was an occasional small excess. As stated above, the defect in maximum was much greater than in minimum temperature owing to the densely-clouded skies. The mean defect in the former is about 6° in Chota Nagpur, 4° in South-West Bengal and Orissa, and about 2° in the other districts, while in minimum temperature defect is under 1° in all districts except Chota Nagpur.

The difference between the mean for the month and the normal varies from —0·6° in North Bengal to —5·1° in Chota Nagpur.

Rainfall.—Owing to the local character of the rainfall, it is difficult to give a correct idea of the amount except by taking the means for the various districts or subdivisions, and even these show much variation. In Orissa the mean fall is slightly below the normal, in North Bihar exactly normal, and in North Bengal a tenth of an inch above, while in the other districts there is a large excess. In South Bihar the mean excess is 3·76, in East Bengal 6·12, in Chota Nagpur 6·81, and in South-West Bengal 8·4 inches. A large proportion of the rainfall occurred during the last week, and the excessive character of the falls in Lower Bengal, Chota Nagpur and South Bihar is due to the depression which formed in South-West Bengal, and after moving eastward, returned across Lower Bengal and passed through Chota Nagpur.

For the falls at the various stations reference must be made to the tables, but the more striking of the irregularities may be noted. In three separate areas in Lower Bengal the falls were between 20 and 30 inches, while intermediate between them there was a considerable tract in parts of which the fall was little over 10 and never over 15 inches. These areas contain portions of different districts. Those of the heavier rainfall included part of the 24-Parganas, Howrah and Midnapore, Singhbhum and Manbhum, also parts of Faridpur, Rajshahi, and Murshidabad. The lighter falls occurred in Burdwan and part of Birbhum. In Orissa the total fall varied from 2·4 inches in the south to about 15 inches in the north, but in East Bengal it varied from 55·4 at Cox's Bazar to less than 10 inches at Ramchandrapur in Tippera. In North Bengal the falls were generally between 15 and 25 inches, the chief exceptions being—Buxar 33·56, Kurseong 30·8, Bhagalpur and Debiganj in the Jalpaiguri district over 31, and Darjeeling 27·32 inches. In the greater part of Bihar the falls were between 5 and 10 inches.

As compared with the normal, the areas of deficiency are the south of Orissa, North Bihar, and the northern districts of North Bengal, where defect ranges up to 15 inches. Elsewhere there is excess, generally of less than 10 inches, but in some of the parts where falls were heaviest, excess reaches almost 20 inches and at Cox's Bazar exceeds it.

The following table gives a condensed view of the rainfall of the various divisions of Bengal in June and in each of the previous months of the present year as compared with the normal values for the same period. The figures given represent the actual falls expressed as a percentage of the normal falls, and it will be seen that almost without exception the rainfall has been above the normal since the commencement of the year, and that for the six months the percentage varies from 115 in North Bengal and North Bihar to 247 in Orissa :—

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park Street Observatory). The barometer is about 8 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore ·003 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 0·5 higher; and, finally, the thermometer which furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during 20 years and upwards is found to read 0·6 higher than the Kew standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

Explanation.—... indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 0·1 inches of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 4th July 1893.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 8TH OF JULY 1893.

ORDINARY monsoon weather has prevailed throughout the week, except that during the latter half rainfall was becoming more partial in Orissa and South-West Bengal. The rainfall in the northern districts has been general and in some places heavy, so that the averages for North Bengal and North Bihar are between two and three inches above the normal.

At the beginning of the week pressure was in excess by more than a tenth of an inch in Lower Bengal and the west of Bihar, while readings were practically normal in North Bengal and Assam. A low pressure area lay along the foot of the Himalayas, and winds were westerly in all districts. With these westerly winds rain fell in Bihar and North Bengal in fairly large amounts on the 2nd, but on the two following days it was much heavier in East and North Bengal, though as before there was greater irregularity than usual. From the 2nd to the 4th pressure continued to fall, at first more rapidly in the northern districts, but afterwards in Lower Bengal, where, at the beginning of the week, there was considerable excess. The steady fall during these days resulted in the normal distribution on the 5th, after which pressure rose briskly till the end of the week, the change beginning in the north-east and spreading south-westwards. While the brisk rise of pressure was confined to Assam and North Bengal, that is on the 6th, gradients were steeper than usual from east to west, and steady south-east winds were blowing over the greater part of Bengal. This must have led to the much heavier rain in North Bengal and North Bihar on the 7th and 8th, as on those days pressure was above the normal by nearly a tenth of an inch.

Pressure fell moderately to briskly during the first four days of the week, the change beginning in the north-east and spreading slowly towards the south-west. During the latter half the upward change followed the same course as the fall which preceded it, and the distribution at the end of the week was almost the same as at the beginning. The means for the week are above the normal by amounts generally ranging between ·04 inch and ·06 inch.

Temperature has again been steadily below the normal, the greater defect occurring by day owing to the very cl udy weather which has prevailed. Mean defect for the larger divisions varies from 1·5° in South Bihar to 4·2° in Orissa.

Rainfall has been almost continuous in all districts except Orissa and South-West Bengal, but more especially in East and North Bengal and North Bihar, all of which districts have received considerably more than the average for the week. During the two previous weeks the local character of the rainfall has been noted, and during the present week some very heavy local falls have again been recorded, owing to the occurrence of thunder-storms. These heavy falls have been almost all in East and North Bengal and Bihar. In Orissa, Chota Nagpur and South-West Bengal the average fall is very nearly normal, but in the other districts there is a large excess—in South Bihar of 1·62, East Bengal 2·15, North Bihar 2·77, and North Bengal 3·25 inches.

Falls of more than 15 inches in the course of the week fell at Mickliganj and Mathabhanga in Kuch Bihar and Buxa in the Darjeeling district, and more than 10 inches at the following places:—Sirajganj, Raiganj, Bhawaniganj, Kurigaon, Jalpaiguri, Alipore (Duar), Fallacotta, Debiganj, Bhogatpur (Nagrakatta), Kuch Bihar, Rangamatia, Atia, Araria, Purnea and Pratapganj.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 8th of July 1893:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

1. There shall be three central depôts for stamps of all descriptions in charge of the Superintendent of Stamps at Calcutta, Madras and Bombay, respectively. These central depôts shall maintain a stock of stamps sufficient for two years' consumption. The Superintendents of Stamps in Madras and Bombay shall, for this purpose, forward, not later than the last week in September in each year, indents for the supply of the various descriptions of stamps required in the following year for the territories dependent on them for the supply of stamps to the Superintendent of Stamps, Calcutta. The Superintendent of Stamps, Calcutta, shall prepare a general consolidated indent for stamps of all descriptions, showing separately the demand for the following year for each of the three presidencies, including in it the indents of the Superintendents of Stamps, Madras and Bombay; and shall forward this general indent to the Government of India in the Finance Department for transmission to the Secretary of State so as to reach him not later than the 1st November in each year. The Superintendent should forward a copy of the section of the general indent relating to Postage stamps to the Director General of the Post Office, and of the section relating to Telegraph stamps to the Director General of Telegraphs.

2. Stamps for the Bengal Presidency, including the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, the Punjab, Central India, Rajputana, Assam, and Burma, and local depôts subordinate to Calcutta, and stamps for copies for use in the Central Provinces, shall be supplied from the central depôt, Calcutta, on the indent of officers in charge of local depôts.

4. Stamps for the Bombay Presidency, including Sind, Berar, the Central Provinces (save as provided in Rule 2) and local depôts subordinate to Bombay, shall be supplied from the central depôt, Bombay, on the indent of officers in charge of local depôts.

5. The Superintendent of Stamps, Calcutta, Madras and Bombay, on receiving an indent from a local depôt, shall have the indent examined to ascertain that the indent is such as to insure the local depôt having a proper supply, and may comply with the indent in full or in part, as he thinks fit. If he thinks that the indent should be increased, he should request the officer who submitted the indent to submit a supplementary indent. The Presidency Post Offices of Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay may indent for supplies on the central depôts.

32. On the last open day of September and March each year, the officer in charge of each local depôt will count, or have counted in his presence, the stamps in the depôt, both those under double lock and those under single lock, and will require the officers in charge of the branch depôts subordinate to him similarly to count the stamps in the branch depôt. He will attach to the monthly statements for September and March rendered to the Superintendent of Stamps, Calcutta, Madras or Bombay, or, in the provinces noted in the margin* to the local Superintendent or Commissioner of Stamps or other officer named by the Local Government, a certificate in the following form:—

* Bengal, Bombay, the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, Punjab, the Central Provinces, and Berar. [In the case of revenue adhesive stamps supplied to Berar from the central depôt at Madras, the monthly statements will continue to be submitted o the Superintendent of Stamps, Madras.]

These statements shall show for each denomination of stamp the values of the balance in hand at the beginning of each month, of the quantities received from the Superintendent of Stamps or other officer during the month, of the quantity sold during the month, and of the balance in hand at the end of month. The statements may be forwarded direct to the Superintendent of Stamps, Calcutta, Madras or Bombay, or the local Superintendent or Commissioner of Stamps, or through any officer named by the Local Government.

34. The statements shall be checked by the Superintendent of Stamps, Calcutta, Madras or Bombay, or by the local Superintendent or Commissioner of Stamps or other officer specified in Rule 33, by comparison with previous statements and the accounts of the central depôts and shall be used by him to check indents and to watch the balances in the local depôts. If the monthly statements of transactions show that the balance of any kind of stamp in any local depôt is falling too low, the attention of the officer in charge should be called to the fact. To enable him to check the returns each local Superintendent or Commissioner of Stamps, or other officer specified in Rule 33, will be supplied by the Superintendent of Stamps, Calcutta or Bombay, with monthly statements showing the stamps issued to and returned by the local depôts subordinate to each.

35. Treasury officers and other officers in charge of local depôts shall forward to the local Accountant General or Comptroller such returns of the receipts and sales of stamps as the Comptroller General may direct, in the form of Plus and Minus Memoranda or otherwise.

36. Each Superintendent or Commissioner of Stamps, or other officer specified in Rule 33, shall send to the Accountant General or Comptroller such accounts of the transactions of the central and local depôts as the Comptroller General may prescribe.

39. The Local Governments in Bengal, Madras and Bombay shall arrange for a periodical verification by counting of the stock of stamps in the respective central depôts. The verification shall be carried out in the manner and form prescribed by the Comptroller General, to whom the result will be reported.

40. The Superintendent of Stamps, Calcutta, Madras and Bombay, shall forward every month to the Director General of the Post Office a statement showing the balances and receipts in the central depôt and the issues to each local depôt of postage stamps during the month. Each Superintendent or Commissioner of Stamps or other officer specified in Rule 33 shall also send monthly to the Comptroller of the Post Office a statement of the sales during the past month of the several denominations of postage stamps in the local and branch depôts subordinate to him. Each Accountant General or Comptroller will, with his monthly account current with the Examiner of Telegraph Accounts, forward a statement showing the total realisations at each treasury from the sales of Telegraph stamps during the month.

The 14th July 1893.

The Governor General in Council has determined to borrow three hundred and fifty lakhs of rupees, being the amount required for the public service.

The following Notification is therefore published:

THREE AND A HALF PER CENT LOAN OF 1893-94.

His Excellency the Right Honourable the Governor General in Council has resolved to borrow three hundred and fifty lakhs of rupees for the public service in the following manner:

2. Promissory Notes will be issued for the said amount bearing interest at the rate of three and a half per centum per annum payable half-yearly on the 30th day of June and 31st day of December. The notes will be in Form A annexed to this Notification, and they will not be discharged without a previous notice of three months to be published in the Government Gazette.

3. Tenders for the whole or any part of the said amount of R3,50,00,000 will be received by the Comptroller General from this date to noon of Tuesday, the 15th August next. Tenders must be in sums of 500 Rupees or multiples of 500 Rupees.

4. Each tender must be addressed, in the form annexed to this Notification, to the Comptroller General, Calcutta, and enclosed in a closed cover, superscribed "Tender for the Three and a half Per Cent. Loan." If the tenderer is not resident in India, he must name an agent resident in India to whom an allotment-certificate may be issued, if any part of the loan is allotted to such tenderer.[1]

(a) Each tender must be accompanied by a receipt from the Head Office of the Bank of Bengal, or Madras, or Bombay, or one of their Branches, or from an officer in charge of some Public Treasury, or by a cheque drawn

[1] Tenders made in accordance with these instructions will also be received by the Accountants General, Madras and Bombay, on account of the Comptroller General, Calcutta, on the 14th August and up to 11-30 or 11 o'clock local time respectively (corresponding with 12 o'clock in Calcutta) on the 15th August; provided that—

(a) they are delivered personally or by clerk or messenger at the Accountant General's Office (where a receipt will be given for them);

If any allotment-certificate is not fully taken up, the deposit credited in respect of it will be forfeited.

(c) Promissory notes deposited in respect of any accepted tender will be held until all the allotment-certificates issued in respect of the tender are paid up, and will, if the allotment-certificates are not fully taken up, be appropriated by the Government and cancelled; provided that the notes of the 4½ per cent. loans of 1878 and 1879, advertised for discharge by Notification No. 2985 of this date, may, if the depositors so desire, be credited, as far as possible, proportionately in payment of the allotment-certificates issued in respect of the tender, with which they were deposited, the amount so credited, however, bearing interest only from the 14th October 1893 (the interest up to 13th October being paid separately as provided in the above quoted Notification).

5. The rate at which a tender is made must not contain a fraction of an anna: if a rate containing a fraction of an anna is inserted in any tender, such fraction will be struck out and the tender treated as if the rate did not contain such fraction of an anna.

6. The rate at which each tender is made must be specified in rupees or rupees and annas: a tender in which no rate is thus specified, but a subscription is offered in some other terms—as, for example, at the recorded minimum, or at some specified percentage in addition to the recorded minimum, or at the average of the accepted tenders—will be rejected as null and void.

7. The minimum rate at which tenders will be accepted will be recorded under the signature of the Comptroller General, and, before the tenders are opened, placed upon the table in a sealed envelope, but will not be declared unless some tender is rejected only because it is below the recorded minimum.

8. Tenders will be opened publicly by the Comptroller General at the Treasury Buildings, Calcutta, at noon (Calcutta time), on Tuesday the 15th August next, and those received under the terms of the footnote under clause 4 will be similarly opened by the Accountant General, Madras, at 11-30 (Madras time), and by the Accountant General, Bombay, at 11 o'clock (Bombay time), on the same day; but the contents of the tenders will not be disclosed otherwise than as provided in clause 10.

9. Tenders at the recorded minimum rate, and at rates above the recorded minimum rate, will be accepted in the order of the rates tendered, beginning with the highest rate; the amount allotted at the lowest rate at which tenders are accepted will be divided amongst those who have tendered at this rate in proportion, as nearly as may be found convenient, to the amounts of their tenders; provided that no allotment will be issued if the amount distributable on any tender is less than ₹500.

10. To each tenderer (or to his agent) whose tender is accepted in whole or in part, such number of allotment-certificates as may be necessary to make up the aggregate amount allotted to him will be issued by the Comptroller General[2] as soon as possible after the 15th August; and an alphabetical list of the names of those to whom such allotment-certificates are issued will be posted for general information at the Head Offices of the Banks of Bengal, Madras, and Bombay.

11. If the allotment made on any tender is less than ₹3,000, then the whole of the allotment-certificates (after credit of the deposit under clause 4 (b)) will be made payable upon the 26th September.

Otherwise the whole amount of each allotment will be divided into three instalments, as follows:

Instalment I.—As near as convenient to 35 per cent., but not exceeding 35 per cent., payable upon the 29th August:

---

[1] It is particularly requested that such Promissory Notes may NOT be endorsed to the Comptroller General.

[2] For tenders received by the Accountant General, Madras or Bombay, and payable at those places, the Accountant General will issue the allotment-certificates.

Instalment II.—As near as convenient to 35 per cent., but not exceeding 35 per cent., payable upon the 26th September:

Instalment III.—The balance payable upon the 14th October:

and allotment-certificates will be issued for each instalment separately.

But the whole or any part of any accepted tender may be paid at any time after receipt of the allotment-certificates.

The words "as near as convenient" refer to the necessity for making each instalment an exact multiple of ₹500.

12. Any allotment-certificate will, on application to the Comptroller General, be exchanged for an equivalent amount of allotment-certificates of smaller denominations, provided that if any payment (beyond the deposit) is recorded upon the cancelled certificate, it can be taken against, and recorded upon, only one of the certificates issued in exchange.

13. Payment of any allotment-certificate may be made to the account of the Government in the Head Office of the Bank of Bengal or Madras or Bombay, or in any Branch of these Banks, or into any Public Treasury or Treasuries in India which may be named in the tender in respect of which it was issued, either in cash or by tendering duly receipted Notes (or stock certificates issued in lieu thereof) or Loan certificates of the 4½ per cent. Loans of 1878 and 1879 advertized for discharge in Notification No. 2985 of this date, which will, as provided in that Notification, be accepted in payment of a sum equivalent to the principal amount of such Notes, Stock or Loan certificates. Receipts for such payments will be given by the Banks of Bengal, Madras and Bombay, or their Branches, or by the Officers in charge of the Government Treasuries at which payment is made, by enfacement upon the relative certificate.

14. (a) When any allotment-certificate is fully paid up, the holder will, on presenting it duly receipted at the place where it was paid, obtain from the Public Debt Office, Calcutta, promissory notes of such values as he may desire (each note being in even hundreds and not less than ₹500), bearing interest from 31st December 1893, and he will also receive interest at 3½ per cent. per annum from the dates on which he may have made payment till the 30th of December 1893.

(b) Or he may, at his option, by paying interest at the said rate from 30th June 1893 to the dates on which he may have made payment, obtain promissory notes as above, bearing interest from 30th June 1893.

Provided that, if any payment has been made by tendering notes, or Stock or Loan certificates of the 4½ per cent. loans of 1878 and 1879, such payment shall for the purpose of determining from what date the holder should receive interest under clause (a) or to what date he should pay interest under clause (b) be held to have been made on the 14th October 1893.

SEPARATE REVENUE.

EXCISE.

No. 2792-Ex.

The 3rd July 1893.

RESOLUTION—By the Government of India, Finance and Commerce Department.

READ—

Despatch from Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India, No. 36 (Revenue), dated 16th March 1893, forwarding a copy of a question asked in the House of Commons, and of the answer given thereto by the Under-Secretary of State, regarding the appointment of a Commission to enquire into the production and consumption of hemp drugs in India.

Read also—

Correspondence ending with Despatch from the Secretary of State, No. 99(Revenue), dated 20th October 1892, regarding the consumption of ganja in India.

RESOLUTION.—In the despatch recited in the preamble, Her Majesty's Secretary of State informed the Government of India that, in answer to a question put in the House of Commons, he had expressed his willingness to request the Government of India to appoint a Commission to enquire into the cultivation of the hemp plant in Bengal, the preparation of drugs from it, the trade in those drugs, the effect of their consumption upon the social and moral condition of the people, and the desirability of prohibiting the growth of the plant and the sale of ganja and allied drugs. In accordance with the announcement thus made, Lord Kimberley requested the Government of India to appoint a Commission for the purpose stated and to issue such instructions as would ensure that the enquiry should be thorough and complete. His Lordship is of opinion that the investigation can hardly be confined to Bengal, but should extend to the whole of India, and that the Commission should be instructed to ascertain to what extent the existence of the hemp plant all over India affects the practical difficulty of checking or stopping the consumption of ganja as distinguished from other narcotic drugs prepared from the hemp plant, and whether there is ground for the statement that bhang is less injurious than ganja to consumers.

2. In accordance with these instructions, His Excellency the Governor-General in Council has been pleased to appoint a Commission to conduct the enquiry desired by the Secretary of State. The following gentlemen are appointed to form the Commission.

President :

The Hon'ble W. Mackworth Young, M.A., C.S.I., First Financial Commissioner, Punjab.

Members :

1. Mr. H. T. Ommaney, Collector, Pauch Mahals, Bombay.
2. Mr. A. H. L. Fraser, M.A., Commissioner, Chattisgarh Division, Central Provinces.
3. Surgeon-Major C. J. H. Warden, Professor of Chemistry, Medical College, and Chemical Examiner to Government, Calcutta, Officiating Medical Storekeeper to Government, Calcutta.
4. Raja Soshi Shikhareswar Roy, of Tahirpore, Bengal.
5. Kanwar Harnam Singh, Ahluwalia, C.I.E., Punjab.
6. Lala Nihal Chand, of Muzaffarnagar, North-Western Provinces.

3. His Excellency the Governor-General in Council desires that the enquiry should be thorough and searching, but he leaves to the Commission full discretion to determine the best means of securing that result. Certain instructions are given in the following paragraphs, but these are not intended to be exhaustive, and the Commission have full authority to take up any branch of enquiry which in their opinion is likely to elucidate the subject and to aid the Government of India and the Secretary of State in deciding on the policy to be adopted in regard to hemp drugs.

4. It is desirable that the Commission should visit and take evidence in all or most of the provinces of India : there are political objections to their holding sittings in Native States ; but any information similar to that required regarding British India, which can be obtained regarding Native States, should be included in the report.

5. The Commission should ascertain, with as much precision as possible, the extent to which the hemp plant is cultivated in each of the provinces of India in which it is grown. They should collect full information as to the manner in which the plant is cultivated for the production of drugs and the methods of preparing the manufactured drugs from the raw product, whether of the wild or the domesticated plant. Little is known at present as to the extent to which the wild plant can be used for the preparation of drugs, whether in the milder or the more noxious forms. This point has an important bearing on the possibility of introducing restrictive measures, and will require careful investigation. Full particulars should be obtained regarding all the different forms of the drug which are commonly used, especially ganja, charas, and bhang, and regarding the classes of the people by whom, and the extent to which, each is used. The physical and other effects of the use of hemp drugs should be thoroughly investigated, each variety of the drug being separately treated, so far as that can be conveniently done. In conducting this branch of the enquiry, the Commissioners should avail themselves freely of the evidence of medical experts. They should endeavour to ascertain what proportion of the population habitually consumes hemp drugs, and should thoroughly examine the testimony in support of the commonly received opinion that the use of hemp drugs is a frequent cause of lunacy. They should ascertain whether, and in what form, the consumption of the drugs is either harmless or even beneficial, as has occasionally been maintained.

6. Full information should be compiled regarding the administrative arrangements in force in each province for controlling the growth of the plant, the manufacture and sale of the drugs, and their importation from other provinces or from Native States, and for imposing duties on cultivation and sale. It is understood that charas is imported into the Punjab on a considerable scale from foreign territory, and the question of the importation of hemp drugs generally from foreign territory should receive the special attention of the Commission. The various systems employed for taxing the drug or the cultivation of the plant should be reviewed with especial reference to the comparative incidence of this taxation in different parts of India and to the comparative efficacy of the taxation imposed in restricting consumption, whether by the mere weight of the tax or by the method and stage of imposition. It is known that the rates vary considerably in different provinces, but the precise effect of the variations is not fully understood. In this connection the Commissioners should notice any case in which the proximity of a Native State affects the production or consumption of the drug in British territory.

7. There are two points connected with the subject-matter of the enquiry which call for special investigation. The first of these is the danger lest prohibition or restrictive measures of a stringent character may give rise to serious discontent, and be resented by the people as an unjustifiable interference with long-established social customs. In some parts of India the use of hemp drugs is, it is believed, common among fakirs and ascetics held in veneration by large classes of the population. In Bengal it has been stated that an infusion of the leaves of the plant is commonly offered to every guest and member of the family on the last day of the Durga Puja; it has no ill-effects, and its use is not considered reprehensible in any way. The Governor-General in Council desires that the Commissioners will endeavour to ascertain to what extent these and similar customs prevail in Bengal and other parts in India, and how far the use of hemp drugs forms a part of social or possibly religious ceremonial or observance, and they should, if possible, take the evidence of witnesses drawn from the classes among whom the use of hemp drugs is chiefly prevalent. The Commissioners should state their opinion whether the prohibition of the use of hemp drugs, on any restrictive measures which they may deem practicable, would be likely to give rise to political discontent in any parts of India or among any classes of the population. It is believed that in some parts of the country bhang is in a special degree the poor man's narcotic, and the possible unpopularity of a measure which would deprive the very poorest of the population of the use of a narcotic to which they have always been accustomed should not be overlooked.

8. Another point to which the attention of the Commissioners should be directed is the probability or possibility that if the use of hemp drugs is prohibited, those who would otherwise continue to use them may be driven to have recourse to alcohol, or to other stimulants or narcotics which may be more deleterious.

9. Finally, the Governor-General in Council requests that the Commissioners, if they should be of opinion that the prohibition of the consumption of any hemp drug should not, or could not, be enforced, will indicate, for the consideration of the Government of India, any reforms and improvements which their investigations may lead them to recommend in the existing arrangements of each province for controlling the cultivation of the hemp plant, and the manufacture, sale, and taxation of hemp drugs. In framing their recommendations regard should of course be had to the considerations which have been stated in paragraphs 7 and 8 of this Resolution. Absolute prohibition or repressive measures of a stingent nature may involve inquisitorial proceedings of an unpopular character, and afford opportunities for the levy of blackmail; and in framing regulations for the prohibition or for the restriction of the use of hemp drugs these considerations should be borne in mind.

If the Commission should be of opinion that the cultivation of the hemp plant for the production of drugs or the consumption of any hemp drug should be absolutely prohibited, it will be their duty to state the regulations which should be adopted for this purpose.

10. All Local Governments and Administrations have been requested to render every assistance to the Commission, to collect and place at its disposal whatever information may be available, and to make to the Commission any suggestions regarding the enquiry which local knowledge and experience may suggest.

11. The Governor-General in Council directs that the Commission shall assemble in Calcutta on the 1st August 1893.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of the Resolution be forwarded to all Local Governments and Administrations for information, and with special reference to paragraph 10 of the Resolution.

Ordered also that a copy of the Resolution be forwarded to the President and to each Member of the Commission.

Ordered further that the Resolution be published in the Gazette of India for general information.

CHINA—PE CHILI STRAIT—MIAU TAU ISLANDS.

Dangerous sunken rock eastward of Toki Tau.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 262 of 1893) of the existence of a dangerous sunken rock, named Tsen leang shu, about 30 yards in extent, with about 12 feet on it at low water, lying in the fairway among Miau tau islands, with the centre of Sha mo tau in line with Siau chu shan summit, bearing S. 11° E., and Toki tau peak (613 feet) N. 63° W., distant 3 miles.

Close around Tsen leang shu there are depths of 8 fathoms, rocky ground, and beyond, 12 to 14 fathoms over hard mud; the state of the sea and a breaking tide rip prevented the least water on it being obtained. The fisherman on Toki tau state that it is a small pinnacle rock, with not more than 12 feet on it at low water, and from appearances this statement is considered trustworthy.

The Commander of H. N. M. Batavia reports the existence of the following two coral reefs W.-N.-W. of "Diamant Punt"—

1. A coral patch (Karang Minja), about 55 yards long in a N.-N.-W. and S.-S.-E. direction, with 6 to 9 fathoms on in at low-water spring tides and 20 fathoms close around, lies with "Diamant Punt," bearing S. 70° E., and the trees of Pidadą S. 5° W.

2. A coral patch (Karang Tenga) with a least depth of 3 fathoms at low water spring-tides, lies with Diamant Punt, bearing S. 77° E. and the trees of Pidada S. 15° W.

Approximate position lat. 5° 17′ 2″ N., long. 97° 24′ 4″ E.

Under favourable circumstances the position of these reefs is indicated by ripples and a discoloration of the water.

Bearings true.

Note.—The fishermen of the locality say that there are still three sunken reefs close to Karang Tenga. The examination is therefore continued.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The Report on the Census of Bengal taken on the 26th February 1891, by C. J. O'Donnell, Esq., M.A., C.S.

The Report on the Census of the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta, by H. F. T. Maguire, Esq., C.S.

The third complete census of the Lower Provinces of Bengal was taken on the night of the 26th February 1891 with entire success, and shows the population of the Provinces within the Lieutenant-Governorship of Bengal, including the Feudatory States, to have been on that date 74,643,566 persons, of whom 37,236,485 were males and 37,406,881 females. The Provincial Superintendent of Census, Mr. C. J. O'Donnell, has now submitted his Report on this great undertaking, and the Lieutenant-Governor, who has perused it with interest, desires to place on record the following observations upon some of the more important points with which it deals.

2. The Report is contained in three volumes, forming numbers III, IV and V of the Imperial Census Series (volumes I and II of the same series being concerned with the Census of Assam). The first of these volumes comprises the Report proper, in the second are given the Imperial Tables, while the last is devoted to statistics of castes and tribes. For statistical purposes the territorial unit in these volumes is the district, but in order to place on record the statistics for smaller areas, the Lieutenant-Governor has caused to be published a selection of the tables showing details for each thana of a district, and the census reports submitted by District Officers are also in course of publication. When these operations are concluded, a mass of statistical information will be available, which cannot fail to be of the greatest utility. The Report itself falls naturally into two parts, viz., Chapters I to V, which describe the proceedings preliminary to the Census and the actual operations undertaken, and Chapters VI to XVI, which give the results and enter into a statistical examination of them.

3. In December 1889, a Census Conference sat at Agra, to which were deputed as delegates from the various provinces of India most of the officers who had conducted the Census of 1881, and as soon as the conclusions and recommendations of that Conference had been published, the preliminary arrangements for the enumeration to take place a year later were set on foot.

Preliminary operations.

4. The first step to be taken was the correction of the two great Registers A, and B, which were originally devised by Mr. Beverley in 1871, and were rightly designated by him as the basis of the whole Census fabric. Of these the first is a register of the survey areas or mauzas into which the whole Province is mapped out, and contains lists of the residential villages in each mauza: register B, on the other hand, is the converse of register A, and is a register of inhabited villages, with a column to show the survey mauzas in which each is situate. The work of completing and correcting these registers occupied the hot weather and rains of 1890, and was carried out almost entirely by police agency. Meanwhile District Officers were busy preparing lists of fitting persons to take up the work of enumerator and supervisor. Each district was divided into a number of charges, usually conterminous with the thanas, each of which was again broken up into circles under supervisors, and these again into blocks, each of which was as far as possible made over to one enumerator. The number of supervisors and enumerators in 1891 was much greater than in 1881, the numbers in the former year being 26,507 and 324,645 as against 13,942 and 207,683 in the latter year: the policy of the Census Superintendent was to work with small blocks and small circles, and this was rendered possible on the present occasion by the permission accorded by Government to utilize the services of police officers, a concession which was almost entirely withheld in 1881: as a matter of fact, the average number of houses in a block was 36 only. Simultaneously with the organisation of the machinery in the mufassal, the translation and preparation of the Census schedules, the "instructions to enumerators" and other forms was going on in Calcutta. These forms were printed in six different languages, viz., English, Bengali, Kaithi-Hindi, Uriya, Nepali-Hindi and the Nagri-Hindi of Chutia Nagpur. The total number of schedules printed was 22,779,507, and of other forms 2,649,198 or a grand total of 25,428,705. The expedient of making up the schedules into books of 60, 30, 20, and 10 schedules each, certainly brought about some economy in the expenditure of forms, and the Superintendent has embodied in his report recommendations for a still further progress in the same direction at the next Census, and has recorded in his office a careful statement showing the number of enumeration books of each size actually used in each thana, which cannot fail to be of use in future.

5. In addition to the arrangements for the ordinary house-to-house census, it also became the duty of the Superintendent to make special arrangements for the enumeration of cantonments, cooly lines and jails, to organise the counting of the moving population on boats and sea-going ships, in railway trains and on roads, besides such special gatherings as fairs and wedding parties, and these were all accomplished with success. The Lieutenant-Governor has read with pleasure that, in this part of his duty, Mr. O'Donnell, like his predecessor in 1881, received willing and valuable assistance from the managers and officials of railways, the agents of steamer companies, and unofficial employers of labour throughout the Province, and Sir Antony MacDonnell gladly takes this opportunity of thanking them for services rendered often at considerable personal inconvenience.

The actual enumeration.

6. As in 1881, the enumeration of the people consisted of two processes, viz., the preliminary record and the final checking. The former operation was carried out by the enumerators at leisure between the 15th January and the 15th February, and thus ample time was allowed for the examination of their work by supervisors and other superior officers; but, as a matter of fact, the first fortnight was chiefly occupied by experiments, and few entries were made in the schedules till after the first of February. The Lieutenant-Governor agrees with Mr. O'Donnell that the additions and erasures which are necessarily implied by too early a preliminary record justify his arguments in favour of a later commencement. In a few special cases, chiefly backward and jungly tracts, like the Tributary States of Orissa and Chutia Nagpur and parts of the non-regulation districts of Bengal, the preliminary counting began earlier, and the final check was not carried out by night. Modified schedules of a much simpler character than those in ordinary use were employed in the Hill Tracts of Chittagong, Hill Tippera and Sikkim.

7. One great step in advance was taken at this Census, which had not before been generally attempted in Bengal, and which in fact formed a third or final process in the completion of the actual enumeration. This was the rough totalling of their enumeration books on the morning of the 27th February by the enumerators who were collected in a central spot for that purpose under the superintendence of their supervisor. Careful arrangements were made for the addition of the block, circle and charge totals so obtained, and in many districts the organisation was so good that the district totals were in the hands of the Magistrate within 48 hours of the actual enumeration. Moreover the general accuracy of the work was so great that between the preliminary provincial total so arrived at, and that which was ascertained at the close of the detailed abstraction, there was only a deficiency of 305,716, or 4 per mille. The most accurate work was done in Cuttack, where the error was only 291 in a population of 1,937,671, and in Rajshahi, where it amounted to 456 in a total of 1,313,336. The variation in 1881, when the preliminary total was compiled in district offices and not by the enumerators, was 9·8 per mille. Mr. O'Donnell recommended that this preliminary abstraction should comprise more than the simple totals of the sexes, but the Census Commissioner did not sanction the proposal: the recommendation is repeated in the report, but the Lieutenant-Governor does not consider it necessary to pass any orders upon the suggestion, which will doubtless be fully considered when the time comes for making arrangements for the Census of 1901.

The compilation of the tables.

8. The schedule of 1891 demanded practically the same information as that of 1881, but there has been a great difference in the manner in which this information has been combined for the published Census tables. Details of occupation in combination with age were extracted in 1891, but not attempted ten years previously. The heaviest and most vexatious tasks, however, were the extraction of details of education combined with caste, and of marriage combined with age and caste.

9. An entirely new departure was also taken in the establishment of offices at district head-quarters for the abstraction of the figures from the schedules and their subsequent tabulation. In 1881 there were three offices—at Calcutta, at Dinapore, and at Cuttack; the Agra Conference recommended the establishment of an office at the head-quarters of each Division, but the Census Superintendent in 1891, with the powerful support of the Census Commissioner, obtained permission from the Lieutenant-Governor to open offices at the head-quarters of each district. Mr. O'Donnell urges that the experiment has been successful, but the Lieutenant-Governor is unable to accept this opinion without some qualification. It is true that a great deal of the work done by the clerks in the Calcutta offices in 1881 was very bad and entailed much costly checking and correction, but from reports which have reached him since the operations were completed, and from admissions made by Mr. O'Donnell himself, it is manifest to the Lieutenant-Governor that work in several district offices in 1891 was very badly done also. The new plan is certainly much cheaper, since it saves house rent, travelling allowance, freight on schedules, and the deputation of an expensive superior establishment; but, on the other hand, the diffusion of the work renders difficult the exercise of control by the Provincial Superintendent, and—a most important consideration—throws additional labour and responsibility upon the already overworked District Officer. For these reasons, the Lieutenant-Governor, while admitting that Mr. O'Donnell administered the district system as well as it could be done, and while cordially acknowledging the devotion of almost all District Officers in discharging this heavy additional duty, is inclined to think that on a future occasion the experiment of divisional offices under a small separate staff should have a trial.

10. Abstraction, or the transfer of figures from the actual enumeration books to twelve abstracting sheets in which the block was the unit, was commenced everywhere about the 8th of April 1891, and was concluded almost without exception by the 31st July. Tabulation, that is, the transfer of the block totals from the abstraction sheets into twenty-six totalling registers, was the second stage of the operations, and commenced on different dates in different offices, according to the accuracy of the antecedent abstraction or the rapidity with which errors in it were corrected. "It was at first intended," to quote from the report, "that tabulation should be completed by the middle of August, but only one district, Noakhali, was able to work within this limit of time, followed closely by Bogra. Most districts completed tabulation by the end of September, but a few dragged on to the end of the year."

11. On these two operations, which were carried out according to fixed scales of work, Mr. O'Donnell has a good deal to say, chiefly of a technical character, which the Lieutenant-Governor will not discuss in this place, but which will doubtless prove useful to the census officer ten years hence; but the arguments employed in favour of less haste in future in conducting abstraction and tabulation are very sensible. The basis of the scheme on this occasion was the completion of the work of abstraction in four months, or 100 working days, and to secure this end, great efforts were necessary in several districts where it was difficult to procure skilled labour. "The general opinion of District Officers," in which the Superintendent records his complete concurrence, "was that abstraction was pressed on much too quickly, and that thorough supervision was impossible, except by a demand on the time of District Officers and other gazetted subordinates, which it seems inadvisable to repeat."

The cost of the Census.

12. The fourth chapter of Mr. O'Donnell's Report deals with the cost of the Census. The total allotment made by the Government of India was eight lakhs of rupees, of which a lakh and a half were intended to cover the cost of actual enumeration, and six and a half lakhs that of compiling the resulting statistics. The saving effected on the allotment for enumeration was as much as Rs. 68,871. Very large savings were made under the heads of "Establishment" and "Paper and Printing;" the first being secured by the refusal to entertain Census clerks before the Census, so that nearly all preliminary work was done by the ordinary district staff and by the wholesale employment of the police, whose assistance was invaluable. The second was effected by the most rigorous scrutiny of indents for forms and by the diminished cost of paper, while the employment of larger machinery enabled the Press to turn out its work more cheaply. Excluding Calcutta, the cost of enumeration in 1891 was only Rs. 1,096 per million of population, as against Rs. 2,525 in 1881. Great variations in the cost of the Census were observed in different districts, the expenditure on enumeration per 100,000 of the population ranging from Rs. 278 in Darjeeling and Rs. 198 in Jalpaiguri, to Rs. 41 in Muzaffarpur, Rs. 45 in Champaran, and Rs. 49 in Dinajpur, the provincial average being Rs. 69.

13. The second and largest branch of expenditure was connected with the abstraction and tabulation of the Census schedules in the district offices.

Excluding Calcutta, as well as Kuch Bihar and Hill Tippera, the Administration of which States bore the entire cost of compilation, and making allowance for the municipal contributions and other recoveries, the Census statistics of a population of 73,245,496 persons were abstracted and tabulated at a cost of Rs. 6,20,000, so that the saving on the allotment made by the Census Commissioner was Rs. 30,000. Mr. O'Donnell's conclusion is that the allotments for abstraction were generally found to be ample, but that in tabulation they were very frequently exceeded, not because they were insufficient, but because the clerks in many offices combined to resist the tasks required of them, and so to prolong the period of their employment. His suggestions for future retrenchment in these operations do not call for present orders.

14. The Lieutenant-Governor considers the savings of nearly a lakh of rupees to be proof of the firm control maintained over expenditure by the Census Superintendent; but from information which has reached him from various quarters, Sir Antony MacDonnell is disposed to think that a little more liberality, while it would not have detracted from the credit due to Mr. O'Donnell, would have made the Census machinery work more smoothly. Serious inconvenience was caused in several districts by the rigid economy enforced in the supply of enumeration books. Sufficient allowance seems hardly to have been made in some instances for local difficulties, and the want of competent clerks, and funds for preliminary expenditure were not always adequate. It is not usual for the Government to look askance at economy of expenditure, and Sir Antony MacDonnell is far from under-estimating the Superintendent's devotion to this part of his duties. But it is to be remembered that if private persons did not largely assist the Government on these occasions by the gratuitous loan of their services, the cost of a Census in India would be enormous. Illiberality of treatment deters unofficial persons from helping us in time of need, and the Lieutenant-Governor therefore thinks that the claims to be recouped reasonable expenses, put forward by such private persons who have devoted time and trouble to the service of Government, should not be scrutinized in a grudging spirit. The Lieutenant-Governor takes this opportunity of recording his cordial acknowledgments of the invaluable assistance which private individuals have gratuitously given the Government on this occasion.

15. The chapter on Census Legislation, which is the fifth of Mr. O'Donnell's Report, the Lieutenant-Governor leaves for consideration when the arrangements for the next Census are under discussion.

Census Legislation.

16. The second part of the Superintendent's Report, dealing with the results of the Census, commences with his sixth chapter, which contains a statement of the actual population discovered by the Census, and a succinct but graphic account of the country in which they live. Mr. O'Donnell has abandoned the usual arrangement by which the Lower Provinces of Bengal are portioned out into administrative Divisions; and for the purpose of examination, looking chiefly to their geographical and ethnological characteristics, he has broken up the traditional provinces of Bengal, Bihar and Orissa, and has re-arranged the districts of Bengal into the following great groups: (I) Northern Bengal, consisting of (a) the plains portion of the Rajshahi Division with parts of Malda and Purnea, and (b) Darjeeling, the Western Duars and Kuch Bihar. (II) Eastern Bengal, comprising the Dacca and Chittagong Divisions and the Khulna district, divided into (a) the inland districts, (b) the littoral districts, and (c) the Sunderbuns, besides the Chittagong Hills and the State of Hill Tippera. Western Bengal (III) includes the districts of (a) the Presidency and (b) Burdwan Divisions, and (c) the metropolitan towns. North Bihar (IV) including the sub-Himalayan tract, South Bihar (V) the southern area bordering on the Chutia Nagpur Division. Orissa (VI) and Chutia Nagpur (VII) each fall naturally into two parts—that under the direct control of the Lieutenant-Governor, and that under the Chiefs of the Tributary States, to which has been added the British district of the Sonthal Parganas. This arrangement certainly groups the population upon an intelligent and instructive system, while the figures which are contained in the statements appended to the report enable an examination of the figures to be conducted upon the old lines.

The results of the Census.

17. The population is distributed as follows over the great natural divisions of the Province described above :—

The distribution of the population.

	Area.	Population.	Density.
Northern Bengal	21,836	10,002,671	456·6
Eastern Bengal	34,238	16,007,257	467·1
Western Bengal	22,994	14,388,337	622·7
Total Bengal Proper ...	79,068	40,398,265	510·3
North Bihar	19,118	12,901,025	674·8
South „	16,421	8,364,125	509·3
Total Bihar ...	35,539	21,265 150	595·8
Orissa	24,240	5,744,062	232·8
Chutia Nagpur	48.489	7,266,347	149·8
Grand Total ..	187,336	74,673,824	398·3

The above figures show that the Bengali population proper amounts to 54·09 per cent. of the total, and that it covers an area of 42·2 per cent. of the province; that the Biharis amount to 28·47 per cent. of the population and inhabit 18·9 per cent. of the area of the province; that the Uriyas, with a country covering 12·9 per cent. of the area of Bengal, are 7·69 per cent. of the population. Finally, the inhabitants of Chutia Nagpur, who are mostly aboriginals living in a thinly-populated tract, are 9·73 per cent. of the whole, and are scattered over an area which is equivalent to 25·9 per cent. of the whole country.

18. The figures for North Bihar are phenomenal. This tract contains no great cities, except Patna (165,192) and Gaya (80,383), and is in all respects a purely rural country; yet it carries a population of 674·8 to the square mile, and some of its districts show such wonderful figures as 930 (Saran), 902 (Muzaffarpur), and 840 (Darbhanga). Next in the list of sub-provinces comes Western Bengal, with a density of 622·7 per square mile, but this is largely due to the inclusion of Calcutta and the Suburbs with the towns of Howrah and Bally, and if these are excluded, the population of the sub-province amounts only to 508 to the square mile. How these figures compare with those recorded in other provinces of the Empire will be seen from the the statistics below, which are taken from Table I of the Imperial Census Tables—

	Area.	Population.	Density per square mile.
Bengal ...	151,543	71,346,987	470·8
Assam ...	49,004	5,476,833	111·7
Bombay ...	125,144	18,901.123	151·
Burma ...	171,430	7,605,560	44·3
Central Provinces ...	86,501	10,784,294	124·6
Madras ...	141,189	35,630,440	252·3
North-Western Provinces ...	107,503	46,905,085	436·4
Punjab ...	110,667	20,866,847	188·5

Some of the district figures have been quoted above: the density ranges from 1,264 to the square mile in Howrah to 20 in the Hill Tracts of Chittagong. Altogether eleven districts have an average population of 700 or more to the square mile, as against ten in 1881. The two lists given in the margin show the comparative density at the two periods, and they also demonstrate clearly the general advance in density in these districts which were already over-populated.

* Excluding Feudatory States, &c.

19. The seventh chapter of Mr. O'Donnell's Report deals with a subject of very great administrative importance, viz., the variation of the population, district by district, since 1881, and he rightly describes the chapter as one of the most important in the volume. The district figures are discussed with care and minuteness, and extracts are given from the reports of many district officers, which the Lieutenant-Governor has read with interest. These are, however, too numerous for notice here, and His Honour must content himself with referring to some of the most important among them, as well as the figures for areas larger than the district.

Increase and decrease of the population.

20. The Census Superintendent has followed the same arrangement of areas which has already been referred to in previous paragraphs He has also, with commendable industry, carried still further the investigations into increase and decrease which were very fully discussed in Chapter V of the Bengal Census Report for 1881. Mr. O'Donnell has shown in a small table for every district the variation, actual and proportionate, in the number of persons actually enumerated in the district in 1881 and in 1891, and he has also ascertained, by a judicious use of the birthplace statistics, what may be called the corrected population for each district. From the recorded total have been deducted the figures for all persons enumerated in the district who were born elsewhere; on the other hand there have been added the numbers of those who, though born in the district, have been enumerated elsewhere, the result being the population actually born in the district. From this operation two important results emerge: it is possible to recognize very clearly in what districts population is increasing or decreasing, irrespective of outside influences, and it is not less easy to see to what localities immigrants resort and what tracts are being depleted by emigration.

21. When people are prosperous and live in a healthy climate, population usually increases. But it is not always safe to infer prosperity from an increase in population: the inference, however, in the case of Eastern Bengal would not be incorrect. An examination of the figures shows very clearly that, during the ten years which elapsed between 1881 and 1891, the districts of this sub-province have, without exception, made great strides in material prosperity and in numbers. Not long before the Census of 1881 their prosperity was rudely checked, and great loss of life and vast damage to property were caused by the cyclone and storm-wave of October 1876: but even in 1881 the ravages of that terrible calamity had been largely repaired, and the advance which had then commenced has been so well sustained, hat between that year and 1891 there was an increase of 10 per cent. or more in every district of the Dacca and Chittagong Divisions, the progress being greatest in those which had suffered most severely in 1876, viz., Noakhali, Chittagong, Backergunge, and Tippera. Not far behind these districts come the Tributary States of Chutia Nagpur and the districts of the Chutia Nagpur Division, with the exception of Hazaribagh. The non-Aryan races are said by Mr. O'Donnell to be extremely prolific, and the fine climate of this tract, and the simple habits of its people, all tend to the preservation of life and the rapid reproduction of the species. Nevertheless, these facts do not sufficiently account for the recorded increase, and it seems impossible to doubt that much of it is due, especially in the Tributary States, as in the contiguous Tributary States of Orissa, to more accurate enumeration, and in some extent to immigration. The same explanation alone suits the great increase in Darjeeling of 28·1 per cent. in the number of women. As soon as the figures of 1881 were published, it was suspected that there had been in this district a great concealment in the number of women, and the suspicion is now verified. The district of Malda, which, during the decade, has enjoyed a season of uninterrupted prosperity, has also increased 14·4 per cent. on the population of 1881. Saran, which is the most densely populated rural district in the province, and which was described by Mr. Beverley in 1872 as incapable of sustaining any further burden on the soil, shows an advance in its net population of 13·3 per cent.: Howrah, which is essentially an urban district, has an increase of 17·2 per cent., which the Census Superintendent is unable to credit. No districts give a net decrease except Birbhum (4 per cent.), Rajshahi (3·1), and Burdwan and Rangpur (1 per cent. each). In all these districts fever has been continuously prevalent.

22. The general results for the larger areas of Mr. O'Donnell's classification are as follow:—

23. The statistics of gross population display, as might have been expected, greater variation, for whereas in respect of net population there were seventeen districts which showed an advance of 10 per cent. or more, and only four which returned an absolute decrease, the varying tide of migration has added so eccentric a factor to the natural progress of population, that while fifteen tracts show an advance in gross population, the number of tracts in which numbers have actually fallen off is seven, viz. Kuch Bihar (3·9), Birbhum (3·8), Jessore (2·5), Rangpur (1·6), Rajshahi (1·2), Nadia (1·1), and Burdwan (0·1). The districts of Eastern Bengal again take a prominent place, as the figures in the margin will show, clearly proving that the favourable conditions of life in those districts have invited settlers as well as stimulated natural increase. In Howrah and the 24-Parganas, "the Middlesex of Bengal," the attractions of the metropolis and of the great mills and factories which gird it about account for the increase: in Darjeeling and Jalpaiguri the very high figures are attributable to the development of the tea industry, the more accurate census being in Darjeeling an additional explanation. Malda and Bogra are two prosperous tracts in the generally stagnant area of the Rajshahi Division, while the prospect of virgin soil at easy rates of rent, and the facilities afforded by the new railway, have flooded the Sonthal Parganas, Manbhum, and the Chutia Nagpur States with immigrants.

24. Focussing all the province in one general view, it seems that only in one large tract, viz., Eastern Bengal, has there been a general and marked advance of the gross population, viz., 13·5 per cent. Orissa and Chutia Nagpur, it is true, yield an increase of 10·2 and 12·2 per cent. respectively: but this is due, to an indefinite but large extent, to better enumeration. Bihar, thanks to the development of the sub-Himalayan tract and to the advance in the marvellous district of Saran, has been able to withstand the loss of population in its southern zone from fever and the heavy drain of emigration, and shows a gross increase of 4·7 per cent. On the other hand, in Northern Bengal, excluding the hilly tracts, every district but Malda and Bogra has either retrograded or remained stationary, and the general advance is only 2·5 per cent. Lastly, Western and Metropolitan Bengal, owing to the persistent fever which throughout the decade has clung to the districts of that sub-province, has a percentage of increase, excluding the metropolitan towns, of only 3 per cent.

Emigration and Immigration.

25. The Report leaves no room for doubt that since 1881 the habit of emigration, chiefly of a temporary character only, has increased to some extent among the people of these provinces. The pressure on the soil in some districts, the facilities of railway communication, and the increased cost of living everywhere, have induced an emigration which was unknown ten years ago. Excluding those who had passed out of India and could not be traced, the balance of migration to and from other provinces against Bengal in 1881 was 147,001, whereas in 1891 as many as 821,998 persons had left Bengal, as against 506,423 who had come in, leaving a balance against the Lower Provinces of 315,575 persons, or more than double the loss of population ten years before. For this great drain Assam is mainly responsible, that province containing at the time of the census 418,360 persons born in Bengal, of whom 190,774 were emigrants from Chutia Nagpur. The distribution of the emigrants from Bengal is given below—

North-Western Provinces and Oudh	206,018	Madras	10,923
Assam	418,360	Punjab	7,654
Central Provinces ...	55,741	Bombay and Sindh ...	11,218
		Burma	112,084

26. The migration beyond the province is of course small compared to the movement of population within the province itself. Impressed with the greatness of the latter movement, Mr. O'Donnell doubts whether "any nation in the Old World is within its own limits in a more constant state of movement or more ready to change its homes." The Lieutenant-Governor has no information before him as to the volume of this migratory movement in European countries, but in Bengal the facts do not seem to warrant the significance which Mr. O'Donnell attaches to them, nor to show any very appreciable difference from what was already well known on the subject. In 1881, after excluding all those persons, the districts of whose birth had not been recorded, and all those enumerated in Bengal who were born outside the Province, there were found in Bengal 68,467,933 persons who had been born within its limits: to these may be added 615,286 persons born in Bengal and found elsewhere, so that the number of Bengal-born persons in that year, excluding those whose returns were indefinite, was 69,083,219. Of this number, only 3,428,867, or 4·96 per cent., were enumerated in districts other than that in which they were born, and 615,286 (or ·88 per cent.) were found in other provinces. The inter-district and inter-provincial migration of the people in 1881 then was measured by 5·84 per cent. of the total Bengal-born population. In 1891 the number of persons in Bengal, of whose birthplaces we have information, was 73,848,719, and those Bengal-born persons who were found elsewhere numbered 821,998, so that the total of natives of Bengal in 1891 was 74,670,717. Of this number 3,775,582, or 5·05 per cent., were found in districts other than that of their birth, and, as already stated, 821,998, or 1·1 per cent., were enumerated outside the province. The migration of the people in 1891 then is measured by 6·15 per cent. on the total Bengal-born population, or ·31 more than in 1881. The increase is not more than a very moderate response to the increased facilities of communication which have come into existence during the decade; while taken absolutely, the migration is not of a magnitude to call for any special notice, or to justify the Superintendent's description of it. If it be remembered that the boundaries of districts and of provinces are often merely conventional lines, the dwellers on both sides of which are practically the same people, intermarrying freely, and passing without stint backwards and forwards on business or pleasure, it would seem that the movement recorded is really inconsiderable, and that the statement of the Census Superintendent of 1881, that the natives of these provinces are "above all things a domestic and stay-at-home people," is nearer the mark than the later statement now under notice.

27. In many districts, of course, which march with provincial boundaries, there is a considerable immigrant population, and a considerable number of its natives are found elsewhere: so, also, where there are special attractions, a district shows a large immigrant population, or conversely, where the pressure on the soil is great or the climate unhealthy, the proportion of emigrants is large. These ratios are worked out district by district in Mr. O'Donnell's Report, in a series of tables for each sub-province of his classification. In eight districts the immigrants amount to 10 per cent. or more of the population, and in twenty others the ratio is 5 per cent. or more. Only three districts show a percentage of more than 10 of emigrants to the total born in the district, but in twenty-two others the ratio is between 5 and 10 per cent. The districts with the largest proportion of emigrants and immigrants are given in the two lists in the margin.

Urban population.

28. Bengal, as judged by the relative proportions of its urban and rural population, remains as much as ever an agricultural country of small villages and hamlets. The total figures of urban population in 1881 and 1891 unfortunately cannot be fairly compared, since the meaning of the term was differently construed in the two years. In 1881 every municipality, whatever its population, was reckoned as a town, as was every village or group of villages with more than 5,000 inhabitants, provided that it was really urban in character, while in 1891 that term only included those places to which Government has seen fit to extend municipal legislation. There is, therefore, an apparent decrease in the urban population of 203,811; but comparing the population of existing municipal areas with the population of the same places in 1881, there has been an increase of 304,236 persons, or 9·36 per cent., in the decade. This increase is far from universal, so that Bengal as yet knows nothing of that indraught to the great cities which is so prominent a feature of European sociology. Where the urban population has increased, there has always been a specific cause, such as the development of railway communications, as in Mokameh and Jamalpur, Lohardaga and Daltonganj, Muzaffarpur, Darbhanga, and Chapra, coupled sometimes with the attractions of climate, as in Darjeeling; the development of trade, as in Jalpaiguri, Dacca, Chittagong, and Narainganj, or a purely fortuitous and temporary influx of pilgrims as in Puri.

29. The number of villages with less than 200 inhabitants is 54 per cent. of the whole, and an interesting table shows what proportion of the total population in each geographical division lives in villages of different sizes. As might have been expected from the universal fertility of the country, the agricultural habits of the people, and their long freedom from war and rapine, Bengal has comparatively speaking fewer large towns than any other of the great Indian provinces. Mr. O'Donnell writes:—

"The Lower Provinces contain 37 towns with more than 20,000 inhabitants, the number in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh being precisely the same, and in the Madras Presidency only one less. In Bombay 21 towns exceed this population, and in the Punjab 23. In the proportion of great towns to total provincial population the rank of these great administrative divisions is the reverse of that in which they have been detailed above, the Punjab taking the first place and Bengal the last. The only point in which the Lower Provinces can claim any urban superiority lies in the fact that Calcutta, as befits its metropolitan position, is the largest city in the Empire, with a population, including its immediate suburbs, of 879,154 souls, Bombay with 821,764 inhabitants being a close second, Madras coming a rather distant third with 452,518 people within its municipal limits. The two former great Indian capitals have the distinction of exceeding in population every city in the British Empire except London, whilst only Liverpool, Manchester, and Birmingham surpass Madras. The only capitals in Europe that possess a larger population than Calcutta are Paris, Berlin, and St. Petersburgh; in Asia, Tokio; and in the rest of the world four great cities of the United States of America."

Europeans and Eurasians.

30. The numbers and distribution of the European and Eurasian population are matters of interest not only to the Administration, but to the general public. The numbers at the present census and the last appear to have been as follows:—

	British-born subjects.	Other Europeans.	Eurasians.	Total.
1881	10,583	13,638	14,705	38,926
1891	9,198	13,575	15,162	37,935
Difference ...	—1,385	—63	+457	—991

The decrease among the Europeans has been entirely in Calcutta, where the English-born fell from 5,923 in 1881 to 4,225 in 1891—a result so unexpected that the Superintendent hazards the conjecture that some of the forms for Europeans in Calcutta have been mislaid and their contents omitted from calculation. Rather more than half of the 22,773 Europeans, viz. 11,914, are found in Calcutta, the only other districts which have more than 1,000 Europeans being the 24-Parganas (2,010), Patna (1,662), and Darjeeling (1,049), their prominence being due to the cantonments they contain. Howrah, with 826 is not far behind.

31. The figures for the Eurasian population are full of significance, and it is to be regretted that it is not possible to place implicit confidence in them. It is well known that there exists among certain classes of them a tendency to record themselves as pure Europeans, and this must to a certain, though indefinable, extent impair the value of the returns. Nevertheless the fact that Europeans have not increased during the decade, even after making every allowance for possible errors in the Calcutta census, gives some ground for the belief that the Eurasian returns are fairly reliable. Their inclination, as is well known, is to cluster in colonies in the older towns of the province, so that Calcutta returns 9,818, or 64·7 per cent. of the whole number, Howrah, with its mills and railway workshops, shows 810, Chittagong contains 575, Patna 570, Burdwan 382, Monghyr 343. Their increase during the decade has only been 3·1 per cent., and the figures given by Mr. O'Donnell go to show that, contrary to the general opinion, they are not prolific. Moreover, his statistics confirm the conviction that the poverty and the habits of those who form a large percentage of the community are inimical to health and longevity. Out of every 20,000 persons in England of each sex, 1,380 males and 1,501 females are over 50 years of age; in the total population of the Lower Provinces, which is almost entirely native, the proportions are 1,032 males and 1,191 females, while among Eurasians the figures are for males 923 and for females 1,151.

The religions of the people.

32. The statistics of religious belief have at each preceding census afforded information of great interest, and the enumeration of 1891 is no exception to the rule. In 1872 it was demonstrated, for the first time, that the stronghold of Muhammadanism was not, as had till then been supposed, the great and ancient city of Patna and the old Moghul province of Bihar, but the swamps and rice-fields of Eastern Bengal: in 1881 a considerable advance of Hindus was displayed, which was attributed to the inclusion in that category of many members of aboriginal or semi-aboriginal tribes, while the Report of 1891 gives good ground for the conclusion that the feature of the past ten years has been the great development of Islam. Mr. O'Donnell has discussed the subject with care, and has shown conclusively, by the aid of statistical tables, that throughout the province during the past decade the Muhammadans have gained steadily on the Hindus, while in Bengal Proper, during the nineteen years which have elasped since the census of 1872, the deficiency of half a million of Muhammadans has been wiped out, and has been replaced by an excess of one million and-a-half. The Census Superintendent attributes this result less to conversion than to the fecundity of the Muhammadan population, and his remarks merit quotation:—

"On the other hand, the Muhammadan faith, like the Sikh, opens its arms to every comer and receives him on terms of the broadest equality, if the profession he actually pursues is not an essentially degrading one. All the agricultural castes—the Chandal, Kaibartta or Chasa—on joining Musalmansim develops into a Shaikh, and it depends only on his wordly wealth to what rank he may aspire in seeking a bride for himself or a husband for his daughter. It is a matter of history that the republican character of the domestic constitution of Musalman society won innumerable converts in Eastern Bengal when the Moghul supremacy was first established in that region a few centuries ago. It would be strange if it did not still exert a strong attraction, and the great growth of the faith would seem to bear witness to this opinion, which, however, it is impossible to prove statistically. It is known that a powerful Muhammadan propaganda is at work, and that the preaching of the ubiquitous Mullahs and Mirs is directed not only to instil the precepts of a higher life, according to the doctrines of the Koran, on Musalmans, but to gain new followers for its teachings. That converts should result seem natural, but, however this may be, it is certain that the great growth of Musalmansim in Bengal Proper is connected rather with physical than doctrinal forces. The Musalman with his more varied and nutritious dietary is probably a more vigorous man than the Hindu. Moreover, the universal practice of widow marriage, which the Bengali Hindu holds in abhorrence, adds very largely to the reproductive class amongst Muhammadan women. On the other hand, ill-assorted marriages are far more common amongst Hindus, men well advanced in years being united to girl-wives who in the natural course of human life are left widows, debarred from further maternity at a comparatively early age Musalmans also, particularly in Eastern Bengal, are polygamists whenever they have the means to support a second wife, generally a widow, married as often as a convenient unpaid domestic drudge as for the sake of the children she usually bears her master."

33. The actual figures for the different religions in 1881 and 1891, their ratio in 10,000 of the population, and their variation during the decade, are shown in the statement below :—

34. It has been stated that the census figures of 1872 first showed how strictly localised the religions of the province were, and the localisation of religion is as distinct as ever. In every district of Orissa more than 90 per cent. of the population are Hindus, while Bihar is only slightly less Hindu, since in every district of the Patna and Bhagalpur Divisions, except Purnea, they number 85 per cent. or more. No district is so exclusively Muhammadan as these are Hindu, the highest proportion of Muhammadans being reached in Bogra (80·62), while in Rajshahi (78·72), Noakhali (75·30), Pabna (73·31), and Chittagong (71·69) they exceed 70 per cent., and the other districts of Eastern Bengal without exception have a Muhammadan population of more than 60 per cent. Animistic religions are of course most largely represented in the Orissa and Chutia Nagpur Divisions and in the districts bordering on them.

35. The Chutia Nagpur Division is also conspicuous for the great increase of Christians which it shows. Christianity, though the number of its adherents is still comparatively small, being 128,135 in all, or 26 in every 10,000 of the general population, has throughout the Lower Provinces made greater progress, relatively speaking, during the last decade than any other religion, the advance being 50·21 per cent.; but in the Chutia Nagpur Division the increase has been 122·6 per cent., the numbers having advanced from 40,373 in 1881 to 89,654 in 1891. Mr. O'Donnell's report examines the distribution of this increase among the various denominations of the Christian religion, and his observations will be read with interest by the friends of missionary enterprise in India. The recorded figures have, however, to be received with considerable reservations, and a comparison of figures for denominations at the time of the two censuses is extremely difficult, on account of considerable differences of description at the two periods.

The ages of the people.

36. Like his predecessor in 1881, Mr. O'Donnell has devoted much trouble and time to the extraction of the ages of the population, and, like him, has been compelled to confess that the result is entirely incommensurate with the labour and expense involved. In 1881 age-periods were for the first time compiled in detail in India, and were worked out on two abstraction sheets. In 1891 four abstraction sheets were used to record the ages of the whole population, of which two (Nos. I and XI) formed the basis of check for all the work of abstraction, and were therefore corrected with the utmost care. The cost of preparing these great tables has been estimated by Mr. O'Donnell at about two and three-quarter lakhs of rupees, or more than one-half of the total cost of abstraction, and the Lieutenant-Governor notes with sympathy the Superintendent's disheartening conclusion that the greater part of this large sum was absolutely thrown away. So strong is Mr. O'Donnell's conviction on this point that he has proposed that in future the age-tables of only a part—perhaps six millions of the population—should be abstracted, typical circles, both urban and rural, being selected for treatment. No orders are required upon this proposal now, but the Lieutenant-Governor has no doubt that it will receive the fullest consideration before the census of 1901 is undertaken.

37. For the reasons stated above, it would be unprofitable to examine at any length the voluminous age-tables which are contained both in the statistical volumes of the Report and in the letter-press of Mr. O'Donnell's first volume, and in any case such interest as they possess is purely statistical. The errors in recording the ages of the population which were observed in 1881 are repeated in 1891 with very slight variations, so much so that the Superintendent of the Census just taken quotes in extenso the observations of his predecessor as exactly applicable to the figures before him. A great effort was made by the Agra Conference to remove one prolific source of error, by directing that children under one year of age should be described simply as "infant," instead of by the number of months of age—a device which in 1881 is believed to have resulted in large numbers of infants of less than 12 months being returned as of the corresponding number of years. This change, however, seems to have been quite unsuccessful, and the figures again present the absurd spectacle not only in Bengal, but all over India, of more children alive between the ages of 5 to 9 than those of 0 to 4; while in the first five years of life the fourth is most largely represented, followed in succession by the first fifth, third, and second, in that order. Again, too, the phenomenon reappears of large numbers of ages returned at the round numbers, multiples of 5 and 10; and the Superintendent, carrying his investigations beyond the quinquennial periods to groups for each year of life, has shown that certain favourite ages—12, 16, 22, 32, and 42—have been returned by an altogether disproportionate number of the population. The fact is that the vast majority of the people are still so illiterate, and their inaccuracy as regards their ages so universal, that the collection of trustworthy age statistics is for the present a hopeless task in Bengal.

38. After the census of 1881, the figures then obtained were referred to a distinguished English statistician, Mr. Hardy, who, by the aid of a small number of accurately recorded life statistics from the North-Western Provinces, elaborately corrected the chaotic figures presented to him. Mr. O'Donnell has applied the conclusions so obtained to the returns of the late census, and has redistributed the age figures over 10,000 of the population in all the great natural divisions of the country, producing statistics which, if they do not carry to the Lieutenant-Governor's mind complete conviction of their accuracy, bear testimony to the industry of the writer, who has based upon them conclusions as to the fecundity and longevity of the different religions and races in different parts of the province, which are at least plausible and ingenious. Out of the mists and uncertainties of these statistics, however, there emerge two conclusions of practical importance, which are at least vraisemblable. It is stated that in the Lower Provinces the true birth-rate is 47·9 per thousand (49·7 for males and 46·0 for females), and the death-rate 39·9 per thousand, being 41·7 for males and 38·0 for females. These ratios, based upon the conclusions of the European statistician already referred to, differ but slightly from those arrived at by Mr. Bourdillon in 1881, who deduced from the figures of that census a birth-rate of "not less than 45 per mille" and a death-rate of "about 34 per mille." These results go far to demonstrate, if further demonstration be needed, how exceedingly imperfect are the present vital statistics, which, according to the report of the Sanitary Commissioner for 1892, yielded in that year a Provincial birth-rate of 28·15 and a death-rate of 31·92 per mille.

Sex and marriage.

39. Not less interesting than the question of the ages of the people are those of their sex and conjugal condition, which are discussed at length in Chapter XI of Mr. O'Donnell's Report (Volume III). At the census of 1872 no attempt was made to publish statistics of civil condition except as an experiment for a few towns, and even then they were not shown in connection with age. In 1881 civil condition, religion and age were shown in combination, and details of the single, married and widowed of each sex were given for every religion in nine age-groups. In 1891 the same statistics were shown again; but a great step in advance was taken in the abstraction of these figures not only for religions, but for castes. The results obtained at either census were practically identical, and this fact affords strong evidence of the general accuracy of both; but the statistics for marriage in each caste have enabled Mr. O'Donnell to make a deduction which, though already brought to notice by Mr. Risley, C.I.E., in 1887, has now been statistically established for the first time, and is among the most interesting results of the present census, viz., the great extent to which widow-marriage is practised among the Hindu population. This conclusion is opposed to Brahminical teaching and to the supposed customs of the people; but the figures, supported by the conclusions independently formed by Mr. Risley, leave little room for doubt on the subject.

40. The proportion of the sexes varies greatly in different parts of the Lower Provinces and in different religions. In 1881 the Provincial Superintendent remarked that the accuracy of a census in India varied with the excess of females over males, the measure of accuracy being the degree of excess; of course the generalization was only a rough one. Every census ought to be more accurate than that which preceded it, and accordingly, while in 1881 there were all over the Province 1,011 females to every 1,000 males, in 1891 the proportion had risen to 1,032. In all the other great provinces of India, except Madras, the ratio of females to males has also increased: in Madras the women to every 10,000 men are two less than in 1881. It is also to be observed that in Bengal and Madras alone do the women outnumber the men, the proportions for other provinces being as follow: Bombay 957, North-Western Provinces and Oudh 923, and the Punjab 854. The ratios in the two latter provinces are appreciably affected by the large number of troops enumerated therein.

41. The Census Superintendent has the following observations on the distribution of females. They are quoted with the view of inviting further examination of the question by persons interested in such enquiries—

"It thus appears that the excess of females is found only in the western moiety of the Lower Provinces, that is, west of a line drawn north and south from Darjeeling to Calcutta, and that it is most marked in Bihar, which touches on the North-Western Provinces, where women generally, and particularly those of marriageable age, viz., from five to twenty years of age, are singularly few. On the other hand," both in Northern and Eastern Bengal there is a deficit of females, there being only 966 persons of that sex to 1,000 males in each of these sub-provinces. As will appear in the Chapter on Castes and Tribes, this line of cleavage, marked by so important a physiologic distinction as sex predominance, corresponds exactly with the ethnical frontier which divides the races of Mongoloid origin to the east from those of Negritic descent on the west of the Bhagirathi. The deficiency of females in Northern Bengal is to some extent perhaps due to the large cold-weather immigration of men from Bihar, mostly Hindus, and so far counterbalances their excess in Bihar, but it is entirely insufficient to account for the great difference in sex proportion. Amongst Musalmans the sexes are in more nearly equal ratio. The low proportion of Hindu women in Eastern Bengal can hardly be in any degree due to immigration of males. Amongst Musalmans another influence reducing the number of females is indicated by the extremely small number of old women in that community. The prolificness of the Eastern Musalmans is proverbial, and has been proved in detail in the Chapter on Age, but it is bought at the price of a heavy female mortality and short lives amongst women. Whilst among Hindus out of 10,000 women 1,283 exceed 50 years of age, there are only 781 Musalman women of that age in an equal population. In Western Bengal there is an excess of women. Although nearly every district in this area receives a large immigration population, it is mostly derived from the Chutia Nagpur tribes, who, unlike the Bihari and Uriya, rarely leave their womenfolk at home. The great similarity of the proportions of the sexes at every age in both North and South Bihar for both Hindus and Musalmans is a striking evidence of the excellence of compilation in the Census offices of that province."

42. The proportion of single, married, and widowed of either sex in 10,000 of the population at each census is shown in the following table for the different provinces:—

43. The figures for males yield no very remarkable results, but it is a significant fact that since 1881 the general age of males at marriage has increased considerably, and that there are now a larger portion of the unmarried, both bachelors and widowers, than formerly. Mr. O'Donnell has ascribed these phenomena to the increased cost of living and to the greater weight now accorded to prudential considerations, to which must be added the fact that the population of Chutia Nagpur and Orissa, where males marry later than anywhere else, has increased very largely during the decade. Whatever be the cause, the above table shows there are now 103 fewer married men (not 97, as Mr. O'Donnell says) and 71 fewer married women in 10,000 of each sex than there were ten years ago. Infant-marriage among boys exists to an appreciable extent only among the Hindus of Bihar and Chutia Nagpur, and to a less degree among the Musalmans of the former province, being least common among the people of Orissa, both Hindu and Animistic. In Bengal Proper men marry later than in any part of the province, the percentage of unmarried males between 15 and 20 years of age being 70·5 in that sub-province and 74·3 in Orissa, as compared with 34·7 in Bihar and 47·5 in Chutia Nagpur; and the correctness of Mr. O'Donnell's inference that the age of marriage is fixed by local rather than by religious or social usage is proved by the fact that amongst Musulmans between 15 and 20 years of age as many as 67·8 per cent. are unmarried in Bengal against 51·4 in Bihar.

44. The facts elicited as regards female marriage are full of interest, and they show that custom in regard to the marriage of females is much more influential and much more divergent than is the case with males. If infant-marriage be, in regard to females, defined as the marriage of children under twelve years of age, then infant-marriage is almost universal in these Provinces, except in Orissa and Chutia Nagpur. But if the ten years' age-limit be taken, then Mr. O'Donnell finds that infant-marriage, that is, the marriage of children less than ten years of age, although far more common among girls than among boys, is less prevalent among females than some have believed—in fact, like the predominance of females noticed above, it is practically speaking only found in the western half of the Province. Musalmans do not follow the practice, for in no part of Bengal is the percentage of the married among Muhammadan girls under ten years of age higher than 8·66, and the general average is much less. The percentages for Hindus in different parts of the Province are marginally stated. It is established, further, that with some exceptions the earliness of female marriage varies inversely with the respectability of the caste or tribe, the lowest castes, who do not seclude their females, marrying off their daughters at the earliest age, while the better classes, by whom seclusion is practised, are able on that account to delay till a later period the choice of a husband. In the next place, the local rather than the religious or social variation in the age at marriage of females is more strongly marked than in the case of males. Girls married under ten years of age hardly exist except in North Bihar. The average age of marriage for girls all over the province is eleven years, but the Hindu girl of Orissa is married at thirteen years and four months, while the Dravidian girl in Chutia Nagpur marries at fourteen, and in Orissa at fourteen and-a-half years of age.

45. Lastly, to quote Mr. O'Donnell's words, the census statistics establish the fact that "young widows, an object of pity in all times and countries, are very few except among the Hindus of Bengal Proper. Everywhere else the Hindu widow remarries as freely as the Musulmani, in fact as freely as the non-Hindu tribes of the Western Hill districts;" and he sums up the conclusions at which he has arrived in the synoptical table quoted in the margin: "It shows how very widespread is this custom. It is in fact condemned only by the priestly, writer and soldier castes, and by some traders in all sub-provinces, by the Nabusakhs or pure Sudras in Bengal Proper, and in a less degree by a few Hinduized tribes, such as the Chandal, Kochh, and Kaiburtta, who are trying to raise themselves in the Hindu scale by a more exact observance of Hindu ordinances." This opinion coincides with the opinion independently expressed by Mr. Risley, who, after a careful examination of the whole subject, writes as follows:—

"In Bihar a fairly liberal tendency seems to prevail. All castes except Brahmans, Rajputs, Babhans, and Kayasths, and certain castes belonging to the Baniya class, which are not properly native to Bihar, permit widows to marry again by the form known as sagai. * * * * In Chutia Nagpur the castes which are, or pretend to be, of Bihar origin, follow the Bihar rules in the matter of widow-marriage. The aboriginal tribes, Santhals, Bhumij, Mundas, Oraons, and Hos, permit widows to marry again. * * * * The tendency to imitate the usages of the higher castes, which has been remarked in Bihar and Chutia Nagpur, operates much more strongly in Bengal Proper and Orissa. * * * *

"The present attitude of the Hindu community towards the recent proposals to recognize and extend the practice of widow-marriage may, I think, be briefly stated somewhat to the following effect. The most advanced class of educated men sympathise in a general way with the movement, but their sympathy is clouded by the apprehension that any considerable addition to the number of marriageable women would add to the existing difficulty and expense of getting their daughters married Below these we find a very numerous class of men who are educated enough to appreciate the prohibition of widow-marriage supposed to be contained in certain texts, and who have no desire to go behind that or any similar injunction in support of which tolerably ancient authority can be quoted. Then come the great mass of the uneducated working classes, with rather vague notions as to the Shastras, but strong in their reverence for Brahmans and keen to appreciate points of social precedence. To them widow-marriage is a badge of social degradation, a link which connects those who practise it with Doms, Boonas, Bagdis and 'low people' of various kinds. Lastly, at the bottom of society, as understood by the average Hindu, we find a large group of castes and tribes of which the lower section is represented by pure aborigines practising adult-marraige and widow-remarriage, while the upper section consists of castes of doubtful origin, most of whom, retaining widow-marriage, have taken to infant-marriage, while some have got so far as to throw off sub-castes distinguished by their abstention from widow-marriage."

46. The truth is that the practice of widow-remarriage is more prevalent in Bengal than is generally supposed, and—a most important consideration—the practice has apparently spread considerably since 1881. The statement in the margin, prepared from the table given at page 100, Volume I of the Census Report for 1881, and Table VIII-B of Volume IV of the census of 1891, compares the proportion of widows in every 10,000 Hindu females in four age-groups of the child-bearing period at each census. The great decrease in the proportion of widows is very striking, and, as might be expected, the decrease is most marked at the most marriageable ages, though it exists at all child-bearing ages. These results must be due to one or more of three causes—first, there must have been a decrease in the comparative number of infant-marriages of girls, as the widows in the first period are so much fewer than in 1881; secondly, there may have been a general increase in the practice of widow-marriage; and, lastly, there may have been a great addition to Hinduism from those tribes and castes who do not practise infant-marriage, and allow the marriage of widows. To what extent each of these influences has been at work it is impossible to say: probably each has contributed its share; but bearing in mind the extreme conservatism of Hindu society, the efforts of some sections of the community to raise their social position by encouraging infant-marriage and forbidding the remarriage of the widowed, and the almost imperceptible progress which any social reform of this magnitude can make in so short a period as ten years, the Lieutenant-Governor is disposed to think that the third of the suggested influences may have been the most potent.

47. The statistics on which Mr. O'Donnell's general conclusions are based have been worked out in great detail for each caste and tribe, and have been exhibited in a series of elaborate tables. In dealing with the question of marriage by caste, however, the Census Superintendent appears to have fallen into a serious error; for he has included under the title of sub-caste not only the sub-castes properly so-called, but also the exogamous sections of a caste and its hypergamous groups. Thus Mr. Risley's enquiries have established the fact that in the great Bihar caste of Babhans (which according to the local proverb contains as many subdivisions as there are sorts of rice) there are no sub-castes; yet Mr. O'Donnell has returned 675. The same may be said of the Rajputs, of whom 634 sub-castes are reported from the Patna Division alone. Again, the Bagdis, a Western Bengal caste, although they have, so far as is known, only 14 sub-castes (which are enumerated by Mr. Risley), have a large number of sections: Mr. O'Donnell has reported the existence of 120 sub-castes of Bagdi, most of which it is almost certain are really exogamous sections. As the statistics on which Mr. (O'Donnell's conclusions are based are preserved in manuscript, the Lieutenant-Governor has directed that they may be made over to Mr. Risley for use in the preparation of the revised edition of his "Castes and Tribes of Bengal," when the figures now given will be examined and incorporated after correction.

Education.

48. The tendency to elaboration in the information collated at each successive census has been conspicuously displayed in the statistics of education prepared from the census figures of 1891. Not only have they been worked out for both sexes and for all religions, as in 1881, but they include the elements of age and caste, and they record the ability or inability of the population to read and write English, and the castes of those who have attained this proficiency. For the purpose of testing the accuracy of the figures obtained at the census, an obvious standard is available in the figures of the Department of Education. In 1881 the Superintendent of Census and the Director of Public Instruction exchanged congratulations upon a general accord in the two sets of figures, which argued the accuracy of both. On the present occasion in place of accord there is an excessive divergence both from the census figures of 1881 and the departmental figures of the year 1890-91; but the Census Superintendent stoutly maintains the accuracy of his statistics, and in consequence impugns the correctness of those supplied by the Department. It appears that according to the census the number of male pupils in British territory in 1891 was 883,990 against 992,559 in 1881 and 1,358,169, as returned by the Director of Public Instruction for 1890-91. A reference to the results obtained in other provinces shows that everywhere except in Madras the same phenomena occur; and Mr. O'Donnell cites this fact as some evidence of the probable correctness of his compilation. The Lieutenant-Governor has no reason to doubt the accuracy of the totalling operations; but he cannot accept as correct the facts recorded in the schedules, without also concluding that there exists among the officials of the Department of Public Instruction, not only in Bengal, but in every province but one of the Empire, a conspiracy to supply false returns to Government. Rather than adopt such a conclusion, the Lieutenant-Governor prefers to think that by some fault of translation, or some misunderstanding of the instructions, enumerators have very largely understated the number of persons falling under the category of "learners." It has been suggested that the enumerators put a somewhat strict intepretation on the expression "learning," and on the one hand, returned as illiterate all the young children, and those who attend school irregularly are taught little and learn still less, and that, on the other hand, they returned as literate those who could read and write, although they were still scholars, and should have been returned as "learning."

49. Taking the figures as they stand, however, the following statement gives an abstract of the statistics for every 10,000 of each of the two principal religions :—

Hindus.						Musulmans.
Males.			Females.			Males.			Females.
Learning	Literate.	Illiterate.	Learning.	Literate.	Illiterate.	Learning.	Literate.	Illiterate.	Learning.	Literate.	Illiterate.
295	1,004	8,701	10	36	9,954	178	553	9,269	4	9	9,987

These figures afford ample food for reflection. As regards males, they show that 60 per cent. more Hindus are "learning" than Musalmans, and that the Hindus who can read and write are proportionately nearly twice as numerous as the Muhammadans. Among females ten Hindus are learning to every four Musalmanis, and the proportion of Hindus who can read and write is just four times as high as that of Musalmanis. The totals of illiterates are unnecessarily swollen by the inclusion of children and infants: in the Report on the Census of 1881 the Superintendent eliminated all children below five years of age, and worked out the proportion of learners, literates and illiterates in the remainder of the population, and the Lieutenant-Governor would have been glad had Mr. O'Donnell followed the same plan. As it is, it is impossible to institute a comparison between his carefully-prepared tables and those of the Census of 1881. The statistics of literacy are of the most satisfactory description. "The number of men in British territory who can read and write has increased from 1,955,177 to 2,948,794, or exactly 50 per cent., while for women the progress has been still larger, viz. from 60,567 to 109,684, or by 80·9 per cent." For males the increase appears in every district without exception, and the same is the case with females, except in those districts where it is almost certain that there was an excess in the returns of 1881. The largest increase appears in Bihar, the Patna Division having an advance of 85·4 per cent., and that of Bhagalpur an increase of 87·7 per cent.

50. An elaborate statement compares, district by district, the educational statistics of the sub-provinces, and Mr. O'Donnell's conclusions are these:—

"1. Western Bengal is the best educated division of the Lower Provinces, being closely followed by Eastern Bengal, which would excel it but for the great contingent of pupils and literate found in the metropolitan towns within the former area.

"2. In the Lieutenant-Governorship, including its tributaries, the proportion of Hindu literates is roundly double that of Musulmans.

"3. In Eastern Bengal, which is a stronghold of Islam, this proportion is still more unfavourable to Musulmans, Hindu literates exceeding them threefold.

"4. On the other hand, in the great Hindu countries of Orissa and Bihar, the small Muhammadan communities quite hold their own in the field of education, whilst in South Bihar they have decidedly the advantage."

Great as has been the advance of Bihar, it is a significant fact that the number of literate and pupil Hindus in Patna and Muzaffarpur, the two best educated districts in that sub-province, only brings them to the level of the most backward districts of Northern Bengal, which holds the lowest place among the divisions of Bengal Proper. On the other hand, a statement of the pupils and literates of different ages shows that great progress has been made in recent years in Bihar, since it is the only sub-province, besides Western Bengal, in which the proportion of males between the ages of 15 and 25 years able to read and write is greater than that of the literate over 25 years of age. In the progress of education lies the best hope of the prosperity of the Biharis. By the admixture of Hindus and Muhammadans, and the competition thereby engendered, the progress of education among the latter has been stimulated.

51. The statistics of knowledge of English now collected for the first time yield some interesting results; before they can be turned to any practical use, the figures of the next census must be awaited. Excluding students, who number 160,643, there are 158,414 males in the Lower Provinces able to read and write English, of whom 141,842 are other than Europeans, Eurasians, or Native Christians: of these, 80,108, or rather more than half, come from the metropolitan area. The number of women who can speak English, subject to the same limitations as above, is only 2,927. From a consideration of the educational statistics of Bengal during the last twenty years, the Lieutenant-Governor would have thought that Mr. O'Donnell's statistics of English-knowing people were under the mark, but assuming them to be correct, it would seem to follow that the number of natives of Bengal directly accessible to the influences of Western thought communicated through the medium of English is less than one-half per cent. of the population. Those more or less directly accessible to such or similar influences conveyed through the medium of the vernacular languages and English combined are a little over 4 per cent. of the inhabitants. But, probably, many more are indirectly influenced. What the figures will be ten years hence, or in how many years Bengal will attain to the extension of English speech which prevails in Madras, it is useless to speculate.

Languages.

52. The value of the statistics of language obtained at the census of 1891, like that of the figures for castes and tribes, is almost entirely ethnological. The inclusion of this information in the census schedule and its reproduction in the tables seems to be somewhat of an anachronism and a survival, and although the process involved an inconsiderable degree of trouble and expense, it seems questionable whether it should be undertaken again. In 1878 the Committee which met to arrange for the census of 1881 recommended as the best way of ascertaining the nationalty of each individual, the collection and compilation of figures for birth-place and mother-tongue, intending that from a combination of the two should be deduced the nationality of every individual. But the Government of India rightly recognised the difficulty of such a combination, and disapproved the proposal, directing that the two sets of figures should be separately shown. At the Agra Census Conference of 1889 the suggestion was made that information as to mother-tongue should not be asked, but the majority of the members were of opinion that for purposes of comparison with the figures of 1881, and as a check on the returns of caste and tribe in 1891, the statistics might be collected again. The figures show that Bengali is the parent-tongue of more than half the population, and Hindi that of more than one-third, Uriya being spoken by rather more than 6 per cent. of them, and the minor languages by about three millions, or nearly 4 per cent. Wherever in any district or province there is a considerable number of persons speaking a foreign language, the phenomenon has been investigated, and a satisfactory explanation given, which is almost always immigration or the importation of foreign wives.

Infirmities.

53. As in 1881, the infirmities of the people, which were deemed of sufficient importance for record in the census schedule, were insanity, total blindness, deaf-mutism and leprosy, and the following table gives succinctly the principal results of the census in regard to them:—

Infirmities.	Numbers.				Proportion in 10,000 of the population.						Number of afflicted females to 100 afflicted males.
	Males.		Females.		Males.		Females.		Both sexes.
	1881.	1891.	1881.	1891.	1881.	1891.	1881.	1891.	1881.	1891.	1881.	1891.

Deaf-mute	52,853	43,455	32,662	26,710	15	11	9	7	12	9	61·89	61·46
Lepers	42,283	34,716	14,240	11,674	12	9	4	3	8	6	33·67	33·62

There has been a large decrease in all infirmities since 1881, but the extreme similarity of the proportion of females to males among the afflicted in both years (except in the case of blindness) seems to prove the accuracy of the returns: moreover, every other province in the Empire shows a similar decrease, except in regard to blindness in the Punjab, and deaf-mutism in Madras, the North-Western Provinces and the Punjab. The position of Bengal with reference to other provinces of India is concisely explained by Mr. O'Donnell in the following passage:—

"Insanity is now most prevalent in Bengal, which takes the place held by the Punjab in 1881. Mental disease seems to be phenomenally rare in the North-Western Provinces, but the records of both censuses appear to establish the accuracy of the figures. It is a noticeable fact in this connection, as appears later on, that in Bihar, whose inhabitants nearly resemble those of the North-Western Provinces in physique and social characteristics, the same practical absence of insanity exists. As in 1881, the Punjab and the North-Western Provinces, although their relative position is reversed, suffer most from blindness, a fact due probably to the dust-storms that prevail during the hot season, and consequent ophthalmia. In Bihar, especially in the torrid area south of the Ganges, the same frequency of blindness is observed. In 1881 there were twice as many deaf and dumb in the Lower Provinces in proportion to population as in any other province, except Bombay. In 1891 the Punjab takes the first place, but this affliction is still comparatively prevalent in Bengal. In regard to the dreaded disease of leprosy, Bengal, although it shows a large diminution, still holds the first place by a long interval. Taking all infirmities together, Bengal, which nearly approached the highest Indian average (in Bombay) in 1881, is now low in the scale of the afflicted, being more exempt than any other province, except Madras."

At the present census statistics of infirmities were compiled by castes, and Mr. O'Donnell has discussed the results; but the numbers of the afflicted are so small that it is difficult to found any useful generalization upon the figures.

Insanity.

54. Insanity is most common in Bengal Proper, rare in Bihar, and almost unknown in the areas peopled by races of Dravidian descent. The decrease in the total recorded as compared with 1881 is most probably due to the more careful exclusion of idiots. The great mass of the insane are returned as between 20 and 45 years of age, the period when acquired mania is most common in all countries. The castes and races which show the largest proportion of insanes are Malos, Kochhs, and Baishnabs. The Census Superintendent, looking at the areas where insanity is most and least prevalent, makes the suggestion that much of it is due to the use of toxic drugs, a theory which finds some support from the fact that the sect or caste of Baishnab, who are understood to indulge in the use of such drugs, is so largely represented among the insane.

Blindness.

55. The report shows clearly that the castes which suffer most from blindness are those whose trade keeps them continually in a smoky atmosphere, e.g., potters, washermen and blacksmiths, while those who work much in the open air enjoy great immunity. The disease is also comparatively common among the tribes of the eastern frontier and the low and semi-Hinduized tribes of Western Bengal, Chutia Nagpur and South Bihar, the cause probably being unclean habits of life. Of the blind, 41 per cent. of the men and 53 per cent. of the women are returned as more than 50 years of age.

Deaf mutism.

56. Deaf-mutism is again shown to be most prevalent in those tracts where cretinism is common, i.e., the lower slopes of the Himalayas from Champaran to Kutch Bihar, and the districts watered by snow-fed streams from the same source. There is a decrease of 25 per cent. since 1881 in the proportion of deaf-mutes to the population, which is probably due to a more careful exclusion of those who are dumb but not deaf. The Maghs and Malos of the eastern frontier again take a high place, and other castes afflicted above the average are the Goalas and Baishnabs of Northern Bengal, and the Kamars, Sunris, Tantis, Koiris, Kahars, and Kurmis of Bihar.

Leprosy.

57. In regard to leprosy, a disorder to which so much attention has lately been directed, it is found that the total number of lepers, both male and female, has declined, but the disease is prevalent in the same areas as in 1881. This decrease probably connotes a more careful discrimination by the enumerators between mere leucoderma or white leprosy and the true tubercular and corrosive disease. One district officer suggests that the decrease in the number of lepers returned is due to a widespread rumour that all lepers were to be formally deported to asylums. No caste or district is exempt from this terrible disease; Kuch Bihar and the districts of Western Bengal suffer most severely, followed closely by those of the Orissa Division, while in the Chutia Nagpur Tributary States the disease is almost unknown. The Bediyas of Western and the Kshatryas of Northern Bengal suffer most severely, while a high proportion is also recorded for the Bauris, Khairas, Sunris, and Khatris of Western Bengal, the Malos of Eastern Bengal, and the Kamars of North Bihar. The caste statistics enable the Superintendent to refute the theory suggested in 1881, that there was considerable concealment of female lepers, and it seems to be established that this disease attacks males more frequently than females.

Castes, tribes, and races.

58. In respect of the treatment of statistics of castes, tribes, and races, the report of 1891 differs greatly from that of 1881. In 1881 the opinion was entertained that it did not come within the proper domain of the Census Superintendent's work to attempt any exhaustive treatment of so large a subject. Mr. O'Donnell, on the other hand, has devoted much time and labour to discussing the views of Messrs. Nesfield, Risley, and others on many intricate anthropological questions. Upon these matters the Lieutenant-Governor does not propose to enter, being of the opinion that their interest is ethnological rather than statistical. Since the Census Report for 1881 was written, Mr. Risley has published his "Castes and Tribes of Bengal," which, though it has not in the provisional edition supplied a workable classification of castes and an index of sub-castes as was hoped when he first undertook the task, has placed before the public a great mass of information with which Mr. O'Donnell's statistics may with much advantage be compared by experts in ethnological investigations.

59. An interesting table in Mr. O'Donnell's Chapter XV gives in juxtaposition the totals of the different castes at the three census periods—1872, 1881 and 1891, and it shows clearly a very marked agreement between the figures of the three enumerations, allowance being made for the growth of the population in each decade. The paragraphs which discuss and explain the variations of each caste are full of interest, and Mr. O'Donnell seems to the Lieutenant-Governor to show successfully that wherever there has been a real decrease in the number of any caste it can be traced either to the fact that its chief home is in an unhealthy part of the province, or to its members forbidding widow-marriage. The first explanation accounts for the great diminution in the numbers of Sadgops and Kaibarttas, who chiefly inhabit the fever-stricken Burdwan Division, while the second applies to Brahmans, Kayasths and Baniyas. Both influences have combined to reduce by 15·6 per cent., since 1872, the numbers of the great caste or tribe of Kochh, who not only inhabit the most unhealthy part of the Lower Provinces, but are also dominated at the present time by an extreme desire to raise themselves in the social scale of Hinduism—a desire which has led them to adopt with zeal the practice of infant-marriage of girls and to forbid widow-marriage.

Occupations.

60. The collection of statistics of employment has at all times and in all countries proved to be a fruitful source of labour and expense, giving quite incommensurate results. Mr. O'Donnell states that an elaborate industrial census of the German Empire was undertaken in recent times, which cost nearly a million of marks, and was no nearer statistical accuracy than the census of Bengal itself. In 1881 Mr. Bourdillon reported that the compilation of these statistics was the most tedious, complicated and delicate task in the whole of the operations of the census, and he calculated that to it must be debited at least one-third of all the labour, time and money expended upon the preparation of the census tables, while at the same time the result was of very little value. Mr. O'Donnell's experience is the same; but one serious disadvantage under which he laboured has been counterbalanced by one great advantage which did not exist in 1881. In 1881 the classification of occupations adopted for the census of Great Britain was adopted by the Government of Bengal under the orders of the Supreme Government, but the results were so unsatisfactory that Sir Ashley Eden authorised the preparation of additional tables for the Lower Provinces, based upon a classification more in accordance with the actual facts of native life. In 1891 the English system was rejected and a more appropriate classification substituted for it. But orders passed after the Agra Conference had the unfortunate effect of obscuring the occupations of women and of lessening the value of the information collected on the subject. In 1881 the enumerator was told to enter the occupation of all women who actually worked, and to enter all others as unoccupied; in 1891 his orders were these: "In the case of children and women who do not work, enter the occupation of the head of their family or of the person who supports them, but do not leave this column unfilled for any one, even an infant." The obvious intention, viz., to ascertain the number of persons dependent on each industry, was an excellent one, but the result has been disappointing, since the real facts as to female occupations in 1891 were not recorded, and it has become impossible to institute any comparison with the figures of 1881. The extent of this inconvenience is clearly set forth in the following extract from the report:—

"The immediate result of the above-quoted order was to absolutely obliterate all female occupations. It may be assumed that practically all males over 15 years of age, entered as subsisting by a profession or trade, actually work at it, but no such presumption exists in the case of women, and it is consequently impossible to discriminate between workers and dependents, say, between a lady doctor and a doctor's wife, a female landholder in her own right and a landlord's daughter, and so on. Had this uncertainty extended only to the professional or even to the commercial classes, the loss would not have been great, as we know that their women-folk are generally dependent. It is when we come to consider the great agricultural and industrial orders that the extent of the information thrown away is really felt. It is a known fact that a very large section of women of the peasant class in Bihar work in the fields in a manner that the wife of the Bengali agriculturist rarely does. The occupation returns of 1881 showed as many as 1,154,101 working agriculturists of the female sex in Bihar, against 413,972 in a population twice as numerous in Bengal Proper. Few facts would be more interesting than to determine whether these numbers have relatively changed in the past decade. There is reason to believe that poverty and an excessive population are forcing the male population of Bihar to seek the means of livelihood elsewhere, whilst their women-folk are left to till the fields at home. On the other hand, the growth of wealth in Eastern Bengal and the extension of caste ideas amongst the aboriginal races of the Western districts are causing the women of Bengal Proper to withdraw more and more from an active share in the employments of peasant life. The class of ordinary day-labourers receives from women a considerable contingent, which numbered as many as 1,101,216 in Bihar in 1881, and only 172,113 in Bengal Proper in that year. How many of the 4,169,959 female day-labourers, returned in the whole Province in 1891, are actual workers, and how these workers are distributed in the different provinces and districts, does not appear in the tables appended to this report. The number of female mill-hands employed in the jute and cotton factories of Calcutta and Howrah was a matter worth ascertaining, but the actual workers are necessarily confused with the housewives, who have no connection with these industries, except through their fathers or husbands. There is a large body of women-barbers in Bengal, but they have disappeared amidst the crowds of barbers' wives, daughters, and mothers, most of whom do not follow that occupation. In Nadia some hundreds of women used to make the earthenware figures the district is famous for. It would be interesting to determine whether this trade is passing further into female hands or the reverse. It is believed that the number of Hindu priestesses is smaller than it formerly was. The number of school-mistresses is undoubtedly increased, but they are indistinguishable from the possibly illiterate women-folk of schoolmasters, and so the degree of advance in this important guide to the development of female education is unknown. Whether the number of female medical practitioners and vaccinators is appreciably increasing is a matter of doubt, yet these and a dozen other similar questions, which the old method of enumerating occupations would fairly accurately answer, have been left in utter uncertainty, when every girl and every woman is entered under the occupation of the man who supports her."

61. In these circumstances it would serve no useful purpose to scrutinise the occupations of females. The statistics of male occupations are disorganised to a less extent, and the report contains several elaborate tables setting forth the leading points ascertained by the enumerators. Taking the figures for what they are worth, the following table gives the totals of the seven great classes by sex in the Lower Provinces:—

Occupations.	British Territory.				Feudatory States.
	Urban.		Rural.		Males.	Females.
	Males.	Females.	Males.	Females.
Class A—Government	73,657	37,677	319,247	231,276	21,046	17,786
Class B—Pasture and agriculture	328,016	255,295	22,408,157	22,546,455	1,122,119	1,094,644
Class C—Personal services	238,752	184,306	1,070,878	1,007,815	35,095	31,707
Class D—Preparation and supply of material substances	565,605	392,234	4,000,632	4,220,405	161,336	162,490
Class E—Commerce, transport, and storage	225,031	139,754	808,557	764,848	19,970	14,797
Class F—Professions	127,110	96,954	580,644	584,992	21,311	17,751
Class G—Indefinite and independent	346,963	331,432	4,379,960	4,839,245	220,104	216,113
Total	1,905,224	1,538,652	33,658,075	34,245,036	1,601,590	1,556,347

62. The pursuits of the inhabitants of Bengal are shown to be as largely agricultural as before. Among the rural population as many as 65·61 per cent. are employed in agriculture, and even in towns the percentage is as high as 16·77. In villages the indefinite class comes next with 12·01 per cent., followed by those engaged in preparing food and drink, who amount to 4·54 per cent. of the total. In the towns naturally the disproportion is not so marked; pressing closely on the 16·77 per cent. employed in agriculture, follow 15·56 per cent. in the indefinite class, 12·54 per cent. employed in personal, household and sanitary service, and 10·19 per cent. who supply food and drink; manufactures, commerce, transport and the liberal professions all return a proportion of more than 5 per cent. Much was expected from the statistics of occupations connected with interest in land, to which attention was drawn more than twenty years ago by Sir G. Campbell; but it was found that the terms employed were so numerous, and that the same terms bore in different areas meanings so discrepant that nothing but very wide grouping was possible. So again at the late census the attempt was for the first time made to ascertain what number of persons, and of what pursuits, supplement their earnings by profits derived from some interest in land. The results form Imperial Table XVIIC., and are reported to be fairly correct for twenty-one districts, well distributed over the province.

63. The whole of the operations of the census, with the exception of those relating to the census of Calcutta, were from the first conducted by Mr. O'Donnell, and the Lieutenant-Governor cordially acknowledges the ability and assiduity which he has brought to bear upon his important duties, and the general success with which his task has been discharged. A great mass of valuable information has been collected with economy and despatch, and the results have been set forth in a careful, painstaking and interesting report. Sir Antony MacDonnell has read with pleasure the testimony which the Census Superintendent bears to the willing help rendered to him by district officials not only in carrying out the elaborate arrangements which preceded the actual enumeration, but in supervising the compilation of the district figures when the enumeration was completed. These additional duties cast a heavy burden on many overworked District Officers, and the Lieutenant-Governor desires once more to express his acknowledgments to them for the loyalty with which these duties were discharged: he has already acknowledged the obligations of the Government to the numerous non-official persons who have also assisted in this great work. Mr. Lewis, the Superintendent of Government Printing, Bengal, is again mentioned in terms of praise for the excellence and rapidity with which the Press performed the heavy task involved in the preparation and despatch of myriads of enumeration books and compilation forms to many districts. The Assistant Superintendent of Census Operations, whose services have also been brought specially to the notice of Government, has already been rewarded by promotion to an appointment in Assam.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

J. A. BOURDILLON,

Offg. Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

Explanation.—... indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 0·1 inches of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 18*th July* 1893.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 15TH OF JULY 1893.

THE chief feature of the weather during the past week has been the light rainfall in the south-western districts and even over the whole of Lower Bengal as compared with the heavier falls in the northern districts.

At the beginning of the week there was, relatively to the normal, a high pressure area over the north-west of the Bay and the adjoining districts, and this may have caused the partial stoppage of monsoon weather in Orissa and parts of Chota Nagpur and South-West Bengal. The effect on the pressure distribution was seen in the greater uniformity over the Bay and Lower Bengal, but in the north of the province gradients were somewhat steeper than usual. At the same time comparatively light winds were blowing, and rainfall was almost entirely confined to North Bengal and Bihar. On the second day of the week pressure began to fall briskly, westerly winds spread over Bihar, and very heavy rain fell in some of the northern districts, but especially in Rangpur, Jalpaiguri, and Kuch Bihar. There was still excess of nearly a tenth of an inch over the whole province, but as the brisk fall of pressure continued, a shallow depression formed along the foot of the hills, and the westerly circulation of winds with the heavier rain in the northern districts continued. During the early part of the week the comparatively clear skies in Orissa, Chota Nagpur, and Lower Bengal led to slightly excessive temperature in these districts, but in the north, where heavy rain was falling, there was still comparatively cool weather. By the middle of the week the pressure distribution was nearly normal, gradients were steeper over the Bay, and rainfall was becoming more general even in Orissa. On the 13th there was very little change except that local storms began in the southern districts owing to a shallow depression which formed over South Bengal and the north of the Bay. This intensified slightly during the last two days of the week, and led to an irregularly cyclonic circulation of winds. Rainfall during these days was less heavy in the northern districts of North Bengal, but it became general in South-West and East Bengal, and continued with little change in Bihar and Chota Nagpur.

Pressure.—Changes have never been large. From being above the normal by amounts between ·1 inch and ·15 inch, readings steadily fell till they were slightly below the normal in the middle of the week. There was then practically normal distribution for a day or two, after which there was a further slow fall which resulted in a shallow depression over Lower Bengal and the north of the Bay. The mean difference from the normal for the week varies from —·011 inch in North Bengal to +·05 inch in part of Orissa and South-West Bengal.

Temperature.—As rainfall partially ceased in the south of the province during the early part of the week, temperature rose slowly, and there was a slight excess in all districts, except Assam, North Bengal, and Bihar. During the last half of the week this area of slightly excessive temperature gradually contracted, and by the 15th there was defect everywhere, greatest in Bihar, where it averaged about 3°. The means are practically normal in Orissa, Chota Nagpur, and Lower Bengal; in Bihar there is defect of rather more than 1°, in North Bengal of 2°, and in Assam of nearly 3°.

Rainfall as stated above has been light and scattered in Orissa and parts of South-West Bengal and Chota Nagpur, moderately heavy in East Bengal, and much heavier than usual in North Bengal and Bihar. The heaviest falls occurred in Kuch Bihar and parts of the adjacent districts on the 10th, when several places reported amounts between 6 and 10 inches. The total fall for the week at Mathabhanga is 16·79, at Dinhatta 15·91, Bagdogra (Nilphamari) 14·32, and Kuch Bihar 13·68 inches. The irregularity in the distribution of the rainfall continues, and in all districts, except Orissa, occasional heavy showers have been recorded. In South-West Bengal falls for the week vary between 0·1 inch at Midnapore and 6·16 inches at Suri (Birbhum); in North Bengal between 0·71 inch at Bogra and 16·79 inches at Mathabhanga; in East Bengal between 0·9 inch at Goalundo and Bhola (Backergunge) and 9·64 inches at Cox's Bazar; in North Bihar between 2·5 inches at Hajipur and 10·41 inches at Kishenganj; in South Bihar between 0·95 inch at Jamtara (Santhal Parganas) and 7·68 inches at Jahanabad; and in Chota Nagpur between 0·82 inch at Chaibassa and 6·91 inches at Ranchi. From these limits it will be seen that falls have been more uniform in North Bengal than in any of the other districts.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 15th of July 1893:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

Explanation.—... indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 0·1 inches of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 25th July 1893.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 22ND OF JULY 1893.

AT the close of the previous week a very shallow barometric depression existed in the north of the Bay, which gave rise to a series of small local storms over the southern districts, which were accompanied by rather heavy rain. On the 16th instant, or the first day of the present week, pressure increased moderately in the north of the Bay and in East Bengal and Assam, and the feeble low pressure area apparently moved inland from the Bay in a north-westerly direction. On this day the distribution of pressure over the province was nearly normal, except that pressure was low in Chota Nagpur and Western Bengal, and the monsoon current blowing was also fairly normal, though winds were a little more easterly than usual, the more pronounced easterly direction being probably produced by the low pressure in the west of the province. With these conditions general rain was reported on the 16th in all districts, the rainfall being decidedly heavy in parts of Chota Nagpur and South-West Bengal. On the 17th a further increase of pressure had occurred, and the feeble area of low pressure had again advanced in a north-westerly direction and was well to the west of Chota Nagpur. General rain continued over the province, the rainfall being again heavy at many of the western stations. On the 18th the pressure changes were small, and the feeble area of low pressure had quite ceased to affect the province. Rainfall continued general, and the falls were still heavy in the western districts. On the 19th pressure was increasing at the western stations, while winds were becoming rather westerly over this area, but on the other hand pressure continued to fall over the centre and east of the province, where winds were still south-easterly. The westerly winds just alluded to were probably an indication of the strengthening of the Bombay branch of the monsoon current, which was beginning to advance across Central India and to interact with the Bengal branch over the western districts of the province, and as a result of this interaction very heavy rain began to fall in Chota Nagpur and Bihar, while lighter general rain fell over the remainder of the province. The wave of increasing pressure extended over the greater part of the province on the 20th, and only a few stations in North-East Bengal reported a decrease. The westerly winds also forced their way further and extended over South Bihar, Chota Nagpur, Orissa and parts of South-West Bengal. The area of interaction between the two wind systems therefore also advanced in an easterly direction, and heavy rain fell in parts of Orissa, South-West Bengal and Bihar as well as in Chota Nagpur, the remainder of the province receiving lighter rain. On the 21st the westerly wind current made little progress in its advance, and the conditions of rainfall remained almost the same as on the 20th, while pressure was generally falling slowly. On the 22nd, however, a further extension of the westerly winds took place accompanied by a very decided increase of pressure, and winds became south-westerly over the greater part of the province, while a distinct area of comparatively high pressure was establishing itself over the south-western districts. With this further advance, the area of interaction of the winds and the accompanying heavy rainfall were shifted towards the east and north of the province, and rainfall became light in the western and south-western districts. Hence it will be seen that conditions during the week have been favourable for heavy rain in the west and south-west of the province, except in Orissa, while rainfall has been generally lighter elsewhere, and, compared with the normal for the week, very heavy rain has been received in Chota Nagpur and South Bihar, and moderately heavy rain in South-West Bengal and North Bihar, but all other divisions show defective falls.

Pressure has been increasing fairly steadily during the week, and hence the mean pressure now shows a distinct excess above the normal, the average excess equalling about 0·03 inch, though on the last day of the week the excess ranged from about 0·02 inch in the north of the province to 0·08 inch in Orissa.

Temperature.—Owing to the continued heaviness of the rainfall the mean temperature for the week has again been in defect of the normal, the defect ranging from 2·4° in South Bihar to 0·6° in Orissa, while the mean defect for Bengal has been 1·2°. In Assam the defect has equalled 1·5°.

Rainfall.—Compared with the normal for the week, there has been an excess fall of four inches in Chota Nagpur, an excess of 1·6 inches in South Bihar, and of about half an inch in South-West Bengal. The fall in North Bihar has been slightly more than usual, but in the remaining districts defects have been registered, the defects ranging from four-fifths of an inch in North Bengal to an inch and a third in Orissa. The actual average divisional falls have varied from nearly seven inches in Chota Nagpur to an inch and two-thirds in Orissa. The number of rainy days during the week has indeed been rather largely in excess of the normal in all districts except Orissa. In all districts except Orissa rain has fallen on four or five days during the week, but in Orissa the falls have occurred on less than two days.

Some exceptionally heavy falls are reported—Jehanabad in the Gaya district has received 15·71 inches during the week; Hazaribagh Burhi, Gobindpur, and Raghunathpur falls of from 10 to 15 inches; Balasore, Satkhira, Mankur, Jalpaiguri, Patuakhali, Rajouli, Pakri Barawan, Bikram, Shaikpura, Chuhai Bamda, Giridi, Karagdiha, Kalikapur, and Purulia falls of about 7 inches and upwards, while very numerous stations have received four and five inches.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 22nd of July 1893:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

9. When one or more impressed stamps used to denote a fee are found insufficient to admit of the entire document being written on the side of the paper which bears the stamp, so much plain paper may be joined thereto as may be necessary for the complete writing of the document, and the writing on the impressed stamps and on the plain paper shall be attested by the signature of the person or persons executing the document.

Particulars to be entered on adhesive stamps.

10. Every ex-officio or licensed vendor shall insert at the time of sale to the public the name of the purchaser, the date of sale, and the signature of the vendor on the blank space left for this purpose on each adhesive court-fee stamp.

Particulars to be entered on impressed stamps.

11. Every ex-officio or licensed vendor shall write at the time of sale on the back of every impressed court-fee stamp which he sells, the date of sale, the name of the purchaser, and the value of the stamp in full in words, and shall affix his signature to the endorsement.

NOTE.—In Calcutta and other places, where the sale of stamps of low value is so great as to render it difficult to carry out the above rules 10 and 11 in their entirety, the Board have power to relax them to such extent and in such a manner as may appear necessary, provided that no such relaxation shall apply to stamps of the value over one rupee, and that in each case the extent and manner of the relaxation shall be distinctly stated in the order, and be published for general information.

Rates of discount on court-fees.

12. Licensed vendors at all places purchasing court-fee stamps of the total value of Rs. 25 and upwards at one time, by payment of ready money, shall receive the same at a discount at the following rates:—

For stamps of the value of one rupee or less, three pies in the rupee; for stamps of higher value, one and-a-half pies in the rupee.

No discount on stamps of more than Rs. 50.

13. No discount is allowed on purchase of any stamp of which the value is more than Rs. 50. Stamps above that value are procurable from the District and the Sub-divisional Officers.

Special arrangement for vend of stamps.

14. When persons cannot be found willing to undertake the sale of judicial stamps in any locality in which the establishment of a vendor seems desirable, some person in the public service may be appointed stamp vendor on a small salary in addition to the usual rate of discount allowed to licensed vendors. This system should not, however, be introduced without the sanction of Government.

Who may be licensed stamp vendors.

15. It is the object of the Government to increase the number of stamp vendors as much as possible, so that stamps may be readily obtainable by the public. Licenses for the sale of stamps of every description should therefore be granted to any respectable person who wishes to sell them, either as a special business or as an addition to some other business which he carries on, as well as to Rural Registrars, or their muharrirs, and to postmasters with the consent of the Postmaster-General.

Every licensed vendor to keep a proper supply of stamps.

16. To meet the public demand, every licensed vendor should be required to keep a proper stock of stamps which he may be authorized to sell. If he fails to do so, his license should be cancelled.

Supply to include one-anna revenue stamps.

17. In order to afford to the public greater facilities for obtaining one-anna revenue stamps and to encourage a wider observance of the law in respect to their use, District Officers should insist on every stamp vendor keeping a sufficient stock of these stamps for sale. The keeping up of such stock should be made one of the conditions of the vendor's license, and it will be the duty of the Deputy Collector in charge of the Stamp Department in each district to see that the condition is duly observed by all vendors.

Ministerial officers not to be allowed any discount.

18. No treasurer or other subordinate officer in charge of stamps is allowed to purchase stamps at a discount for sale on his own account to the public.

Special care to be taken with adhesive stamps.

19. Extra precautions should be taken to preserve the adhesive stamps from damp, and to prevent their becoming firmly fixed together by the gum on the back. The stocks should be carefully examined and dried when necessary, and the place where they are stored should be always kept properly dry. The sheets also, as far as possible, should be kept face to face and never back to back.

Adhesive stamps to be kept in tin box within the almirah or chest in some districts.

20. As extra precautions seem to be necessary in the districts of the Presidency, Rajshahi, Dacca, Chittagong, Orissa, and Burdwan Divisions to preserve adhesive stamps from damp, the Treasury Officers of those districts are required to keep all adhesive stamps remaining in their hands in a small airtight and locked tin box within the stamp almirah or chest.

Deficiency in store to be at once reported.

21. Any deficiency that may be discovered in the store of stamps must be immediately reported both to the Superintendent of Stamps and to the Commissioner of the Division, who must report it to the Board.

Issue from double locks.

22. The Treasury Officer is to cause the store under double locks to be opened, and the required quantity of stamps to be counted and delivered to the treasurer, stamp daroga, or nazir in his presence. The number and value of stamps delivered to the treasurer, stamp daroga or nazir is to be entered in the store-book, and a balance struck at the time of delivery. This balance is to be attested by the initials of the Treasury Officer, and of the treasurer, stamp daroga, or nazir, both of whom must invariably be present during the whole time that the store under double locks, or any part of it, remains open. The deliveries shown in the store book must agree with the indent as approved.

Issue from double locks at intermediate time.

23. If the treasurer, stamp daroga, or nazir requires stamps at any intermediate time, the same process is to be observed as is prescribed in the preceding rule.

Supervision by District Officers and Commissioners.

24. District Officers should exercise a strict supervision over their treasuries in this department, and Commissioners should, in their inspectional visits, pay particular attention to the state of the stamp accounts.

Personal liability of Treasury Officer.

25. Every Treasury Officer shall be held personally liable for any loss that may occur to Government during his incumbency owing to his neglect to observe the rules.

Refund of impressed court-fee stamps and of court-fee adhesive labels.

26. When any person is possessed of impressed court-fee stamps for which he has no immediate use, or which have been spoiled or rendered unfit or useless for the purpose intended, or when any person is possessed of two or more (or, in the case of denominations below Rs. 5, four or more) court-fee adhesive labels which have never been detached from each other, and for which he has no immediate use, the Collector shall, on application, repay to him the value of such stamps or labels in money, deducting one anna in the rupee, upon such person delivering up the same to be cancelled, and proving to the Collector's satisfaction that they were purchased by him with a bonâ fide intention to use them, that he has paid the full price thereof, and that they were so purchased, or, in the case of impressed court-fee stamps, so purchased, spoiled, or rendered useless, within the period of six months preceding the date on which they are so delivered. Provided that Commissioners of Divisions may, in special cases, allow refunds when application is made within one year from the date of purchase of the stamps or labels, or, also in the case of impressed court-fee stamps, within one year from the date on which the stamps were spoiled or rendered useless.

Refund of value of stamps to vendors less one anna in the rupee.

27. In the following cases the full value of the stamps returned into store, less one anna in the rupee, shall be paid to the stamp vendors:—

(a) When the vendor resigns his license.
(b) When the license is revoked for any fault of the licensee.
(c) When the stamps are returned on the death of the vendor.
(d) When the stamps are returned on the application of the vendor for leave to restore any stamps.

Refund of value of stamps to vendors less discount.

In the following cases the full value of the stamps returned into store, less only the discount allowed on their sale, shall be paid to licensed vendors:—

(a) When stamps are returned on expiry of the license.
(b) When they are recalled by Government.
(c) When the license is revoked for any cause other than the fault of the licensee.

Stamps may be exchanged.

Provided that a licensed vendor may exchange unsold stamps, which are fit for use, for other stamps of the same kind.

Provided also that no adhesive stamp shall be received back into store, unless, in cases where the value of each label is not less than Rs. 5, there are at least two such labels which have never been detached from each other; and in cases where the value of each label is less than Rs. 5 unless there are at least four such labels which have never been detached from each other.

Refund of adhesive labels attached to impressed sheets of court-fee stamps.

28. When adhesive labels are attached to impressed sheets of court-fee stamps in accordance with the directions contained in notification by the Government of India, No. 361, dated the 18th April 1883, such labels should be regarded as impressed stamps for the purposes of refund under these rules.

Refund of the value of the stamp on the plaint presented to any civil or revenue court.

29. When a plaint disclosing a reasonable case on the merits is presented to any civil or revenue court, in such a form that the presiding judge or officer without summoning the defendant rejects it, not for any substantial defect, but on account of an entirely technical error in form only, and so as to leave the plaintiff free to prosecute precisely the same case in another form against the same defendant or defendants, the value of the stamp on the plaint shall be refunded on presentation of an application to the Collector of the district in which the court is situated, together with a certificate from the Judge or officer who rejected the plaint, that it was rejected under the circumstances above described, and that the value of the stamp should, in his opinion, be refunded.

Renewal on the certificate of the presiding officer of any court of adhesive court-fee stamps which have been rendered useless.

30. The presiding officer of any court, where adhesive court-fee stamps are used, shall, in the exercise of his discretion, be competent to issue a certificate for the renewal, free of charge, of the stamp or stamps on any document, in any case in which the rewriting of such document has, through inadvertence or accident, been in his opinion rendered necessary; or when after it has been duly stamped, and the stamps have been cancelled, it is found that the reason for presenting it to, or filing it in, the court has ceased to exist. Such certificate shall be sufficient authority to the Collector or officer in charge of a subdivision, as the case may be, to issue to the holder of the certificate other stamps of the value specified in the certificate, on delivery of the stamps which have been rendered useless.

Renewal of stamps used under section 3 of the Court-fees Act in the High Court of Calcutta, on the certificate of the taxing officer.

31. As regards stamps used under section 3 of the Court-fees Act in the High Court of Calcutta, the taxing officer mentioned in section 5 of the Court-fees Act, VII of 1870, is, in the exercise of his discretion, competent to issue a certificate for the renewal, free of charge, of the stamp or stamps on any document in cases when the rewriting of such document has, through inadvertence or accident, been, in his opinion, rendered necessary; or where, after a document has been duly stamped and the stamps cancelled, it is found that the reason for presenting it to, or filing it in, the court has ceased to exist. Such certificate shall be sufficient authority to the Collector to issue to the holder of the certificate other stamps of the value specified in the certificate, on delivery of the stamps which have been rendered useless.

Content of application.

32. Applications for refund or renewal shall be made on the printed form given below (which shall be obtained from the Superintendent of Stationery by indent in the usual way), containing the particulars required by law, with counterfoils, including the receipt to be given by the Collector and the receipt for money or fresh stamps, as the case may be, to be given by the party. No. 437.—In supersession of the Notification of this Department, No. 813, dated the 18th December 1888, the Governor-General in Council is pleased to make the following rules regarding the remuneration of Medical Officers for attendance on Native Chiefs and Nobles and Native gentlemen of high position in a Native State.

2. When a Native Chief or Noble or gentleman of high position desires the professional attendance of any Medical Officer of Government, the latter will be at liberty to attend him, provided that such attendance does not interfere with the due performance of his ordinary duties. The special permission of the Local Government will, however, be necessary when such attendance involves the absence of the officer from those duties for any substantial time.

3. The Native Chief, Noble or gentleman may offer any Medical Officer of Government attending him such fee as he thinks fit. The offer made will be reported by the Medical Officer through the Political Agent or other officer of Government exercising political functions in the State of which the said Chief, Noble or gentleman is a resident for the consideration of the Local Government within whose jurisdiction the Native State is situated. In reporting the offer, the Medical Officer will state, so far as he is able to do so consistently with his position as a medical adviser, the nature and extent of the relief afforded, the importance of the case from a professional point of view, and the circumstances under which he attended the patient. The Political Agent or officer forwarding the report will submit it with such remarks as he considers necessary. The Local Government will have authority to sanction the acceptance of any fee so reported unless the amount appears to be out of proportion to the relief afforded and to the circumstances of the case, in which event the matter will be submitted, with the Local Government's opinion, for the consideration and orders of the Government of India.

4. The report prescribed in the preceding paragraph will not be required from a Medical Officer in the following cases:

(1) When the officer names his own charge in accordance with a scale which he has fixed for his patients generally who are not Native Princes or Chiefs, and when such charge is accepted by the patient; and

(2) When the officer and patient reside in the same station and the fee does not exceed Rs. 50 for each visit, or Rs. 1,000 in the aggregate for repeated visits during the course of a year.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

REVISED ADVERTISEMENT.

A Dictionary of the Economic Products of India

BY DR. GEO. WATT, C.I.E.

Reporter on Economic Products.

Published under the authority of the Government of India in the Revenue and Agricultural Department.

The first five volumes of this work are now ready for issue, and intending subscribers are invited to register their names with the Superintendent of Government Printing, Calcutta.

The first five volumes and Vol. VI, Part I, and II of theDictionary are now ready at theOffice of Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is Rs 45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, for which a separate charge will be made): packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume; for England, Rs. 2-6 per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, Rs. 6 and 8 shillings, respectively, will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets; &c. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks, and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal octavo pages; Vol. II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Vol. III contains the letters D, E, F and half of G. Vol. IV latter half of G to middle of L; and Vol. V contains the latter half of L to end of O; Vol. VI, which will consist of four parts) Part I contains letters P to R. The whole work will, it is expected, be completed in nine volumes (including Parts II to IV of Vol. VI) during the current year; but a tenth volume may also be issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index will practically be a Glossary of the vernacular and European names of the plants, animals and minerals of India, and as such will be a work of reference, which, it is hoped, may prove of considerable value.

WITH reference to Notice to Mariners, No. 108, dated 1st May 1893, issued by this office, the British Admiralty has given further notice, that on 9th May 1893, a light was exhibited from the light-house recently erected on Wag lan islet, Putoy group, western side of approach to Hongkong by the Tathong channel:—

Wag lan islet light is a double flashing white light (dioptric of the first order), showing flashes at intervals of half a minute. It is elevated 225 feet above the sea, and should be visible in clear weather, where not obscured by the land, from a distance of about 21 miles.

For the present the light will only show with about one-third of its maximum intensity towards the land, between the bearings of N. by E., through east, and S.E. by S.

The light-house, situated on the summit of the islet, is 52 feet high, constructed of iron, and cylindrical in shape. The lower half is painted white, the upper half red, the lantern and keepers' dwellings white.

Approximate position, lat. 22° 11¼′ N., long. 114° 18¼′ E.

Also, that from the establishment of Wag lan islet light, the keepers, on hearing a bell, horn, steam whistle, or other sound indicating the proximity of a vessel, will fire two guns with an interval of fifteen seconds between them, and if the vessel's fog signal—showing that she is under way—continues to be heard, the guns are repeated after an interval of twelve minutes.

CHINA SEA—NATUNA ISLAND.

Reefs and wrecks near Pulo Laut.

NOTICE to Mariners No. 306 of 1893 issued by the British Admiralty is republished :—

The following information concerning certain reefs and wrecks near Pulo Laut, or North Natuna island, has been received from H.M.S. Archer, dated 3rd May 1893 :—

1. Reefs which usually break at half tide, and which dry in places at low water spring tides, fringe the south-east coast of Pulo Laut for a distance of about 4 miles. The soundings for about one mile south-east of the outer edge of the reefs are 8 to 13 fathoms over uneven ground, thence depths of 18 to 20 fathoms, sand and coral bottom, were obtained till nearing Batu Penuh.

2. The wreck of the Swedish barque Doris lies on the abovementioned reef in about one foot at low water, with the east extreme of Sto Kong islet bearing N. $\frac{1}{8}$ E., and the south-east extreme of Pulo Laut W. by N., distant about $3\frac{1}{4}$ miles. Approximate position, lat. 4° 41′ N., long. 108° 2′ E.

3. Batu Penuh, shown with $5\frac{3}{4}$ fathoms water on it, is an extensive shoal, composed of coral and white sand. A depth of $3\frac{3}{4}$ fathoms (at about low water) were obtained with the south-east extreme of Pulo Laut bearing W.N.W., distant $8\frac{3}{4}$ miles. Approximate position lat. 4° 38½′ N., long. 108° 6½′ E. Belknap rock, on which the American ship, Robert L. Belknap, was wrecked, forms a part of the abovementioned shoal. (See Notice to Mariners, No. 230 of 1893.)

4. The cylinders of a steamer with two piston rods on Gloria shoal uncover at low water, and resemble a rock awash.

Approximate position, lat. 4° 36′ N., long. 107° 59′ E.

CAUTION.—The waters surrounding this group are most imperfectly known.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

The Hon'ble the President said:—"Gentlemen—Before we proceed to the business for which we are assembled, I wish to offer a few words of cordial welcome to the hon'ble members who appear in this chamber for the first time, and to congratulate the Council on its enlarged functions and wider sphere of usefulness. It is now 300 years, all but seven, since the Charter of Queen Elizabeth conferred on the Company of Merchants trading to the East Indies the power 'to make, ordain and constitute such and so many reasonable laws' as their enterprise required; and since then our legislative power in India has undergone various vicissitudes. Remaining in practical abeyance in the 17th century, it was not till the latter half of the 18th century that it was brought into active operation. You are all familiar with the difficulties to which the subjection of the legislative power to the veto of the judicial authorities led in the time of Mr. Hastings, and with the struggles which in the end of the last century resulted in the abolition of the veto. You are acquainted with the circumstances under which, in 1813, the powers of the Legislative Councils of all three Presidencies were enlarged and brought more into touch with the Government in England; and you know that the complications produced by the exercise of these extended powers in the Madras and Bombay Councils led to their disfranchisement in 1834, and to the concentration of all legislative authority in the Council of the Governor General. And you view, with perhaps something of an antiquarian interest, the introduction in 1853 of the judicial element into the Council, in the persons of two Judges of the Calcutta Supreme Court and the first faint glimmering of representation in the official nominees of the Governments of Madras, Bombay, Bengal and Agra. These various stages led up to the Act of 1861, by which a long step was taken in the direction of that liberal policy of which the Act of 1892 is a fuller realisation.

"Until 1861, then, Indian Legislative Councils were practically the executive Government acting in a legislative capacity, and according to modern notions that is not often a suitable arrangement. But, judged by practical results, the system on the whole worked well, and our Statute Book, from Lord Cornwallis's days to the days of the Penal Code, is no unworthy monument of the sagacity and the practical statesmanship of our predecessors.

"Thirty years ago, gentlemen, the old order of things had already begun to change, giving way to the new; our educational policy, ever to be associated with the names of Lord Macaulay, Lord Hallifax, and Mr. John Stuart Mill, had begun to take effect, and the change was stimulated by the transfer of the Government from the East India Company to the Crown. An early and expected effect of the extension of English education was the growth of a greater independence of thought on the part of the leaders of native society, and a fuller and freer criticism of the proceedings of Government. The number of Indian gentlemen who became accessible to the influences which swayed public opinion in England, and of those who were indirectly open to the same influence, increased rapidly. The time had come for a closer association of native gentlemen of light and leading with the Government of the country; and the prompt recognition of this fact will ever be connected with the honoured name of Canning.

"The establishment of local Legislative Councils and the addition of the native element brought our legislative system abreast of the public opinion of the day, and the results which have been attained are the best justification of the policy which inspired the Indian Councils Act of 1861. In Bengal, that policy has been entirely successful. No enactment on the long list of Bengal Statutes can be pointed to which was not called for by public necessity, or is not instinct with the spirit of public duty. And if this be largely due to the broader sympathies and keener sense of responsibility, which are the product of modern times, it must be admitted that it is also due to the beneficial influences exercised by the native members of this Council on the legislation which has taken place.

"Gentlemen, to such an inheritance of honourable tradition you now succeed in peculiarly auspicious circumstances. The desire of the educated and forward sections of Indian society in these Provinces has been expressed in favour of more extended political privileges, and the Government has met that expression of opinion in the way most consonant with constitutional usage and most conducive to solid progress. The various influential public bodies to which the privilege of recommending Members of Council has been entrusted have received their mandate with gratification and have fulfilled it with propriety and self-respect. The very eagerness which other bodies of less, though still of considerable, influence have exhibited to share in the privilege is proof, if any were wanted, of the value they set upon it. All these considerations invest our meeting to-day with special interest. The occasion is a landmark which will be memorable in the constitutional history of the country. I am confident, gentlemen, that our deliberations will be always worthy of these high auspices, and that we shall ever approach the consideration of the questions with which we may have to deal in no spirit of factious criticism, but with the object of advancing the best interests of the people and maintaining the dignity of the Empire."

BENGAL PROVINCIAL SERVICE.

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee asked:—

What effect has been given to the notification issued in the Calcutta Gazette of the 5th April last, announcing that six posts of District and Sessions Judge, four posts of Collector and Magistrate of a district, one post of Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue, and one post of Under-Secretary to Government and some other subordinate appointments have been thrown open to the Bengal Provincial Service; and how many members of the Provincial Service have been appointed District Judges and Magistrate-Collectors, and if any member of the Provincial Service has been appointed Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue or Under-Secretary to Government?

The Hon'ble Mr. Cotton replied:—

"The effect of the notification published in the Calcutta Gazette of the 5th April last is qualified by paragraph 6 of the Resolution of the Government of India, No $\frac{2}{1343}$C.Rev., dated the 21st April, 1892, which was published in the Gazette of India of the 23rd April, 1892, which declares that until all the existing statutory civil servants are provided for either by promotion or by amalgamation with the new Provincial Service, and until the prior claim of officers of the Civil Service of India and Commissions has been satisfied, the twenty posts referred to in the question cannot be thrown into the general cadre of the Provincial Service. There are now ten statutory civilians, of whom one, Mr. Brojendra Kumar Seal, holds the substantive appointment of a District Judge of the 1st grade, four hold the substantive appointment of Joint-Magistrate of the first grade, and five hold the substantive appointment of Joint-Magistrate of the second grade. Of the first grade Joint-Magistrates, three, viz., Mr. Nunda Krishna Bose, Kumar Gopendra Krishna Deb, and Mr. Ambika Churun Sen, are at present officiating as Magistrates and Collectors of districts. None of the statutory civilians, except Mr. Seal, are yet of sufficient standing in the service to be substantively promoted to the grade of District Judge or Magistrate and Collector of a district, but all of them have officiated in such appointments. In addition to these ten officers, there are three ex-statutory civilians who have been transferred to the Bengal Provincial Service. One of these officers, Mr. Umesh Chunder Batabyal, is now officiating as Magistrate and Collector of a district; another, Rai Nundo Kissore Das Bahadur, is holding a special appointment as District Officer of Angul and the Khond Mahals. The third is still a probationer, as he has not yet passed the departmental examinations. There are thus thirteen officers belonging to the Statutory and Provincial Services who are now holding posts ordinarily held by members of the Civil Service of India, to which the question refers. No member of the Provincial Service has yet been appointed to be Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue or Under-Secretary to Government."

NATIVE ASSISTANT SUPERINTENDENTS OF POLICE.

The HON'BLE BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked:—

What is the number of Native Inspectors, together with their names, who, since the date of the report of the Public Service Commission, have been appointed to the grade of Assistant Superintendent of Police?

The HON'BLE MR. COTTON replied:—

"The number is two, viz., Babu Ras Behary Biswas, appointed on the 19th January, 1891, and Maulvi Zinnet Hosain Khan appointed on the 23rd June, 1892."

THE BENGAL GOVERNMENT'S SUMMER HEAD-QUARTERS.

The HON'BLE MR. GHOSE, in the absence of the HON'BLE MR. BONNERJEE, asked:—

(a) For how many years has Darjeeling been the head-quarters of His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal during the hot weather?

(b) What used to be His Honour's hot-weather head-quarters before Darjeeling became such quarters?

(c) Has any additional cost been incurred by reason of Darjeeling becoming such quarters? If so, what has been the additional cost per annum since Darjeeling became such quarters, and from what funds has such additional cost been defrayed?

The HON'BLE MR. BOURDILLON replied:—

"(a) For about 30 years.

"(b) Various places, including Calcutta, Darjeeling, Parasnath Hill and Bhagalpur, at the discretion of the Lieutenant-Governor for the time being.

"(c) Additional cost has been incurred, which is defrayed from the public revenues. I have this morning received an unofficial letter from the Accountant-General of Bengal, in which he states that it is not possible to furnish figures for the earlier years of the period to which the question refers, because formerly accounts of this expenditure were not separately kept. Since 1888-89, however, these charges have been separately recorded, and the figures from that year will be furnished to the hon'ble member."

THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR'S TOURS.

The HON'BLE MR. GHOSE, in the absence of the HON'BLE MR. BONNERJEE, asked:—

(a) How many tours did the present permanent Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal undertake from the time he took charge of his office to the time he went away on leave in May last?

(b) From what funds were the expenses of such tours defrayed, and if they were defrayed from the public revenues, what were the amounts of the expenses of each such tour?

The Hon'ble Mr. Bourdillon replied:—

"(a) Fourteen tours.

"(b) The expenses of such tours are defrayed from a lump allowance for tours and miscellaneous expenditure, which is a charge upon the public revenues, and under Article 1275 of the Civil Service Regulations is controlled by the Lieutenant-Governor. Details of the expenditure for each tour cannot be furnished."

THE MYMENSINGH CASE.

The Hon'ble Mr. Ghose, in the absence of the Hon'ble Mr. Bonnerjee, asked:—

(a) Has the attention of His Honour the Officiating Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal been called to the case printed as an appendix to the pamphlet called "Official Prestige versus the Liberty of the Subject"?

(b) Did the proceedings as printed in the appendix take place?

(c) Did His Honour approve of the proceedings? If not, will he, if he has not already done so, signify his disapproval to the officers concerned?

The Hon'ble Mr. Cotton replied:—

"(a) The attention of the Officiating Lieutenant-Governor has been drawn to the case referred to by the receipt of the pamphlet.

"(b) No official enquiry has been made to ascertain whether the proceedings as printed in the appendix took place.

"(c) The Officiating Lieutenant-Governor expresses no opinion on the report of the proceedings which purport to have taken place eighteen months ago, and in regard to which it was competent for any parties who may have considered themselves aggrieved to seek for their remedy in the proper quarter at the time."

BRITISH SUBJECTS MADE OVER ON WARRANTS TO THE FRENCH POLICE AUTHORITIES.

The Hon'ble Mr. Ghose, in the absence of the Hon'ble Mr. Bonnerjee, asked:—

Is His Honour aware that several British subjects are now in prison awaiting trial at Chandernagore who were handed over to the French Police authorities by the British Police without such British subjects being brought before any British Magistrate and without any investigation before such British Magistrate? If not, will he enquire whether the fact mentioned in this question is true or not?

The Hon'ble Mr. Cotton replied:—

"The Officiating Lieutenant-Governor believes that the facts stated in this question are correct; the arrests having been made on warrants duly transmitted for execution by the French Government."

MUNICIPAL SANITATION PRIOR TO ACT XXVI OF 1850.

The Hon'ble Mr. Ghose, in the absence of the Hon'ble Mr. Bonnerjee, asked:—

(a) Who were the Municipal and Sanitary authorities of the towns of Bengal, except Calcutta and Howrah, at the time Act XXVI of 1850 of the Legislative Council of India was passed?

(b) What steps, if any, did these authorities take for the proper drainage, water-supply or sanitation of the towns in their respective charge?

The Hon'ble Mr. Bourdillon replied :—

"(a) and (b).—It is understood that there were no municipal authorities in the towns of Bengal at the time Act XXVI of 1850 was passed. It is believed that the Magistrate and the Civil Surgeon attended to sanitation so far as was practicable."

INSPECTION OF TEA GARDENS.

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee asked:—

What steps, if any, have been taken by the Government to ensure the efficient inspection of tea-gardens in the Dooars and the proper protection of coolies employed therein, with a view of remedying the evils pointed out by the Hon'ble Judges of the High Court, and published in the newspapers in their appellate decision in the case of Empress versus George Murray?

The Hon'ble Mr. Risley replied:—

"The Commissioner of the Rajshahi Division was officially requested on the 9th instant to submit a full report to the Lieutenant-Governor on the suggestion made in connection with the case referred to in the question by the Hon'ble Judges of the High Court as to the necessity of inspection of tea-gardens in the Dooars. It is to be remembered that the labourers employed in Dooar tea-gardens are free labourers not affected by any Labour Law."

BENGAL MUNICIPAL ACT, 1884, AMENDMENT BILL.

The Hon'ble Mr. Risley said :—"Mr. President—Before the motion which stands in my name is put to the Council, I propose with your permission to make a statement, as brief as may be, reviewing the various stages through which the Bill to amend the Bengal Municipal Act of 1884 has passed, and indicating the general line of policy which the Government propose to adopt in respect of some of its more important provisions. It will be remembered that the Bill was introduced into Council on the 16th July last year, and was at once referred to a Select Committee. While in the hands of the Committee, numerous alterations and additions were made in it, some of which involved important questions of principle. For this reason the Committee recommended, in their Preliminary Report of the 25th August, 1892, that the Bill as amended should be republished for general comment, and, together with the opinions received, be again referred to the public before being taken into consideration by the Council. On the 30th August the Bill and the Report of the Committee were accordingly circulated to District Officers, Municipal Commissioners and Public Associations, with a letter explaining more fully the points upon which their opinions were invited. In reply to this circular, a very large mass of literature has been received, which the Select Committee—now somewhat reduced in numbers—have endeavoured to deal with. A revised Bill has been prepared, but since then some important opinions have been received, and for this and other reasons the measure is hardly yet ready to be finally laid before Council. I am confident therefore that I express the views of my colleagues on the Committee when I say that we not only feel that the addition to our number of two elected representatives of Municipal interests will be a source of strength to the Committee, and will add authority to our conclusions, but that we fully realise the advantage we shall derive from discussing the Bill, section by section, with gentlemen who have actual and recent experience of municipal administration. It may further be expected that our deliberations will have the effect of reducing the number of points upon which discussion is likely to arise when the Bill is again laid before Council for the consideration of its clauses.

"Although many of the sections of the Bill have not yet assumed their final form, and the ultimate decision regarding them must depend greatly on the view taken of them by the Select Committee as now to be enlarged, there are some provisions of such importance that it seems desirable to take the present opportunity of stating how it is proposed to deal with them.

"In the first place then, it seems proper that I should make mention of the fact that a recent decision of a Full Bench of the High Court has reversed the decision of the Hon'ble Judges in the case of Mohini Chandra Paul and another against the Municipality of Kushtea. In this case, as was explained in the Statement of Objects and Reasons annexed to the Bill as originally introduced, the High Court held that a notification by the Government of Bengal, dated the 18th March, extending Part VII, Chapter II, of the Bengal Municipal Act V of 1876 to the Municipality of Kushtea, was not a 'notification' within the meaning of section 2 of the Bengal Municipal Act III of 1884, but an 'order,' and that, as that section contains no provision saving all orders made under the former Act, none of the provisions of Part VI of the present Act, corresponding to Part VII, Chapter II of the old Act, were in force in Kushtia or in any other municipality to which they had not been extended by the present Act. The practical meaning of this was that a large number of municipalities found themselves stripped of their legal power to deal with a number of sanitary matters, to regulate buildings, obstructions and encroachments on roads, burial and burning grounds, offensive and dangerous trades, and the like. The difficulty thus created might have been met in two ways—by issuing fresh notifications under the present law or by amending the Act. It was thought better to adopt the latter alternative as being the simplest means of attaining the end in view, while the procedure for issuing fresh notifications is cumbrous and elaborate. At the same time it was decided, at the suggestion of the Government of India, to take the opportunity of making an exhaustive inquiry into the working of the Act with a view to the inclusion of all amendments which experience had shown to be desirable. When this decision was arrived at, the probability that a Full Bench of the High Court might reverse the judgment in the Kushtia case was taken into consideration, and it was held that that event, even if it occurred before the Bill was introduced into Council at all, would not be of itself a reason for abandoning the intention to amend the law. What was contemplated as possible two years ago has now actually happened. A Full Bench of the High Court has overruled the Kushtia case and has restored to the municipalities the legal powers of which they had been for a time denuded. Meanwhile, the Bill has been gathering to itself, as it rolled onward, fresh provisions drawn from the experience of the many critics, official and non-official, who have handled the subject, and it now aims at embodying several important administrative reforms, and at clearing up several practical difficulties regarding which public opinion is sufficiently unanimous, to make it clear that the amendment of the law ought to be proceeded with.

"The sections dealing with the introduction of schemes of water-supply and drainage give effect to a Resolution which was carried, with one dissentient voice, by a representative Conference held at Belvedere about this time last year. The Resolution in question was to the effect that, in the opinion of the Conference, it was expedient that the Local Government should be empowered to require municipalities to undertake projects of drainage and water-supply, it being provided at the same time, on the suggestion of the Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee, that each such scheme, with the reasons for compulsory action, should be published in the Calcutta Gazette, and opportunity given to the municipalities to show cause against such compulsion. The Government approves of the principle of these sections and proposes to proceed with them subject to certain minor changes, which I shall lay before the Select Committee, having for their object to make more efficient provision for voluntary action on the part of Municipal Commissioners, and for assisting them to get adequate professional supervision for sanctioned projects—a point which recent experience has shown to be one of considerable importance.

"Another important question which has received careful consideration is that of the appointment of an assessor. While adhering to the principle embodied in sections 32—39 of the Bill, the essential provisions of which have been adapted from English Municipal law, the Government is prepared to admit that there may be room for modification of details, and that there is much to be said for the opinion that the sections as drafted go too far in that they render it compulsory for all municipalities, small and great, well managed and ill managed, to provide themselves with an assessor. If then it is desired to make this portion of the law more elastic and more readily adaptible to varying circumstances and requirements, the best plan would probably be to empower the Local Government to require any municipality to appoint an assessor, and to group municipalities for this purpose, and apportion the cost so as to provide for the case of a number of small municipalities having one assessor between them, other minor points being left to be provided for by rule.

"What I have just said about the desirability of making the assessor sections more elastic appears to apply in some measure to the Act itself. It is, I believe, a recognised principle in modern legislation, whether English or Indian, that matters of detail, which are liable to vary from time to time, should be dealt with, as far as possible, by rules having the force of law, adequate provision being of course made for notifying such rules to the persons likely to be affected by them, and for giving them an opportunity to object. For convenience of reference the subjects reserved for rule-making are grouped together in a single section, which enumerates the matters regarding which rules can be made. In the Bengal Local Self-Government Act this system has been adopted and has been found to work well, and a definite proposal to introduce into the Municipal Act a rule-making section, based partly on that Act and partly on the more modern municipal legislation of other provinces, will be laid before the Select Committee for their consideration.

"The only other sections which I need mention at present are those dealing with the cleansing of private privies and cesspools (sections 49 and 70—73 of the Bill as provisionally amended by the Select Committee). It appears from the opinions which have been received, and more particularly from a valuable note, for which I may be permitted to express my obligations to the Hon'ble Syed Fazl Imam, who, as Vice-Chairman of the Patna Municipality, has had special experience of this difficult subject, it appears, I say, from these opinions, that those sections, which proceed on a novel principle, will have the effect of materially reducing the municipal income under this head in a direction which was not contemplated. No doubt this portion of the law needs some reform, but the changes suggested in the draft Bill seem to go too far, and the better course would apparently be to adhere in the main to the existing law, merely taking the opportunity to clear up doubtful points as to the holdings liable to be taxed for the cleansing of privies and relieving the poorer classes, by providing that the fee for cleansing latrines shall in no case exceed the house-tax or personal tax actually paid. This, it is believed, will remove what is felt to be a very great grievance."

The Hon'ble Mr. Risley moved that the Hon'ble Messrs. Lyall, Collier and Ghose and the Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee be added to the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the Bengal Municipal Act, III of 1884.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Council adjourned sine die.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

o, overcast ; g, gloomy ; d, drizzling rain ; t, thunder; p, passing temporary showers.

* Mean of 6 days.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period
The Humidity of the atmosphere is expressed at percentage, saturated air being presented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 0 rainfall the normal mean are the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the subdivisional station district, i.e., from total rainfall at the subdivisional stations in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one for the week ending Saturday, the 29th of July 1893.

Explanation.—... indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 0·1 inches of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 1st August 1893.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 29TH OF JULY 1893.

DURING the previous week a westerly wind current had gradually advanced over the province, and at its close westerly and south-westerly winds were reported at all except a few stations in the extreme eastern and northern districts. This was accompanied by the establishment of an area of decidedly high pressure over the southern and south-western districts, and on the 23rd, or the first day of the present week, there was an excess pressure above the normal of the day of about 0·06 inch over this area. Over the central parts of the province pressure was also in slight excess, but a distinct defect was registered in parts of North Bengal and North Bihar. This distribution of pressure hence caused the monsoon current to set away from the west of the province towards the east, and from the east to the north of Bengal. Conditions were therefore still favourable for rainfall in the north and to a certain extent in the east of the province, but the pressure conditions were unfavourable for the continuance of rainfall in the western and south-western districts. On the 24th there was a general fall of pressure over the province, and the distribution became rather more normal than it had been, but south-westerly winds still prevailed in most districts. On the 25th pressure again fell in Orissa, and partly in the southern districts, while it was rising elsewhere, particularly in Bihar, so that the area of high pressure in the extreme west of the province tended to re-establish itself. This was succeeded on the 26th by a further rather rapid general increase of pressure, and a decided area of comparatively high pressure again covered the western half of the province, and this area gradually extended on the 27th and 28th until it reached South-East Bengal, but on the 29th a moderate fall of pressure commenced, tending to partially efface this abnormal distribution of pressure With this unusual distribution of pressure existing for a considerable part of the week, the monsoon current has been deflected to a great extent towards the east of the province, and thence along the foot of the hills to the northern districts, while the western and south-western districts have not been much influenced by it. Indeed, during the second-half of the week a partial break in the rains obtained over Orissa, South-West Bengal, South Bihar and Chota Nagpur, and it even extended for a day or two to North Bengal, but the break was never complete, and in the eastern districts and in Assam rainfall has continued throughout the week. Hence the rainfall for the week has been in large defect from the normal in Orissa, Chota Nagpur and South Bihar, and in moderate defect in South-West Bengal. The falls have been about normal in amount in North Bihar and East Bengal, but on the other hand in North Bengal the quantity of rain received has been more than twice as great as usual.

Pressure.—The mean pressure of the province for the week has been in excess of the normal in all divisions. The usual excess in Chota Nagpur and South-West Bengal has been about 0·04″ to 0·05″, and in most other districts it has been from about 0·02″ to 0·025″, while in Assam it has only equalled 0·008.″ This abnormal distribution it will be seen would have the natural effect of deflecting the monsoon current away from the west towards the east and north of the province.

Temperature.—The variations of temperature over the province from day to day have been quite unimportant, but with the comparative lightness of the rainfall over a large area the mean temperature has ranged much higher than usual, and thus excess temperatures of from about 1° to 2° have been recorded in Chota Nagpur, Orissa and South-West Bengal, and smaller excess temperatures have been recorded in South Bihar and East Bengal. On the other hand defects of about a degree have been registered in North Bengal and North Bihar. In the whole of Bengal for the week the mean temperature has been about 0·5° in excess of the normal. In Assam also a considerable excess of 1·8° has been recorded.

Rainfall—Has been heaviest in North Bengal, which has received an average amount of 5·87 inches, or rather more than three inches in excess of the normal. East Bengal has received 4·06 inches, or slightly more than usual. In South-West Bengal and North Bihar the falls have varied from two to three inches, while in Chota Nagpur and South Bihar they have been little more than an inch. Finally, the falls have been smallest in Orissa, which has only received 0·71 inch. Expressed as a percentage of the normal fall for the period, the following are the amounts which have been received:—North Bengal 208 per cent., East Bengal 109 per cent., North Bihar 105 per cent., South-West Bengal 74 per cent., Chota Nagpur 43 per cent., South Bihar 37 per cent., and Orissa 23 per cent only.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 29th of July 1893:—
